

MURDERER IS AT LARGE

Boschino, Who Killed Another Italian Sunday, Probably in the Mountains.

DETECTIVES WITHOUT A CLUE

Search for the Missing Assassin Begun Early Yesterday--Witnesses of the Shooting Profess Ignorance of King and Will Say Nothing.

Joe Boschino, the Italian who murdered his fellow countryman, Francesco Combert, on Bunker Hill, Dunmore, Sunday evening, is still at large. County Detective Shea started on a hunt for the missing man early yesterday morning, but it is probable that he will not be arrested for at least several days.

The body of the murdered Combert remained during the day in Letchworth's undertaking establishment, where an autopsy was performed by Coroner Kelley, assisted by Dr. J. R. Murphy, in the presence of Jurymen Patrick Clary, O. B. Biglin, W. L. Furler, Anthony Reagan and E. Scott. It was found that only one bullet entered Combert's body. The ball glanced from the chest bone to the left, passed through the heart and lodged in the pleural cavity of the left lung. A number of witnesses were examined merely to identify the remains. The inquest will be held tomorrow evening in the arbitration room at the court house.

Eye Witnesses Are Silent. But little information of the killing can be obtained through Rico Silvanini and Tony Embri, the two witnesses confined in the Dunmore borough lock-up. They were too drunk when arrested to converse even in their native tongue, and when questioned yesterday professed ignorance of the English language. Still, enough was gleaned from them and others to slightly change the brutal details of the crime as presented in The Tribune.

The new facts, however, do not materially change the general story of the murder. The additional information is only that two women of questionable character were with the Italians as they quarreled on the wire bridge while going from Dunmore to their homes on Bunker Hill, and that in the scuffle one of the party, presumably Boschino, attempted to use a razor.

Nothing has been discovered to change the theory that Boschino lay in ambush for his victim behind a clump of laurel bushes and murdered Combert in the presence of the two Italians in arrest. Two shots were fired, one of which killed Combert. Possibly one minute or a minute and a half later three more shots were fired, it is supposed by the escaped murderer to prevent the two men in arrest from following him.

Detectives Are Baffled. It was anticipated by Police Detective Shea and the Dunmore police that Boschino would pass over the same route as that taken by Noll, an Italian who escaped arrest after shooting his wife's assailant in Dunmore two years ago. Consequently a watch was kept at the junction of the Lackawanna tracks and wagon road above the Elmhurst station. No clue was obtained of Boschino's route and it is thought he has sought safety in the mountains, where he will hide during the days and travel at night along unfrequented roads toward Stroudsburg and New York.

A pitiful chapter of the case is the anticipated maternity of Combert's wife. She started yesterday from her home on Bunker Hill for Dunmore, but was overcome on the way and had to be carried back to her house, where her confinement is hourly expected.

At 10 o'clock last night a rumor that Detective Shea had succeeded in locating Boschino and would wait until this morning before arresting him could not be verified. About that hour Silvanini and Embri were removed from the Dunmore lockup and placed in the county jail. They are charged with being accessories to the murder.

COYLE STILL HAS HOPES.

He Says That If the Twelfth Ward Ballots Have Been Destroyed, Those Who Cast Them Have Not.

Henry Coyle has not yet abandoned hope in the contest he has instituted against Morgan Sweeney for the office of common council of the Twelfth ward, notwithstanding that most of the ballots necessary to decide the contest have been destroyed.

Commissioners Thomas and Baylor heard the testimony in the case yesterday. Mr. Coyle says that if the ballots have been destroyed those who cast them have not, and they can be called into court when the illegal votes are determined and asked to state for whom they cast their ballots.

CHAINED IN A CELL.

Police Find a Troublesome Prisoner in a Pittsburg Iron Worker.

Patrick Carl, a Pittsburg iron worker, entered Klein's boarding house, at Spruce street and Franklin avenue, yesterday and took possession of one of the rooms. He was intoxicated and refused to leave.

Patrolmen Molr and Goerlitz had considerable difficulty in leading Carl to the station house, where he had to be chained to bars of his cell. He is a young man and had been employed on the iron work of the new Hotel Jermyn.

COURT HOUSE NEWS NOTES.

A charter was yesterday granted to the First Presbyterian church of Peckville.

John P. Chellis and Ella Connor, Carbondale; John Dananissen and Catherine Culicentz, Scranton. The report of voters in the Thirteenth District sewer, Section B, was yesterday confirmed finally, except as to exceptions filed by Edward Merrifield, which are ordered on the trial list. In the matter of the damages caused by the grading of Main avenue it was awarded that the appeal be put at issue as actions of trespass, each plaintiff to file a declaration and defendant to plead thereto. Edward Allen was yesterday appointed constable of the Third ward of Taylor. The bonds of Richard Morris and Edmund W. Carter as constables respectively of the First and Second wards of the same borough were approved. Edward Williams and David J. Thomas are the sureties.

