GEN. CLEVELAND'S REPORT

Exhaustive Review of the Condition of the National Guard.

ENCAMPMENT AT GETTYSBURG

Ninth Regiment Company Commander Scored for Spreading Typhoid Fever in the Camp-Suggestions in Reference to New Rifles Free of Cost.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 11.-The annual apropriation for the expenses of the National guard of the state is not sufficient to keep it on the high plane it has now attained. The expenses of the guard constantly increase from natura? causes. For example, the item of pay alone, for the reason of full ranks in the companies and re-enlistments, was greater last year than in 1893 by over $7,000, an increase of $11,000 over 1891. As this money goes directly to the enlisted men, says Adjutant General Greenland in his annual report to Governor Pattison for the year just closed, the account cannot be in any manner curtailed. The adjutant general recommends that in addition to the forces now mustered in there should be an engineering corps attached to the division headquarters; also, an additional battery of artillery and a troop of cavalry. He also recommends that the appropriation be increased from $320,000 to $350,000 a year, that the number of copies of the annual report of the adjut-ant general be increased to 1,600 and that a competent person be detailed by the adjutant general to ascertain what flags of Pennsylvania regiments are in possession of the war department at Washington and that the legislature be requested to pass a resolution that congress return these flags to the state. Wants New Rifles Free of Cost.

General Greenland suggests that the legislature follow the example of New York and other states by adopting resolutions requesting congress to pass an act to issue the new magazine Krag Jarhensen rifle to the national guard of the different states free of cost. These rifles cost $20 apiece and to arm the guard of this state with this gun would involve an expense of $170,000.

The balance due the state at the end of June 30, 1894, was $4,192.92. The allowance for the year ending June 30. 1895, is $27,603.60. The total expenditures to Nov. 30, 1894, were $17,776.32, as follows: Arms, $2,732; accourrement, horse equipments, $567.46; tents. $2,697.41; miscellaneous, $350.72; balance due, $13,930,20.

The Guard's Value.

Under the head "The value of the national guard" the adjutant general reviews the valuable services rendered by the guard in the suppression of riot and disorder in Westmoreland and Fayette counties in April, 1891; at Homestead in the summer of 1892, and last year in the coke regions of Western Pennsylvania and bituminous coal fields. Of the movement of the troops to Homestead the adjutant general

"The history of this movement has been written and re-written, has been commented upon by military men, not only of the entire United States, but of foreign countries as well, as one that is simply unparalleled. The occupation of the town by this body of troops; confronted as it was with over 30,000 idle workmen, within a circle of a few miles of the place, in a little while putting an end to the riot without the shedding of a drop of blood, was simply wonderful and unprecedented. General Greenland estimates the number of enrolled men in the state subject to military duty at 800,324. The aggregate strength of the guard on Sept. 30 last was 8,934, a gain of over 322 during the year. The strength of the general Dec. 1, 1894, $107,751.25. several organizations Sept. 30, 1894, was as follows: Commander in chief, commissioned officers, 23; enlisted men, 5; total, 28. Major general and staffcommissioned officers, 12; enlisted men, 6; total, 18. First brigade—Commissioned officers, 206; enlisted men, 2,697; total, 2,913. Second brigade-Commis slored officers, 244; enlisted men. 3.020; total, 3,264. Third brigade-Commissioned officers, 209; enlisted men, 2,512; total, 2.721. Aggregate—Commissioned officers, 694; enlisted men, 8,240; total, 8.934. The report states that the average of the spring inspection, as a general rule, does not appear as favorable as those of the previous year for the reason that the standard of excellence has been advanced and suggests that the inspector general, the division and brigade inspectors and representatives from the line and staff be called together for the purpose of formulating a uniform system of ratings.

