IT LOOKS LIKE A BATTLE

Senator Quay's Attack on David Martin Signifies a Good Deal.

POLITICIANS THUNDERSTRUCK

But They Soon Recovered Enough to Ad mit That There Will Be Plenty of Fireworks in State Politics in the Near Future.

He introduced several bills and refused to discuss the Philadelphia mayoralty incident for publication. To personal friends, however, he intimated that he might have a good deal to say, later on. His friends say that the Traction and railroad interests had better prepare for fun. If he is anything the young Philadelphian is a fighter, and there was a broad look in his face tonight, when a friend asked him if he proposed to retaliate.

It would not be surprising to see Penrose turn in against Porter's bill and anything that Martin may favor, and as he has been on the inside heretofore. he is in a position to do them very material damage. The speech of Senator Quay in the United States senate in hill, Mass. which he denounced Martin created the greatest sensation here. One prominent Republican state official remarked that more important political history was made in Pennsylvania yestorday than has been made since John Stewart and Charles S. Wolfe bolted the Republican party in 1882 and formed the Independent Republican party. The defeat of Delamater, he said, was not a marker to it in importance.

Watres Stock Takes a Boom. Those who look into the future pre tend to see in the disruption of the combine the inevitable defeat of Senator Cameron for re-election. Senator Pen-rose has always been friendly to Cameron; but his first obligation is now to Quay. Whomsoever Martin favors for United States senator in 1897 it is regarded as certain that the Quay and Penrose faction will be found in opposition. Martin is known to have strong Cameron leanings. The result will be, according to those who take this view of the situation, that Senator Quay will be strengthened by a force of circumstances into opposing Cameron for re election, in which event no person is believed to stand a better chance of wearing the toga than Lieutenant Governor Watres. His stock today has taken a boom among the keen politicians here who have studied the men and the conditions concerned in this present and prospective battle for the

Quay and Martin Compared. The central topic of discussion today

In the capitol and about the hotels, was the Quay-Martin break. Mr. Martin was expected here today, but he did not come, having ostensibly been detained by illness. This latest move of Martin will, in the opinion of many, have a tendency to make Harrisburg an unpleasant winter home for him. It has, according to friends of Senator Penrose,, placed him before the members in the light of having deliberately "sold" a fellow-member "out," as the expression goes; whereas, in all that has been said against Matthew S. Quay during the years of his prominence in state politics, it has never been charged that he had failed in frank-ness or open dealing. The men that he has fought have been told frankly of his antagonism and the promises made by him have, it is asserted, been mit of his ability to keep them. This fact is conceded on every hand by those on the inside of politics, and it puts Mr. Martin at a decided disadvantage. It is also pointed out that the Philadelphia delegation may be dwarfed to some extent. and the country districts command proportionately larger prestige by reason of the "break," inasmuch as the prospect of the Philadelphians hereafter acting as a unit is perceptibly diminished. Altogether, the member who irreverently remarked, today, to a group of friends that "seventeen different kinds of blue sheel would soon be on exhibition at Harrisburg" probably uttered more truth than poetry.

Scientists' Highest Prize for Professor Hale, of Chicago.

By the United Press. hicago, Jan. 10.-Professor Georg B. Hale, of the University of Chicago, has had conferred upon him the highest honor within the gift of the French Academy of Sciences. He has received a cablegram from Paris announcing that the Janssen gold medal for 1894 had been awarded him for his invention of the spectro-heliograph and the researches in astro-physics which he has made by its means.

Last night he received a letter from Professor Janssen, director of the National Astro-Physical Observatory at Meudon, who established the prize, saying that he had been directed by the commission making the award to forward the medal to him.

ROBBER WAS VERY BOLD. Musked Burglar Walks Into an Office and Gets What He Demands. By the United Press. Reading, Jan. 10.-One of the boldest of the many robberies which have lately occurred in this city took place last night at the coal office of S. L. Bucks & Co., on North Eighth street, James W. Van Reed, a member of the firm, and a friend, George W. Barrell, were sitting in the office after business hours engaged in a game of checkers, when masked man come in and presenting his pistol demanded their money.