THE WILD ROSE.

Produced by Miss Pauline Parker and Company at Davis Theater. "The Wild Rose" was presented at Davis theater yesterday by Miss Pauline Parker's company and will be continued today and tomorrow. Miss Parker is a capable actress and is ably assisted by the members of her company.

FOOLISH MARY MORAN.

She Became Intoxicated and Went to the Court House and Created a Scene--Now She Is in Jail for Contempt. Mrs. Mary Moran, a corpulent lady, who resides at Taylor, created a scene in the main court room yesterday morning which resulted in her being committed to the county jail for contempt of court.

The negro comicallies are excellent and produced an uproarious encore which had to be repeated two or three times. The specialties added to the piece were highly enjoyed by the audience.

Mrs. Moran was accused of keeping a tipping house and her case was set down for a hearing before the grand jury yesterday. Early in the day she partook freely of the mixture she is charged with dispensing and then proceeded to the court house. Outside of the grand jury room she met several of the witnesses who have been subpoenaed to testify against her, and at them hurled scandalous and insulting words.

"Tipstaff Ritter ordered her to keep silent and she ran into the district attorney's office and began a tirade there. Mr. Ritter ordered her out and in the corridor another outbreak of abusive language occurred. Then Mr. Ritter said he would take her before the court if she did not subside. "Do! I dare you! You can take me!" yelled Mrs. Moran in a rage.

An instant later she found herself jerked inside the doors of the court room. She sank to the floor and declared she would go no further. "Tipstaff Anthony Walsh went to Mr. Ritter's assistance and Mrs. Moran was carried inside the bar enclosure and set on her feet, facing Judges Archibald and Gunster, who were on the bench.

Mr. Ritter explained the cause of Mrs. Moran's appearance and Judge Archibald asked him if he thought the woman was intoxicated. "Of course she's drunk; can't any one see that she is," emphatically answered Mr. Ritter.

"You're a liar! You're a liar!" fairly screamed Mrs. Moran as she advanced toward the tipstaff with the evident intention of getting personal satisfaction.

"Remand her to the custody of the sheriff until she has become sober," said Judge Archibald with great sternness, and Mrs. Moran, still vowing vengeance, was led off to the county jail.

IN LOCAL THEATERS.

The following is the cast of characters for "The Princess Bonnie," Willard Spenser's comic opera which will be produced at the Academy of Music tonight and tomorrow night: Shrimps, champion canoeist and village "jack-of-all-trades," in love with Kitty Cluver, the fishing smack, "Nancy" and keeper of light house, N. S. Burnham

Roy Sterling, a follower of Isaac Walton, in love with Bonnie. Will M. Armstrong, Admiral Pomposo, of the Spanish Navy, with a hobby for collecting rare antiques. Joseph R. Greenleaf, Count Castibonetti Marionetti Flageoletti Falsetti, an Italian nobleman, betrothed to Bonnie in fancy. Robert Broderick, Salvador, body guard to Admiral Pomposo. Montjoy Walker, Lieutenant Fuzee, a Spanish officer.

Captain Surf, fisherman. E. A. Williams, Kitty Cluver, Captain of the Canoe Club and belle of the village. Lillian Swain Marion, Susan Crabbe Tarpaulin, Tarpaulin's sister, popularly called "Auntie Crab," assistant keeper of light-house. Mabella Baker, Donna Pomposo, wife of Admiral Pomposo. Mabella Baker, Bonnie, the Princess Bonnellavatta, adopted daughter of Captain Tarpaulin and niece of Admiral Pomposo. Eleanor Mayo, Canoeists, fishermen, soldiers, villagers, marines, Spanish peasants, Spanish dancers, Spanish students, bridesmaids, etc.

There is little doubt that Bob Fitzsimmons, the middle weight pugilist, will find a large audience awaiting his appearance on the stage of the Frothingham tonight. He has many warm admirers and they will be present in force. Among those who compose the fine specialty company that Fitzsimmons has surrounded himself with are Howley and Doyle, the undisputed champion dancers of the world. Johnny Howley is a Scranton boy and was born and raised in this city. He made his debut on the stage in this city at amateur performances, and after he joined the professional ranks he forged rapidly to the front. He will be given a warm reception tonight.

