Three Interesting Sessions Held Vesterday in Simpson M. E. Church-Speakers Who Addressed the Delegates on League Work Topies.

The convention of Wyoming conference Epworth league was continued yesterday morning in the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church. About 400 delegates were present. The mornopened with a song and prayer service under the leadership of Professor J. L. Thomas. After the singing, Rev. C. H. Christian work. The inspiring hymn, "There Shall Be Showers of Blessing." was then sung. Miss Ethel Rinker was planist. Prayers were offered by many of the delegates, and "I'll Live for Thee" sung. The prayer service was again continued and closed with singing. A short time was then devoted to giving Christian experience and declosed with singing. Rev. O. L. Sever-son took the chair for the business seasion and Rev. G. E. Van Woert was appointed as secretary of the convention. A committee consisting of Messrs.

Weeks, Murdock and Neuring were ap-pointed to provide for a directory of officers of the league. L. C. Murdock was appointed to take subscriptions for the Epworth league. The reports of district presidents was received. Everything showed a prosperity in the eague work and the ranks are filling daily. The districts represented were Honesdale, Chenango, Oneonta, Owego, Wyoming and Binghamton. The secretary was instructed to send a letter of regret to Rev. J. Woodruff, of Binghamton, who was unable to be present. The hymn, "We Are Marching," was then sung. Rev. J. A. Faulkner rend an essay on "The Importance of the Connectional Idea of Methodism."

Miss Nowlan's Essay. "The Relation of the Epworth League o Missions" was the subject of a bril-lant essay read by Miss Mary Nowlan. e spoke of the Bible as being a mismry, and urged upon the leaguers seek for knowledge by books and reatises on missions and missionaries. Rev. L. C. Floyd, D. D., paster of the Christianity. Jesus said, "Go," and curred over 100 members. The mem that is an authority for all mislonary bers of the Wahnetah club are: Patrick work. The Epworth league represents the central working power of the church. The people should be young who go into the misionary field. They an adapt themselves to their new suroundings easier and can learn the inguage quicker. Rev. G. E. Van Woert gave a short ened to with much interest. Rev. A. D. Decker gave a descriptive paper entitled "Wesley's Epworth Home." The meeting.

meeting closed with song. session began with singing under the leadership of Professor J. L. Thomas. Devotional exercises were conducted by B. B. Hicks. The first Psalm, "Blessed was devoted to prayers and testimonies which were given by the league members. The well known hymn, "At the Cross," was then sung. Rev. A. D. Decker then spoke about John Wesley's

Essay by Miss Welis.

Miss Hattle Wells read an essay on the "Ideal Junior League Chapter." She said: "The chief aim of an ideal chapter is to save boys and girls for Christ. Consecration to the Master's service will be required. Care should be taken that the different officers know their duties and how to conduct them. Lessons learned in our Junior league meetings may be repeated at home and may be the means of converting some of the unsaved members of the family. Can children be taught too young? They should be made to feel that they are missed when they are away from the meetings. The mempers should become familiar with the history of their church. One motive should be particularly observed, and it is to make others feel happy. God grant that the Junior Epworth league will fulfill its mission." L. C. Murdock gave the "Personnel of Epworthians." He gave the motive of the Epworth league as being that of saving souls. It is a young army which s doing very much good. Miss Grace Acker and Rev. J. L. Thomas rendered a duet entitled "What Shall We Do with Jesus." Miss Acker possesses a beautiful voice and the duet was well re-In the absence of Rev. J. O. Wooduff, an address to the league was given by Rev. Mr. McDermott. He said: Our effectiveness as an organization depends entirely today upon our forces. Age has nothing to do with it. The earth is older today than ever before, but it supports its people in more luxury than ever before. The time is hastenng on when the nations of this world will all belong to Christ's kingdom. The early Methodists downed the walls of infidelity and sin, and we should pursue their steps today. We love our fellow brethern and we will do all in our power to bring them to the paths of right. Rev. J. B. Cook spoke for a short time on "Epworth League and Revival Work," during which he touched on liquor drinking, and made a plea to the church workers for the downfall of this great evil. He spoke of the gambling at agricultural fairs and made the inquiry, Would it hurt our pockets if it was abolished? This closed the afternoon session with the exception of a social hour. when an enjoyable time was had. The hundreds of delegates met in the lecture room and had a social chat. Session in the Evening. The church was unable to contain the immense throng that gathered last of all others. This week we evening at the closing session. The pulpit was surrounded by innumerable potted plants, palms, ferns and chrys-anthemums. On the platform were seated Rev. L. C. Floyd, Dr. Peck, Rev. J. G. Oakley, D. D., of New York; Rev. O. L. Severson, Rev. L. C. Murdock, Rev. M. D. Fuller and Rev. J. L. Thomas. The services opened with sing-ing, which was conducted by Rev. J. L. Thomas. Rev. L. C. Murdock offered an earnest prayer. The committee on resolutions thanked Rev. J. Edward Starr, c. Toronto, Canada, for his address, Rev. L. C. Floyd, D. D., the congregation of the Simpson Methodist iscopal church and Epworth Chapter,

No. 242, for the reception tendered. A duct, entitled "Jesus Lives," was rendered by Rev J. L. Thomas and G. F. Whittemore. Rev. O. L. Severson, th chairman, announced as speaker of the Dr. J. G.
