To the Patrons of Davis' Theater: The "White Orchestra" was discharged from the Frothingham theater last Saturday night. On Monday I engaged eight of their number, including the leader, for the "Social Session" company, to play the last three days of this week at my house for that organization. Following this arrangement, without my knowledge, the ladies were re-engaged separately, with the exception of two, by the Frothingham management. I gained knowledge of this only after the ladies' orchestra had been announced in my advertising as to appear here. The expensive printing of the "Social Session" company mentions a "La-dies' Orchestra," and if none appears with them, as advertised, the above gives you the reason, and you must exonerate me from blame in the matter. The absence of the orchestra, if it is absent, will in no way interfers with the entertainment proper, however. Geo. E. Davis. proper, however,