The celebrated actresses Miss Kate Claxton and Madame Janaschek appear together at the Academy of Music on Friday evening in "Two Orphans." Kate Claxton sustains her original creation, Louise the Blind Girl. Madame Janaschek impersonates the Countess de Linders. The cast throughout is one of exceptional strength, including such well known characters as Miss Fanny Gillette, Miss Marion P. Clifton, Miss Mamie Stuart and Frank R. Clifford, Edgar Halsted, Nell Warner and William P. Clifton.

PROPERTY OWNERS WIN

Double Track Will Not Be Laid on Franklin Avenue Just Yet.

OPINION OF JUDGE GUNSTER

Permission of the City Should First Have Been Obtained Before Tracks of Suburban Company Were Disturbed. The Gist of the Opinion.

Judge Gunster yesterday continued, until further order of the court, the injunction in the case of G. J. Babcock and other property owners of Franklin avenue against the Scranton Traction company and People's Street Railway company. This will prevent, for the present at least, the laying of a double track on Franklin avenue between Lackawanna avenue and Spruce street.

Many nice legal points were raised by the attorneys for the complainants, but the majority of these Judge Gunster did not think it necessary to pass upon in disposing of the present case. He decided that the People's company had no right to disturb the track of the Suburban Railway company without the permission of the city authorities.

To lay the double track it had been found necessary to shift the Suburban track several feet east of its original position. Judge Gunster held they had no right to do anything of the kind, even though the Suburban company did not object. Permission from the city should first have been obtained.

That Constitutional Provision. It was claimed by the complainants that while the People's company by its charter, had the right to enter the streets of the city and lay its tracks without obtaining permission from the city authorities, it had forfeited these rights and accepted the provisions of the new constitution when it negotiated the lease of its lines to the Scranton Traction company in 1887, under the act of 1887, which is legislation under the new constitution. The People's company, it was held, would not be entitled to take advantage of this act without first accepting the provisions of the new constitution. In passing on this point, Judge Gunster says: "I cannot construe this agreement of lease between these companies as an acceptance of the provisions of article 17 of the constitution by the People's Street Railway company. There is nothing in the act of 1887 under which the Traction company was incorporated, to indicate that such would be the effect of a contract entered into by it with a company incorporated prior to the adoption of the constitution of 1874."

The opinion closes as follows: "The question for me is not so much the standing of the plaintiffs as the right of the defendants to do what they propose doing. For the reasons already given I am of the opinion that the injunction should be continued until that right is made clear. The rule is made absolute, and the injunction heretofore granted is continued until otherwise ordered."

LOCAL INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The retail coal trade has increased 50 per cent. on the output for summer months and October. The Greenwood Coal company gave orders the beginning of the present month to keep No. 2 breaker going at its full capacity until otherwise ordered.

All the collieries operated by the Delaware and Hudson company are running on three-quarter time and will continue so the remainder of November. Contractors report that since Sept. 1 the demand of workmen for employment has fallen off very much, which is equivalent to the statement that business is beginning to boom.

The mines of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company are working steadily. The shortness of the day prevents them from doing more than three-quarter time. People are complaining that the reduction in the price of flour does not reduce the price of the loaf as sold over the counter by the bakers. Flour was never before much cheaper than it is at present.

A trip around the city does not give one the impression that money is tight. The number of new buildings in course of erection easily justifies the claim that this has been one of the busiest seasons in the building line seen by Scranton in many years.

A new drying machine was recently added to the apparatus at the Mead & Brook Brewing company. The machine cost $3,000 and it is claimed for it that a saving of $10 a day is one of the possibilities for those who put faith in it and use it. By a new process waste representing $40 worth is reclaimed from the offal and rendered salable. The proprietors of the brewery are satisfied that it does what it represents.

Captain W. A. May, of the special committee appointed by the board of trade to investigate the merits of the industry known as the Brooks' Gun factory, declares that it would be a valuable asset to Scranton's industries. The gun, Captain May thinks, is destined to supersede the fire-arm now in style. Military men have given Messrs. Lewis and Dyer representatives of the factory, testimonials of much weight regarding the applicability of the ordinance to the army. The report of the committee will be heard at the next meeting of the board of trade.

The Scranton Tribune. Is the Best and Brightest Morning Newspaper in Northeastern Pennsylvania, and It's Constantly Improving. While it gives all the good features that the other papers give, it has some exclusive features that you ought to think about. It has, for instance, the best department of Industrial News to be found in print. Then, too, its weekly departments of Religious News, Musical Intelligence, Health Hints, Theatrical Gossip, London Letter, Sporting News and Letters from the People. Are unique and unsurpassed; but we're not at all satisfied. This is only a beginning. THE TRIBUNE, each day, MUST have something brighter, something better and something more readable than the day before. That's our ultimatum. That's how we mean to keep moving.
