WOMEN IN CONVENTION

Words of Greeting for Delegates to Annual Meeting of Y. W. C. A.

MANY THOUGHTFUL ADDRESSES

They Were Delivered by Delegates at Yesterday's Sessions on Various Phases of the Work They Are Engaged in. Programme for Today

The seventh annual convention of the Young Woman's Christian association of Pennsylvania was opened very auspiciously yesterday afternoon in the Young Men's Christian association hall. Mrs. L. M. Kates opened the convention and called upon various ladies and gentlemen to welcome the delegation on behalf of the local organizations of the city.

Mrs. E. H. Ripple said that in the name of the Young Woman's Christian association she bids the visitors a hearty welcome and trusted that the meetings would tend to the uplifting and glory of God, and hoped they would be comfortable and enjoy their visit to Scranton.

Mrs. A. F. Yost, on behalf of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, said it gave her great pleasure to welcome her sisters in the good work to Scranton. The young women before her were the hope of the future, and their improved training would be certain to tell in the future, and would be a great factor in the improvement of their own households when they possessed one. The Young Woman's Christian association and Woman's Christian Temperance union ought to be more closely identified. They have a great respect for each other, but unfortunately keep at too respectful a distance from each other.

Colonel Bales, on behalf of the Young Men's Christian association of Scranton, extended a cordial welcome to the ladies and invited them to make themselves thoroughly at home in the association rooms. He said that he had been connected with association work longer than he would care to confess, and he was strongly of the opinion that the work of the young men must, to a great extent, depend upon the co-operation of the young women. He thought C. Hughes, D. D., also made a brief address of welcome.

C. E. Daniels Speaks.

C. E. Daniels, ex-president of the Scranton Christian Endeavor union, said, in behalf of the societies of the city, that he welcomed the delegates; mentioning the two terms, young and Christian, common to both, as a connecting link which made it peculiarly appropriate that the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor should welcome the Young Women's Christian association.

Rev. Warren G. Partridge, on behalf of the Baptist Young People's society, extended a cordial welcome to the delegates and said he could assure them that they not only came to a working church, but also to a city of hard working Christian men and women. He thought it would be difficult to find any town with a better young men's organization than they would see in Scranton. He welcomed them for the good influence they would make felt in the city and wished them every success in their deliberations.

Miss Willis, of the Grove City college, made a felicitous response on behalf of the young ladies. She said she was not surprised that Scranton was called the "Convention City" when she saw the perfection of arrangements for their comfort and convenience that had been made.

Mrs. Carter, president of the Williamsport association, also responded to the kind and cordial greetings and said that it was a particular pleasure to hear the welcome extended by so many societies. It was delightful to be in such good fellowship and she felt that much good would be sure to accrue from the convention.

Mrs. Ripple presented the following report of the nominating committee: Mrs. E. L. Burtnor, of York; Mrs. J. M. Max Hark, of Bethlehem; vice-president; Mrs. Robert Williams, Scranton; and Miss Eva M. Wallace, Pittsburg, secretaries. The report was adopted unanimously.

Mrs. M. A. Underwood, M. D., of Lancaster, then conducted a prayer service for the success of the convention in which several ladies participated.

Always Carry a Bible.

Professor J. H. Gilmore, of the Rochester university, gave an address on "The Devotional Reading of the Word" and urged them upon all to always carry a Bible with them. There were three lines of thought which he discussed: The influence of the Bible on modern thought and life, the educational influence of the Bible, and more important still because the Bible was the word of God. The devotional reading of the word of God was too much neglected by ministers, Sunday school teachers and Christian workers. Ministers worked at the Bible, but people had no idea of the neglect of devotion- al reading of the Scriptures by ministers, in consequence of which they suffered and their congregation suffered accordingly.

He urged that the practice of memorizing should be used more extensively— especially where they had been impressed by any particular verse. He warned his audience not to allow their devotional readings to degenerate into a technical or professional study, and denounced the "hedge-hog readers," who rolled themselves in a passage and carried away that which happened to

IT IS CLEMENS AND SCHATZ

So Unofficial Totals of the Compilation Would Indicate.

PLURALITIES ARE VERY SMALL

Clemens Has Sixty-three Votes More Than Baile and Schatz Twenty More Than Davies—There May Be Some Surprises Today.

The work of counting the votes cast at Tuesday's election went on last night the task of compiling the returns had been completed except in the case of the Fifth district of the Second ward of the city.

That was passed yesterday morning to give the attorneys from Mr. Clemens and Mr. Davies an opportunity to prepare affidavits that it is supposed will have reference to certain irregularities. This matter will be considered this morning by the court. The ballot box of the Third district of the Eleventh ward will also be brought into court this morning as the figures of the tally sheet do not correspond.

Supplying the figures of the open returns the case of the Fifth district of the Second ward the official compilation of the vote shows the following totals:

Sheriff.
Clemens	13,279
Bailey	13,216
Clemens' plurality	63
Treasurer.
Schatz	13,163
Davis	13,133
Schatz's plurality	30

These are not official footings. They will not be made until today.

According to official count the vote and pluralities of the different legislative candidates is as follows:

First district—Farr, R., 3,870; Davis, D., 2,808; Rupp, Pr., 182; Evans, P., 65; Farr's plurality, 1,062.