They thought at first that it was some friend playing a joke upon them, but realizing that the man was in earnest Van Reed made a dash for the door and escaped. Two shots were fired after him without taking effect. The pistol was then turned toward Barrell, who was compelled to give up his money. He, however, only had a few dollars in his pocket. The robber then disappeared before any one could be summoned to pursue him.

INDUSTRIAL TOPICS.

The longest continuous street railway in the United States is the fortytwo-mile strip from Lowell to Haver-

The director of the Austrian railroads had a locomotive constructed which makes a run of seventy-four miles an hour.

The ordinary cost of a cable road has been from $60,000 to $75,000 a mile of single track. It is stated that in Washington this cost of construction is brought down to $36,000 a mile.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company is running a remarkable amount of coal over the route from Nanticoke to Pottsville at present. The trainmen are making full time and many extra trips additional. The city council of Peoria, Ill., has declared the rights, privileges and fran-chises of the Central Railway company forfeited, and instructed the company to remove all its tracks, poles, wires, etc., from the streets.

Leadville's gold production for 1894 from virtually since gold producers will be $2,000,000, and with the present outlook and new discoveries being made it would be impossible to estimate what the camp will do next year.

Including stocks and bands the rall-ways of the United States are capitalized at $60,000 per mile, while those of Great Britain are capitalized at $220,-000 per mile, or nearly 400 per cent. higher than in this country.

The directors of the Delaware and Hudson have declared the regular dividend of 7 per cent, for the year 1895 out of the earnings of the year 1894. The dividend is payable one and threequarters per cent. quarterly.

The railroad suspension bridge a Niagara Falls, which is one of the oldest railroad bridges in the country, and probably the first large suspension bridge ever built, will soon be taken down and replaced by an arched canti lever bridge. L. L. Buck, who rebuilt the bridge, is preparing plans for the new structure. It is announced that General D. W. Caldwell has tendered his resignation as president of the Nickel Plate rail-road and will hereafter devote his entire attention to his duties as president of the Lake Shore, a position which he has held in conjunction with that of president of the Nickel Plate for the past two months. It is understood that President S. R. Callaway, of the St. Louis and Kansas City, will, in the course of a few days, be appointed preslent of the Nickel Plate to succee

General Caldwell President Harris' vote at the coming election of the Reading will be considerably larger than was predicted a week ago, when it was estimated he would receive upward of 500,000 shares. It is now probable the figures will be closer to 600,000 shares, as Henry Clews, the Wormsers, Mrs. Hettle Green and other large New York holders have notified him that he may count upon their support. If proxies are coming from this source it is believed the vote for Isaac L. Rice, the only opposing candidate, will not exceed 50,000 shares, Philadelphia Inquirer; "The report of the Lehigh Valley road for 1894 brings out with great clearness the cause of the poor carnings of all the anthracite roads, that is the reduction in freight rates. That the New Jersey Central is suffering from this cause its monthly reports show and the annual report of the Reading road, which will out in a few days, will show the same thing. For several years and for a part of 1894, the transportation on coal from the mines to New York harbor were $1.70 to $1.85 a ton. They have now been reduced to about $1,40 and the reduction is permanent. The history of transportation shows no instance where rates that were reduced

Brief History of the Most Bloodthirsty Indians on the North American Continent-Utterly Reject All

Advances of Civilization.

By the United Press.

Washington, Jan. 10.-The killing of two Americans by the Seri Indians, of for recent diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Mexico The victims belonged to an exploring expedition headed by a newspaper man named Robinson. The latter and one 250 souls—these savages are the most blood-thirsty in North America. For a long time they have terrorized Sonora, but the Mexican government seems powerless to control them.

