BARTL'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Went down in a Lee Court Cave Hole. Taken Out With Some Difficulty—A Disagreeable Experience. Edmund A. Bartl, the mining engineer, nearly lost his life Monday while directing the work of filling in the cave in Lee court, between Vio and Olive streets.

He was standing on the pile of earth and culm which had been flushed into the hole when the mass dropped without warning nearly six feet. Engineer Bartl was sucked down with the fall until his body was encased nearly to his shoulders. Fortunately, he stood about over the center of the cave with his feet resting upon a small board.

DECISIVE VICTORY

Entire Republican County Ticket Is Elected by Good-Sized Pluralities.

THE RETURNS COME IN SLOW

At 2 O'Clock This Morning Returns from Fifty of the One Hundred and Thirty-Eight Districts of the County Demonstrate That the Entire Republican Ticket Is Safe.

A most decisive Republican victory was won yesterday. The returns up to 2 o'clock this morning indicate the election of the entire Republican county ticket by good sized pluralities. On account of the large ticket returns came in slowly, but the evidence of Republican gains in all parts of the county warrants the statement that the entire Republican ticket is elected.

At 2 o'clock this morning returns from fifty of the 138 election districts of the county made it certain that Judge Archbold's plurality will be between 1,000 and 1,500; that of Clemens, 500; Davis, the same; Vaughan at least 1,500, and the remainder of the ticket will have pluralities ranging from 500 to 1,000.

HOW BATTLE WAS FOUGHT.

Heavy Voting Everywhere, and but Little Disturbance Reported. No more earnest battle was ever fought in this county than that which came to a close at 7 o'clock last evening. The weather was sharp and cold, making loitering about polling places anything but agreeable. As a consequence very little excitement was manifested in the great majority of election districts, but this did not indicate apathy on the part of the citizens, as the heavy vote polled everywhere shows.

Voting was done generally in a very business like way. The voter came to the polling place, deposited his ballot and then proceeded to attend to usual business.

Every district in the county was manned by active workers of the different parties, who did their best to roll up big majorities for their favorites. Occasionally these workers became over-zealous and a trouble ensued. No disturbances of a very serious nature, however, were reported during the day.

A Big Morning Vote. In the Eighth, Sixteenth, Ninth and Seventeenth wards of this city a bigger vote was polled during the early hours of the day than was ever known at a previous election. The total vote cast was also exceptionally large.

On the West Side the vote also came out early, but on the South Side the Seventh ward and in some of the North End districts the bulk of the vote was polled after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

At Republican headquarters the most encouraging reports were received all day of the progress of the battle. Everywhere throughout the county Republicans had rallied nobly to the support of the men who had been so grossly reviled by the local organ of the Democratic party. The campaign of abuse had also had an opposite effect from that contemplated, for many life-long Democrats, who love fair play and justice, recorded their votes against the candidates in whose interests the mud-slinging campaign was waged.

Slashing Democratic Candidates. The officials at Democratic headquarters were kept on the anxious seat all day by the reports of trouble that were wafted in from all parts of the county. Here one candidate was being knifed and there another. The old factional fights of the Democratic leaders had broken out among their followers and the campaign managers were in despair.

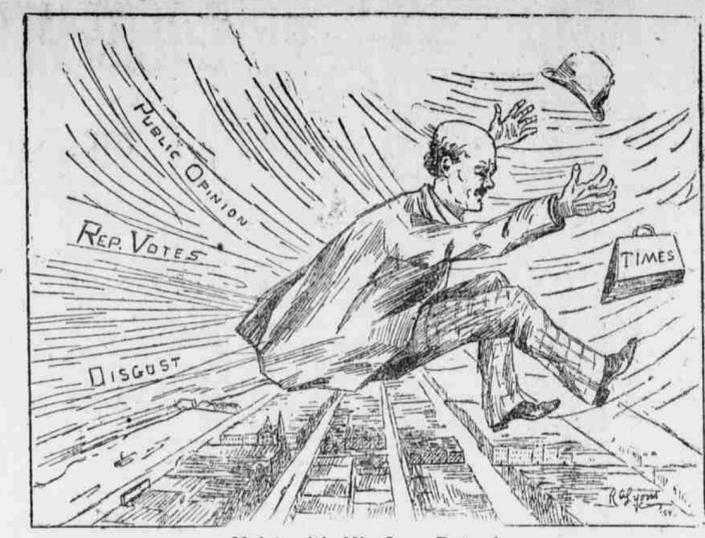

At Old Forge and Lackawanna Kelly and Fahy were being slaughtered. It was said, while reports from Olyphant told a similar story about these candidates, who seemed particularly marked out for the vengeance of discontented Democrats.