As to the division encampment of the guard at Gettysburg last summer the

"The supplies of quartermaster and commissary stores were ample in quantity and of the best quality that could be purchased; and with the exception of the delay in returning of the troops at the closing of camp, caused by the limited number of cars and motive power furnished to the division super-intendent of one of the roads running into Gettysburg, the camp was a complete success in every particular. The division commisary issued to the troops 66,974 rations at a cost of 19 cents each The uniform of the troops was in better condition than ever before. The new equipment, for which an appropriation was passed by the legislature of 1893, is now complete; and in addition to this equipment, rubber blankets, haver-sacks and other articles at an additional cost over and above this appropriation of more than $20,000 have been furnished from the quartermaster's stores of the state arsenal. "The expenses of the encampment of the guard at Gettysburg last year were for several reasons evcessively heavy, the items of transportation alone be ing over $10,000 in excess of any former year, owing to the camp being located almost on the southeastern border of the state, thus necessitating a greater distance for the troops to travel. In addition to that the largely increased percentage of attendance swelled the payrolls to an amount in excess of any former year-being more than $7,000 in excess of 1893 and nearly $11,000 over and above 1891. The amount of payrolls for 1894, in comparison with other years, is as follows: 1890, pay of troops (five days), $80,213.21; 1891, pay of troops (eight days), $132,473.82; 1892, pay of troops, Homestead riots—no camp; 1893, pay of troops, $136,052.75; 1894, pay of troops, $145,319.96.

Part of the Ninth Regiment Scored.

Adjutant General Greenland continues A portion of the excess in pay comes from the re-enlistment pay of 25 cents for each re-enlistment, and unless a change is made a large increase will be absolutely mecessary in the appropriation. Under the present mode of rating, company commanders fill their companies before going to camp and have in many cases discharged members of their companies who could not go to camp and filled their places temporarily with substitutes who were present in camp, but were in their turn discharged immediately after returning home. In addition to the injurious effect upon discipline this practice necessitates also the bringing into camp of many men who are unfit for duty and not only require state care and attention while there, but also endanger the lives and health of other soldiers, as in the case of company F, of the Ninth regiment, a careful and exhaustive examination of which, by the surgeons of the regiment, showed that one man, who was unable to do duty from the hour he reached camp until his departure for home, was detailed to act as an assistant cook and waiter in the mess quarters of his company and (in the expressive words of the surgeon in making his report) was a case of walking typhoid fever. On their return home twenty-two members of this company had contracted the fever, and of that number three died as the result of coming in contact with this man." In view of these facts General Greenland recommends that a surgeon's certificate of sickness should in future be accepted as sufficient cause for the absence from duty of any officer or enlisted man and that an application for leave of absence duly approved by the regimental commanders be similarly treated.

The Guard's Expenditures.

The expenditures of the guard from Dec. 31, 1893, to Dec. 30, 1894, were as follows: Quartermaster's department, $20,022; subsistence department, $13,-097.55; transportation department, $12,-410.54; rifle practice, $15,471.79; horse hire, $8,790.16; surgeon general, $939.80; inspector general, $2,270.52; court martial, $130.89; miscellaneous, $7,265.15; individual pay, $143,319.98; annual allowances, $67,385.41; armory rent, $28,300; total, $319,401.39; to credit of adjutant

The report shows that the division now contains 8,475 qualified marksmen, a gain of 818 since 1893, being 410 less than the total strength of the guard. This number comes largely from the staff officers, cavalry, artillery, and the naval battalion in Philadelphia. The number of sharpshooters for last year is 1,316, an increase over the previous year of 159.

The Inspector General's Report. Colonel Chambers McKibbin, of Pittsburg, inspector general, says in his report to the adjutant general that notwithstanding the rough weather during the Gettysburg encampment the divi-sion, as a whole, presented a magnificent appearance-arms, accoutrements equipments, discipline and general anpearance were fully up to the standard, and officers and men are deserving of more than ordinary mention for their efforts in making the encampment one of the most successful in the history of the guard. Colonel McKibbin says the appearance of the division was vastly im-proved by the new equipment and presented a uniformity of appearance that has been long looked for. The conduct of the troops en route to the encampment gave increased evidence of their soldiery conduct and of the high order of discipline maintained in the guard. He says the standard of discipline has been raised to such a high standard that incompetent or indifferent persons should not be permitted to hold commissions. He recommends that the inspector general's department and all other departments be re-organized and made to comform to that of the United States army, and that inspections should be made by officers of that de-

INDUSTRIAL TOPICS.