The tribe was visited recently by an expedition from the bureau of ethtology, which has just returned to Washington with some very interesting information. Professor W. J. McGee, who led the party, said yesterday: "It is understood that the Seris are cannibals-at all events, that they eat every white man they can slay. They are cruel and treacherous beyond descrip-other Indians, having scarcely any arts worth mentioning. In fact, they have Nat. Lead. ... 37 Nat. an ordinary stone. "The Serisdive on the Island of Tiburon, in the Gulf of California. They claim 5,000 square miles of the mainland in Sonoro. Their dwellings are the rudest imaginable. A chance ock commonly serves for one wall of the habitation; stones are uiled up so as to make a small enclosure, and the shell of a single great turtle does for a roof. The house is always open on one side and is not intended as a shelter from storms, but chiefly to keep off the sun. The men and women wear a single garment like a pettleoat made of pelican skin; the children are naked. Not far from Tiburon, which is about thirty miles long by fifteen miles wide there is a smaller island where pellcans roost in vast numbers. The Seris go at night and with sticks knock over as many of the birds as they require. Remarkable Runners.

"Physically speaking, the Seris are nost remarkable. They are of great stature, the men averaging nearly six feet in height with splendld chests But the most noticeable point about them is their legs, which are slender and sinewy, resembling the legs of the deer. Since the first coming of the Spanlards they have been known to other tribes as the Runners. It is said that they can run from 150 to 200 miles a day, not pausing to rest. The jack-rabbit is considered a very fleet animal, yet these Indians are accustomed to catch jack-rabbits by out running them.

"Finding myself about 300 miles to the southward of the United States boundary and in the neighborhood of the Seris, I decided to visit them. I went into the country of the Seris with a very small party, consisting, besides myself, of Mr. Dinwiddie, of the bureau of ethnology; a young Mexican enginer, named Alvemar-Leon, a white driver and one Papago interpreter. We went to the rancho of a certain Senor Encinas, who has kept a stock farm in the territory of these bloodthirsty savages for many years. During that period he has maintained himself in warfare against the Seris and has finally convert the savages, and caught a couple of the latter to educate as interpreters. The plan for civilizing the Indians proved a failure. They did not care to become Christians, and they killed the Senor's stock. So, finally, the Senor decided to adopt a new course of procedure. He summoned the Indians to a council, as many of them as would come, and informed them that from that time on he and his vaqueros would slay an Indian for every head of cattle that was killed. At the same time he sent away the priests and engaged an additional number of vaqueros.

"The Indians paid no attention to the warning. A few days later they killed several head of cattle. Without delay the Senor and his men coralled and killed a corresponding number of the Seris. Then there was war. The savages made ambushes, but they had only bows and arrows, and the vaqueros fought bravely with their guns. Every ambush turned out disastrously for the Indians. Finally, the Seris made a great ambush, and there was a bat-tle which resulted in the killing of 65 savages. That lesson proved sufficient, and the Indians were glad to conclude a permanent peace, agreeing that no further depredations against the Senor or his property should be attempted. From beginning to end the fighting lasted for ten years. Live Entirely on Game. "No other people in North America have so few conceptions of civilization as the Seris. They have absolutely no agriculture. As well as I could ascertain, they never put a seed into the ground or cultivate a plant. They live almost wholly on fish, waterfowl and such game as they kill on the mainland. The game includes large deers like our black-tails, an exquisitely graceful

They seem to have almost no amusements, though the children play with very rude dolls. Before the whites came they used pieces of shell for cutting instruments. I ought not to forget to say that they are ac-customed to catch deer by running and surrounding the animals. No traditions worth mentioning appear to exist among them. The most interesting ornament I saw worn by any of then onora, last spring has given occasion was a necklace of human hair adorned with the rattles of rattlesnakes."

Never do they fight in open warfare, but, always lie in ambush. They are copper-colored Ishmaelites. It is their custom to murder everybody, white, red or Mexican, who ventures to enter the territory they call their own.