In other places Smith was the objectionable candidate and in others Schadt and Koehler suffered. It seemed as the day waned as if the carefully arranged plan of battle was falling apart everywhere and trusted. Lieutenants were turned loose in all directions to try and close up the gaps in the ranks of Democracy. When the 7 o'clock bell announced that the voting was over the Democratic leaders were devoutly thankful.

But Few Disturbances. When the city polling places had closed at 7 o'clock it was the opinion of the police that fewer fights and disturbances had occurred than on any previous state and county election day. At intervals reports were received at police headquarters that fights were in progress and that extra policemen were needed in certain districts, but in each case it was found that the rumors were exaggerated and that good order prevailed generally.

The most troublesome wards to the police were the Seventh, Eleventh, Twelfth and Twentieth. In the Seventh ward, Third district, a dispute arose in the booth at 6:30 o'clock and the interior was not cleared so that tardy voters could not enter until a half hour later. Intense excitement and hard words prevailed, and in the confusion several unauthorized persons got inside. The trouble was occasioned by challenges and only a few votes were polled between 6:30 and 7 o'clock in consequence.

In the Third district of the Eleventh ward a drunken crowd created considerable excitement all the afternoon and the same state of affairs existed in the several districts of the Twelfth. Blows were exchanged and many quarrels occurred, but no arrests were made and none of the disturbances affected the duties of the election officers. At McHugh's hotel on North Main avenue, West Side, a discussion arose yesterday morning and Michael McDonald, of the Twenty-first ward, drew a revolver and pointed it at men who were in the place. In his excitement, the weapon dropped from his hand. McDonald was turned over to Lieutenant Davies and Officer Lowry, who placed him in the station house.

RECEIVING THE RETURNS.

Scenes at Republican Headquarters. Republican headquarters in the Price building on Washington avenue was packed to its utmost capacity from 8 o'clock in the evening. Soon after this hour returns and estimates began to arrive from New York city and state and Massachusetts, and at 10 o'clock the returns from Lackawanna county came in by telephone and telegraph. Colonel E. H. Ripple, chairman of the county committee, had charge of the arrangements of tabulating, the work being performed by a force of clerks as fast as each district was heard from.

The crowd which filled the main room of headquarters spread out into the hallway and into the suite of the Central Republican club. Traveling men from various sections of the country were mingled with residents of the city and county. A coterie of New York state drummers occupied a number of front seats and grew joyful in proportion to the increasing reports of Republican gains in the Empire state.

During the early evening hours when the returns began to come from New York city and state the good feeling and jubilation first asserted itself. When the United Press message arrived containing Hill's conceded majority of 100,000 to Morton in New York state, the applause and shouts were almost deafening and continued almost uninterrupted during the reports of Republican majorities in New York city.

A sample of the fun of the evening was furnished by Mine Engineer Bartl. He had a rubber whistle, which, when inflated, presented the caricature of a fat man who collapsed with the escaping air. The whistle would be held aloft and an announcement made like "This is an Eight-man manufacturer, but the figure collapsed, the remark would be made "This is an American manufacturer." This and similar frolics occupied the intervals between messages.

WHAT THE DEMOCRATS DID.

They Received Returns at the Armory and Enthused When They Could. The Democratic county committee received returns at the armory, which was well filled, until after midnight. There was a absence of enthusiasm and very few of the leading lights of Democracy graced the occasion with their presence. As the returns were received they were tabulated and read to the gathering by John F. Scragg, E. C. Newcomb, Frank Ryan and others.

Whenever reports of Democratic gains anywhere were received there was an outburst of applause, but the crushing defeats in New York and other places had a most depressing effect on the gathering and the demonstrations of joy were never carried to excess.

