Gradually the inconvenience experinced by the railway companies and others in the movement of trains and church, have returned home. traffic as a result of the heavy snow storm is becoming eliminated. The Praction Railway company succeeded n Saturday in running their cars to this place with but little difficulty. At coal have accumulated. The Valley mpany expect to send them over the lines for distribution today. The freight business which has been at a standstill is reviving rapidly and the carrying companies are actively at work dispatching the accumulated stock to its destination.

The cold weather of the past few days has caused the river to freeze over in ome places. The ice is thick and of excellent quality, thereby affording skaters ample opportunity to display their abilities in the fascinating sport. On Saturday, cold though it was, large crowds of men and women resurrected their skates and hied themselves to the river that they might partake of the enjoyment afforded. Should the ice continue to hold good until New Year's Day, and there is no reason to doubt but it will, it would not be surprising to see 5,000 persons on the ice. There is not in all probability a spot in the Wyoming valley where skating is so much admired by the young and old as

Saturday morning has been conceded the coldest experienced in many years, the thermometers about town varying eccording to their location. At the Water Street Bridge company's office registered three degrees below zero at 7 o'clock. At the same hour it registered seven below at the Cork Lane Delaware and Hudson depot; while at the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg unction it registered zero. Water hydrants that have not frozen in years were found to be useless and were only remedied by the plumber. The hard frost has caused the snow to pack well

HALLSTEAD.

Fire was discovered in the building next to the Major House by some railroad men who were returning home from work between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning. It had gained quite a headway when discovered, and it was thought at first that the building would have to go and the Major House, too, but prompt action and good work by the firemen saved them. It was found that the fire had started in the cellar of the building and thought to be of incendiary origin. The first story was used for a jewelry store by J. J. JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.

Iwo Pretty Stories of the Irish-American Poet.

Stories of John Boyle O'Rielly's goo fellowship and generosity are still current in Boston. A stranger, mistak-ing him for a friend, approached him from behind, slapped him on the shoulder, and greeted him as Jack with all the warmth of a life-long friendship. O'Reilly turned to face a very embarrassed man, and, holding out his hand, said: "I'm not Jack, but I'm glad to know and be the friend of any man that is glad to see his friend, as

While O'Reilly was reading one o the poems after a semi-public dinner, and, as usual, was deeply absorbed in the task, a negro waiter walked across the floor with creaking shoes. O'Reilly much annoyed, stopped and addressed half a dozen bitter words to the chairman. The waiter was thoroughly unhappy at the incident and a guest who left the table after the poem was fin ished found O'Reilly in the hall humbly apologizing to the negro and thrusting 1 $5 bill into his hand.