B. Frank Hunter, who has been acting assistant treasurer of the Pennsylvania railroad, has been elected assistant treasurer of that company. The Carnegie Steel company has been asked by the Swedish government to bid for the construction of armor plate for the new battleship, which Sweden is about to construct.

President Wilbur, of the Lehigh Valley, has replied to the request of the Evans R. Dick company for representation on the board of directors. As was anticipated the request was refused. The Baldwin Locomotive works of Philadelphia have shipped two locomotives to the Trans-Caucasian State Railway. The works have orders on their books for locomotives for South America, as well as for a number of railroads in this country, Coke production for the closing week of 1894 in the Connellsville region reached 151,462 tons, the highest output of the year. The previous week it passed the 150,000 mark for the first time in the year. The total production of the region for 1894 was greater than that of Anthracite coal interests in Philadelphia characterize rumors of a coal selling agency designed to handle the anthracite products of the country, as absurd. They say it would require capital of some $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 to work the scheme. Moreover, leading interests would refuse to surrender their identity. The greatest obstacle, however, would be legislative opposition, as such a pool is illegal under ex-

James M. Swank, general manager of the American Iron and Steel association, and a high authority on the iron and steel trades, says in a recent issue of the Bulletin of the Association: "For the iron trade there is today the hopeful view that the demand for iron and steel, except for steel rails, is much larger than it was a few months ago, and that prices have fallen so low that they can scarcely fall any lower. Taken together, these two conditions give support to the theory that prices must soon advance, and when prices begin to advance consumption will increase, reversing the usual rule. Our own judgment is that the business situation must from this time forth gradually improve. We look for more industrial activity in 1895 than in 1893 or 1894." The statement of shipments of anthracite coal (approximated) week ended Jan. 9 shows that the companies up to that time had closely oberved the restrictive agreement. Shipments for the week were 545,674 tons, a decrease compared with the same week last year of 16.194 tons. The average, on a basis of seven days a week, was 77,953 tons daily, and if not increased the month's output agreed upon-about 2,300,000 tons-will reach only 2,416,543 tons. There is no doubt that the companies are now using some of their surplus stocks. The Philadelphia Stockholder is informed by a wholly reliable source that more coal, since the first of the year, is being sold than mined. Trade is still waiting, however, probably on the report of the sub-committee appointed at the recent meeting of the sales agents. S. B. Bennett, of West Pittston, tells the Wilkes-Barre Record that among the plans discussed by the Anthracite Individual operators at Philadelphia Wednesday was one for mutual insurance among the individual operators. They complain that the rates of the old line companies are far too high for such extensive insurance as coal companies must carry and plans for a mutual insurance scheme were placed in the hands of a committee of which W. T. Smith, of Scranton, is chairman. This committee has been going about the mines and getting together the insurance statistics of the companies in order to report a plan at a future meeting. It is thought that rates according to this co-operative plan will be considerably cheapened. As to the condition of the coal trade no action was taken for the reason that no report was received from the presidents of the railroads who are trying to evolve some plan for putting it upon a better basis. There were present at the meeting from this region S. L. Brown Charles Parrish and Morgan B. Williams, of Wilkes-Barre; S. B. Bennet and J. L. Cake, of West Pittston: W. H Hollister, of Avoca; O. W. Bump, of Corning, N. Y.; Joseph and George Jermyn, C. D. Simpson, Thomas H. Watkins, O. H. Johnson and W. T. Smith, of Scranton.

New York, Jan. 11.-Speculation at the Stock exchange was quiet during the greater part of the day and it was not un-til the last bour when there was even an approach to activity.