County Chairman Roche was in the armory until 1:30 and then departed. At that hour he was confident that Smith and Durkin were elected and had hopes for the remainder of the ticket, at least so he said when interrogated by a Tribune reporter.

The returns were so slow in coming in that the armory gathering became impatient and then sleepy and at midnight many departed for their homes. They decided to wait until morning and get exact figures from The Tribune.

PROHIBITION HEADQUARTERS

Free Lunch, Music and Women the Main Attractions. If anyone supposed the Prohibitionists were not going to get any fun, excitement or anticipation out of the recent campaign, a glance into the temperance party's headquarters on Lackawanna avenue last night would have changed such an opinion. The rooms on the third floor, over The Fair store, were crowded all the evening. Half the number present were women.

At 8:30 o'clock C. J. C. orchestra arrived and furnished the main source of amusement during the early hours of the evening, as the Prohibition returns did not begin to arrive until late. The messages were received by a Western Union operator, who was at his instrument in an adjoining room. At intervals a male quartette sang Prohibition and other airs. A running lunch of coffee, sandwiches, etc., was furnished all comers until 2 o'clock this morning.

The absence of Charles L. Hawley, of Scranton, the cold water candidate for governor, who was in Philadelphia receiving the returns, was in a measure compensated by the presence of such well known temperance enthusiasts as Tallie Margan, H. M. Walton, W. W. Lathrop, F. M. Koehler, C. S. Chandler, S. N. Callender and others.

NEW CALVARY CHURCH.

Ceremony of Breaking the Ground Held Last Night—Great Progress That the Church Has Made.

The formal ceremony of breaking the ground on the site of the proposed new Calvary church was held last night, when a brief service was held in the old chapel on the corner of Monroe avenue and Gibson street.

Rev. Charles E. Robinson, D. D., of the Second Presbyterian church, delivered the prayer of consecration and the service throughout was of an enthusiastic nature. The new church building will be erected by H. F. Dieml at a cost of $6,500, and will be a handsome frame structure.

The energy displayed by the members of the Calvary church has been unusual, and the following from The Tribune published a year ago will be interesting. "An exhibition of the push that characterizes Scrantonians was given last week. It was the spirit that was then manifested that has made and is making Electric City the most famous municipality in the country."

"Last Sunday Rev. W. H. Stubblebine preached at two services in the Calvary Reformed church at the corner of Monroe avenue and Gibson street. The Sunday previous no church was in existence, not even a stone having been laid for a foundation. A week ago yesterday the ground for the new edifice was staked out. The following day ground was broken and the church was completed and ready for occupancy last Sunday. It is a very cozy edifice, lighted with electricity and very handsomely finished. The floor area is 1,200 square feet."

HAYDN EVANS RETURNED.

He Reports a Very Successful Concert Tour.

Some members of the Haydn Evans Quartette company put in an appearance yesterday upon their return from the extended Welsh concert tour. Mr. Evans said that the concerts had attracted very large audiences and a considerable profit had been realized, and the quartette were enjoying themselves among the beautiful scenery and old castles of Wales.

Joseph P. Burns and James Anwyll have returned home to Wilkes-Barre. Mrs. Allen, Miss Julia Allen and John H. Blackwood are extending their tour to France, Germany and Holland, and Miss Stella Kaiser, whose bright letters in The Tribune have been so well received, will spend a year in London, and will sing at several concerts in England and Wales.

Irretrievably Lost.

From The Detroit Tribune. The sunny skies of Greece arched above them. "Maid of Athens," he cried, tumultuously, "give, oh, give me back my heart." The girl grew suddenly very pale. "Sir," she rejoined, with trembling voice, "I have a confession to make. I cannot give you back your heart. I neglected to air it properly and the moth got in it."

A Delicately Offering.

From The Boston Journal. "Allow me, mademoiselle, to present this to you." "No, no, I do not wish to accept a present." "It is a volume of my poems." "Ah, that is different. I could not have permitted you to give me anything of value."

High Sounding.

From The Washington Star. "Rafferty hov a way av givin' foine names to 'ings," said Mr. Dolan. "He do that. OI axed 'im yesterday what was he doin' an' he said he wor engaged in operations in 'ral estate."

I am prepared to receive a limited number of piano pupils.
