

SECRET OF CHILD SAVING

Edmund L. Starr Addresses People in Albright Library.

WITH STATE LAWS AND POWER

In Ontario, Canada, the child is the State's Subject in Law, Truth and Fact. Society's Officers Given Policy Power and Authority.

The members of the Associated Charities and a large number of women prominent in city charitable work were addressed yesterday afternoon in the Albright library hall by Edmund L. Starr, of Toronto, Can. Mr. Starr is the general agent of the Children's Aid society of that city and during his remarks rehearsed the work of the organization, explained its police power under act of parliament and enlightened the audience as to the meaning of "child saving," which was the topic of his address.

Mr. Starr is in the city as a lecturer for the Epworth league convention, which for two days has been in session on the West Side. He has made a noble record in child saving work and in his address placed the purpose and method of the Children's Aid society of Canada in a new and interesting light. He said:

"Following the effort to establish our society in Ontario, parliament appointed a Prison Reform commission to inquire into the proper care of criminals venturing crime. This commission made exhaustive research and their report was 'received and filed.' This reference simply illustrates the beginning of our work and the death which often follows red tape charity. Sentimentalism charity is false charity; it does a little good and a great deal of evil; it brings about no permanent good."

Prevents Older Criminality.

"The whole matter of child saving rests upon the proved condition that children properly reared and nurtured prevent criminality among older persons. It follows then that the state should be a mother to the child in law, fact and truth. The child is the subject of the state, in fact; it is the subject of the state in law, in truth and in common practice of the authorities to neglect the young until it has developed viciousness or crime. The society I represent is really the parent of the child in truth under the laws of the state."

Does Not Encourage Evil.

The various classes of neglected children and cases for illustration were described by Mr. Starr, who dwelt particularly upon the society's endeavor to reach parents that they must take proper care of the child. He called attention to the fact that instead of being confined in institutions children are sent to well ordered households and in many cases Christian homes. It tends to decrease the number of inmates of charitable homes and does not create a premium on the sin of the parents, because, if not prosecuted, they are encouraged to provide a proper home for their children, who are returned when circumstances warrant.

Will Scranton Organize.

In the discussion which followed and in which Colonel H. M. Boies, Rev. Rogers Israel, Mr. Starr and others participated, it appeared that Pennsylvania has a law granting police power to properly organize children's aid societies. Mr. Israel, as secretary of the Associated charities, stated that the work of child saving had become woefully necessary, but is beyond the power of the association to handle. He stated that children's homes throughout the city are crowded.

THE PROHIBITIONISTS.

Getting Ready Now to Begin the Next Campaign.

The prohibitionists of the county are greatly elated over the increase of their vote in this county, which promises to reach nearly 1,200 in the county for Hawley.

The leaders of the party have already decided on a meeting of all the workers to assemble in Conservatory hall, next Friday evening, when new officers of the Central league will be named and plans laid for the complete reorganization of the entire county. This plan will include a "captain" in every voting district in the county, whose business it will be to secure a complete enrollment of voters and to arrange for meetings, etc., in his district. There is also talk of forming a Women's Prohibition league, and undoubtedly such an organization would have hundreds of members.

The county committee will meet at the headquarters in the Library building on Friday afternoon and will present their plan of reorganization to the mass meeting in the hall in the evening.

IN THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

Autumn Doings Among Prominent Leaders of the Season's Gayety. PARTIES, WEDDINGS AND TEAS

The Gamut of the Week's Events Sounded in Short Paragraphs--Guests and Entertainers--Personal Mention Referred to a Compact Compass.

Probably no week since the end of the summer season has been so devoid of social activity as the week just passed. This condition was due, no doubt, to the excitement before election and the aftermath which followed. Why politics should rattle the plans of society does appear, but it is an undoubted condition and not a theory nevertheless.

At noon Wednesday were married Miss Cora May Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rose G. Brooks, to William Matthews. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. W. H. Pearce at the home of the bride, and was witnessed only by immediate relatives.

Miss May Matthews, of West Pittston, was the maid of honor, and Walter Eugene Davis, of Washington avenue, acted as best man. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will be at home after Dec. 1 at 224 Quincey avenue.

A very quiet wedding took place Thursday evening at the home of Aldermaid B. Wright, on West 12th avenue, when Miss Augustus, daughter of William Matthews, of West Pittston, was married to William J. Miss Carrie Afterson, of North Main avenue, was maid of honor, and John H. Tondal, best man. The wedding was attended only by relatives and near friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewers will reside in Wilkes-Barre, where Mr. Lewers is employed in the engineering department of the Susquehanna Coal company of that city. Those present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Coolbaugh and Harry Ward, of Rahway, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Merriam, of Waverly, N. COAL LAND DISPUTE. Hearing in an Injunction Case Before Judge Gunster.

A hearing was held yesterday afternoon before Judge Gunster in the injunction case of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company against Watkins & Hughes to restrain them from mining coal under a five acre plot in Carbonate. The company is represented by ex-Judge Jessup and J. H. Torrey, and the defendants by Ward & Horn.

The Delaware and Hudson claims title to the land by title back to the state and continues possession. The defendants, who are lessees of the land from Mrs. Barrett, who purchased it from Sandy McDonald, a squatter, claim title by these squatters' rights. The Delaware and Hudson claim to have mined coal under the land more than fifty-five years ago.

LEGAL COMPLICATIONS. They Have Arisen Over the Refusal of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company to Allow a Crossing to Be Laid.

The trouble between the Lackawanna Street Railway company and the Delaware and Hudson Canal company, with regard to crossings at Wyoming avenue and Spring street in Moosic, came up before court yesterday in the form of applications for injunctions.

Both parties claim that the Delaware and Hudson tracks at Moosic are a public nuisance and that the electric road people lay a crossing over its tracks, and for several weeks past have had the crossing guarded so that it would be impossible for any one to surmount them and get the crossing in place before they could be checked.

The condition of affairs resulted in the issuing of the injunctions asked for yesterday. The electric railway people ask the court to restrain the Delaware and Hudson company from interfering with them in exercising their charter right to pass through the streets of Lackawanna township even though it does land through the tracks of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company. That company requests that the electric road people lay a crossing over its tracks, and for several weeks past have had the crossing guarded so that it would be impossible for any one to surmount them and get the crossing in place before they could be checked.