Second district—Connell, R., 3,556; Conant, D., 3,540; Hanel, Pr., 225; Goehle, P., Connell's plurality, 116.

Third district—Grover, R., 2,967; Van Fleet, D., 1,533; Hurley, P., 33; Clement, Pr., 28; Grover's plurality, 1,074.

Fourth district—O'Malley, R., 4,008; Burke, D., 3,576; Frank, P., 156; Shepherd, Pr., 379; O'Malley's plurality, 1,032.

That Carbonade Tangle.

At 9 o'clock a. m. the counting of the votes was resumed and Judge Edwards received evidence as to the returns from the First district of the Sixth ward of Carbonade. The judge explained that the marks on the tally sheets showed but 117 votes for Clemens, and he was anxious to know why 175 votes were marked down and how the difference of fifty-eight votes was accounted for.

J. J. Lowry was sworn and said that he was judge of election in the district referred to and explained in detail how the votes were counted. The straight Republican votes, he said, were not marked on the tally sheet, but were counted directly from the ballot papers and the figures 68, representing the straight Republican votes, were inserted after the figures 117, representing the split votes given for Clemens, thus bringing up the total of 185 actually recorded in his favor. Cross-examined by Attorney Lemuel Ammerman on behalf of Candidate Bailey, he retorted that the box could be inspected with a view to satisfy the court that the fifty-eight ballot papers were there, but Judge Edwards held that the explanation was a reasonable one and that he could not order a further search, especially as both the returns agreed with the explanation tendered by Mr. Lowry.

A Vote for Fellows.

One vote for J. H. Fellows was recorded in North Abington district for the office of congressman. Lemuel Ammerman drew the attention of the court to a clerical error in the returns from the First ward of the borough of Olyphant, in totaling the votes for Mr. Schatz. The total showed 162 where it should have been 167, and the judge ordered the record to be amended, granting an increase of five votes in favor of Mr. Schatz.

In the returns from the Third district of the First ward of Scranton, Mr. Koehler was credited with 114 votes, but in going through the sheets a mistake of thirty-four was found in the addition, and the list was amended giving him 148 votes.

When the Fifth district of the Second ward of this city was reached Major Everett Warren requested that consideration of the list be postponed, as affidavits would be submitted proving that the return was defective. The application was granted and the matter will be brought up this morning.

In the First district of the Eighth ward L. M. Bunnell received one vote for secretary of internal affairs, and in the First district of the Thirteenth ward one vote was recorded for T. V. Powderly for governor. In the Second district of the same ward John H. Fellows received a vote for congressman.

Late in the afternoon it was de-

REALISTIC MELODRAMA.

Exciting Five-act "Stowaway" Pleases an Academy Audience.

"The Stowaway" under the direction of Thomas H. Davis and William T. Keogh, was presented to a fair sized audience at the Academy of Music last night. The play is an unadorned melodrama, and is all that is claimed for it in the way of murder and other crime. Villains, midnight scenes, realistic situations, which various lines are saved just in the nick of time, and other exciting episodes. Five acts are required to produce the play, and judging from the frequent applause of the upper gallery the efforts of the players were appreciated.

The company collectively is of fair ability, and individually it contains some very clever people. Miss Lily Kirke, as Chucky, a London newsboy, is really an artist, and Harry Booker in his original creation of Dickey Dials proved himself a comedian of considerable merit. As Tom Inglis, the hero of the play, John De Gize scored a hit, and Willis Granger interpreted the polluted villain, Charles Ethington, in a clever manner.

COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO.

Presented by the American Players at the Frothingham.

"The Count of Monte Cristo" was produced at the Frothingham last night in a prize-winning manner. It was not such a presentation as James O'Neill gave it in this city many years ago, but it is one that possesses dramatic merit and holds the close attention of the audience from beginning to end.

Joseph Ransome in the title role proved himself a careful and painstaking actor, and at times his work was really brilliant. His support throughout was good. The piece is presented with splendid scenery and stage accessories. It will be at the Frothingham again tonight.

This afternoon "The Tentation" will be produced at a matinee.

Oriental Exhury in Scranton.

In a line with the many other metropolitan conveniences of this city are the thoroughly equipped Turkish, Russian and Roman baths for ladies and gentlemen at 266 Spruce street. The parlors are best known as "The Glibby baths" and are under the personal management of M. J. Purcell, the proprietor, who from his practical knowledge and experience is well qualified to give ladies each Tuesday from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. For their benefit a private entrance has been made through Owens' cloak store on Spruce street. The scale prices follow: Turkish and Russian, $1; Roman, $2; massage, $3; summer baths, 50 cents.

Barrick Paid the Costs.

Francis C. Barrick, of Glen street, entered complaint before Alderman Bailey of the Thirteenth ward, on Oct. 8, that Frank M. Amabrey, of Lackawanna avenue, kept a gambling den. Amabrey entered bail in the sum of $50 for his appearance in court before Alderman Fitzsimmons of the Eighth ward, on Nov. 2. Dr. William Haggerty becoming his bondsmen, Barrick appeared before Alderman Bailey Thursday and had the case discontinued. He paid the costs.
