WORK Y. M. C. A. IS DOING

Christianity Adapted to Actual Needs of Young Men of Today. IS ENTIRELY NON-SECTARIAN

The Helper of All Churches and Has Been the Model of Many Kindred Movements Started in This Country—Officers of Local Association.

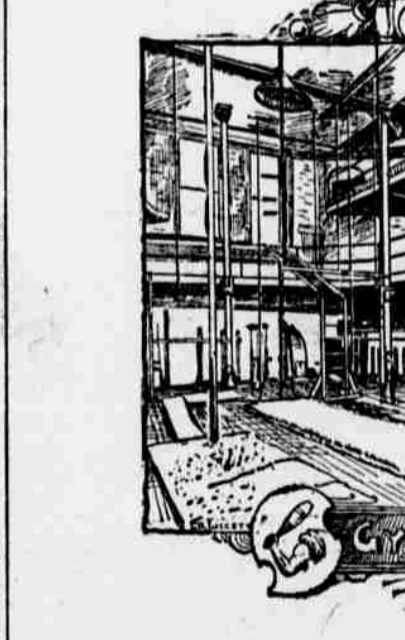

Parlor. It was not criticism of the church to say that she was failing to reach the young men, but it was rather an awakening on the part of the church herself.

to the fact that young men were not being reached. Hence the organization of the Young Men's Christian association was a spontaneous non-sectarian movement on the part of the liberal spirits in all the churches.

Great Need for the Work. The need for the work can readily be seen from facts observed in various towns. In one city of 20,000 population with an estimated population of 3,500 young men, only 189 were identified with any religious enterprise, and there were no additions to this number during the year, while there were 608 convictions of crime, most of the criminals being young men.

In another city of the same size, 567 young men were found in seven saloons in an hour and a half of Saturday evening, and 194 young men in all the churches the next morning.

audience. In the character of Paul Roach, an artist, Mr. Clarke gave new evidence of his great versatility.

It is interesting to note how many kindred movements have had their origin and inspiration in the work of the association. The St. Andrew's brotherhood was organized by Mr. Houghtling, of Chicago, who, for many years, had been and still is an active Young Men's Christian association worker, and who applied its system to the new organization for Episcopalian young men. The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor is also an outgrowth of Young Men's Christian association work, as "Father Endeavor" is acknowledged.

Prominent Men at the Head. The names of the men who have been interested in the welfare of the Scranton association for the past twenty-six years are the names of the men who have had most to do with the city's material and moral development. The different boards of directors which have been annually have been chosen so as to represent both church and business interests, and the present board is no exception. Its officers and members are responsible for the entire management of the work, and are composed of the following gentlemen: President, A. W. Dickson, Weston Milling company; vice presidents, G. F. Reynolds, of the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company, and William Frank, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad; treasurer, H. C. Shafer, Scranton Savings bank; recording secretary, W. W. Ingalls, of the Hillside Coal and Iron company.

IN LOCAL THEATERS.

Tonight at the Academy of Music, "O'Neil, Washington, D. C.," a drama from the pen of Dan L. Hart, the clever young Wilkes-Barre playwright, will be produced by Daniel Sully and company. In this play Mr. Sully has achieved an undeniable triumph. "O'Neil, Washington, D. C.," is written in an entirely different vein from any in which he has heretofore appeared. The characters are taken from real life and partake of the color of the locality in which the scenes are laid, which is, as the title indicates, the city of Washington.

The two clever old time vaudeville stars, Conroy and Fox, will appear at the Academy of Music on Thursday evening in their great farce comedy success, "Hot Tamales." The Omaha Daily Bee says: "When Conroy and Fox announced last season that they would break away from the domain of the vaudeville stage and attempt something in the farce-comedy line, their friends, who are legion, watched the incubation of their new vehicle for the display of their Celtic humor with a great deal of interest. Their success in their new venture is great."

Manager Davis secured an excellent minstrel company for his Linden street theater today, Tuesday and Wednesday, when the farce-comedy, "A Stranger," will be presented. Mr. Deming and his company have earned unstinted praise on their tour and their is no doubt that their excellent program will be highly appreciated in Scranton.

Wilfred Clarke and his company presented "Tit for Tat" at the Frothingham Saturday night to a well pleased Quick Bread Recipes Given by Miss Cross. Prize Contests Will Be Continued This Week—Some Pertinent Notes of the Exhibit.

The growing popularity of the Food Exposition is attested by the fact that on Saturday, the closing day of the first week, more visitors attended than on any previous day. For the present each night has been set aside as a special night for some suburban town or locality and in addition will witness some special feature.

Eggs as a Leavening Power. When Eggs—Two eggs separated, beat the whites until light, add two yolks, cup of milk, cup of whole wheat flour, one-half a teaspoonful of salt, fill the egg pans half full of the mixture, brush over with melted butter and bake twenty-five minutes. With the melted butter stir in the whites of the eggs and sift in one level teaspoonful of baking powder. Always add the baking powder last.

Subject for Today's Lecture. Miss Cross this afternoon will lecture on "Diet for the Sick." Physicians and nurses will be admitted free on presentation of their cards at the door.

NOTES OF THE EXHIBIT.

Tomorrow night the Press club booth will award the jelly cake prize. Wilkes-Barreans have arranged a cake walk to be given in that city in connection with the exhibit.

The exhibitors declare that Scranton grocers are receiving many inquiries for goods demonstrated at the Food exposition.

Several Scranton clubs endeavored to secure the Russian band for private concerts this week, but they had other engagements in Gotham.

"Tonight is 'Lodge night' and 'West Side night.'" Each visitor will be allowed to vote for any lodge, society, Sunday school or other organization. The one receiving the most votes will be presented with a silver water vase.

The "Camella" cereals shown by the Marshall, Kennedy Milling company, are handsomely put up in cartons and are said to be very satisfying to epicures. Duggan & Co. are the local agents of the company and are in charge of the exhibit.

For the best chocolate icing made from premium chocolate W. H. Baker & Co. awarded the first prize of $5 to Miss Julia Denman, 138 South Hyde Park avenue, and the second prize of $2.50 to Miss J. A. Fritz, 521 Madison avenue. The company renews its offers of prizes this week, the awards to be made on the excellence of the icings made from Premium chocolate.

H. G. Cooke, of Mooretown, N. J., has made many friends in the city during the past week while attending to the interests of his firm at the food exposition. As a result of his affable manners and friendly intercourse with our people samples of his Royal Dutch Cocoa were upon the breakfast table in many Scranton homes yesterday morning.

Tired of the Contest. Court on Saturday granted a rule in the election contest of John J. Flynn, of Olyphant, for the office of council in the Third ward of Olyphant, to show cause why the contest should not be terminated. The rule is made returnable next Saturday.

Bateman Enters Bail. William Bateman, who is charged with being implicated in the attempt to burn the Howley building at Penn avenue and Market street, was released from the county jail on bail Saturday.

J. M. C. Ranek after being absent from the city recruiting his health, has returned and opened an office at No. 135 Wyoming avenue, Equity building, special attention given to collections and all other business entrusted to his care. (See card.)
