Four Young Men Consecrated to God at St. Peter's Cathedral Yesterday Morn ing by Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Hara.

Right Reverend Bishop O'Hara ordained to the holy priesthood four young men yesterday morning at the 10.30 mass in St. Peter's cathedral. The young men, who were invested with sacred orders were: Rev. Edward Kelley, of this city, who acquired his classical training at the St. Charles College of the Order of Sulpicians at Ellicott City, Md., and his theological course at St. Mary's seminary, Balti-more; Rev. Thomas Carmody, of Towanda, who was graduated from St. John's college, Fordham, N.Y., and who studied theology at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore, where he completed his course and was ordained to minor orders by Cardinal Gibbons. Father Carmody came here about six weeks ago and has been teaching at St. Thomas' college since. The other priests were two young Hungarian students, Rev. Father Jankola and Rev. Father Stats. They were educated in the old country and were graduated before they were of the age to be ordained. Since coming to this country about a year ago they have resided with Rev. Father Janauscheck, at Olyphant.

The ordination ceremony was a very impressive one and took place immediately after the epistle of the mass. Bishop O'Hara was the celebrant; Rev. N. J. McManus, of Providence, archdeacon; Rev. J. J. Mangan, of the Cathedral, master of ceremonies, and Rev. P. F. Quinnan, assistant master of

RESULT OF YEAR'S

NUMBER INMATES CARED FOR

The Children Received at the Home In dentured to Families-Four Deaths During the Year-Donations That Were Made to the Institution.

Following is the report of Mrs. W. D Kennedy, secretary of the board of managers of the Home for the Friendss, for the year just closed:

Again, at the beginning of a New Year we come before the friends of the Home to review the work of the past welve months.

twelve months.

In many respects it has been a hard year, for both rich and poor. The profits of capital have been meagre and hundreds of willing hands have gone unemployed. It is with grateful hearts that we can report today that our work has been well sustained. has been well sustained.

that we can report today that our work has been well sustained.

Since the beginning of the "hard times," charity has been so systematized that few of the really deserving poor have been in positive need. Organization has tended to weed out the undeserving and benefit those in distress, and best of all it has kept many families from being separated.

During the past year there have been admitted to the home 33 boys, 31 girls and 6 women, which does not exceed the usual number received. Many of these came through the application of friends or acquaintances, others were sent by the poor board or chief of police, and quite a number through the Associated Charities. They have ranged in age from a feeble old lady of 85 years to a baby a few weeks old.

or the children admitted to the home in 1894, eight have been indentured to us; ten indentured by the home to families, and one sent to the Girl's Refuge in Philadelphia. Many visits were paid the homes of these and other indentured children by the home visitors. One month eleven visits were reported. Many of the reports were most inter-esting and nearly all were encourag-cough, but none of the more malignant, contagious diseases.

Four deaths have occurred. The first February 24, was the little 4-year-old boy sent us by the agent of the Associated Charities. The poor child had been most inhumanly treated by some person unknown, deep burns being on various parts of his body. The second death occurred in July. An infant girl 4 months old. The third in September, infant girl 7 weeks old. The last one, Mrs. Cynthia Taylor, aged 86, died Jan. 7, 1895, admitted last September.

The committee of religious services have unostentatiously done a most praiseworthy work. The services have been much appreciated by the old laddes, and there is little doubt that the clergymen, who so kindly responded to the calls of the committee, have been well repaid for their time and trouble. The closing service of the year, will not soon be forgotten by those present. The finance committee again deserve credit for a very successful excursion to Binghamton. The net receipts were $685.25.

The fuel committee, as usual hav kept the bin well stocked with coal, the companies having responded liberally to their solicitations.

The committee on grounds not only kept the lawn so it was a perpetual tes-timony to their efficiency, but furnished many vegetables from the garden, which were much enjoyed by the fam-

Desserts were, as heretofore, furnished for the Sunday dinner, a little la-bor of love much valued. The board appreciates the arduous, faithful seres of the chief manager and matron. Great credit should be given them for the harmonious, pleasant atmosphere that has prevailed at the home during the year. It has been like one great family.

The cash receipts donation day were $552.15-somewhat less than for several years past. However, the home man-agers have no reason to complain. There were large donations, besides the cash contributions. The merchants and business men were very liberal. There were fifteen barrels of flour and two of sugar and large quantities of general

Generosity of Scholars.

The scholars from various schools by small gifts from each child, sent ten bushels of potatoes, two barrels of apples, one bushel of sweet potatoes, one hundred heads of cabbage and con-siderable canned fruit. The Alpine Knitting mills again sent a large number of, vests for the old ladies.

From Hamilton the "Busy Bees," a band of eleven little girls, the oldest 13, the youngest 5 years of age, sent a quilt and a barrel of apples, with a lovely letter from the secretary, a lit-tic girl whose two younger brothers are still in the home. At the last board meeting the treas-urer acknowledged the receipt of fifty 10-cent pieces from two little sisters at Clark's Summit, to be used in the erec-tion of the new home building. The hearts of the children seemed to be especially drawn toward the home work the past year. It is a good omen for At Thanksgiving, as usual, the home was generously remembered. The churches did not forget their usual offerings. The children of No. 35 school sent a generous donation. One teacher in sending wrote: "The children are learning to give some of their gifts from the Giver of all blessings. The home children attend No. 33 school. The teacher asked for a Thanks-giving offering—not for any institution for poor families. The little faces lengthened—then a hur-The little faces lengthered—then a nurried consultation. On the table were nice red apples for desert. The kindergarch in the home, inder the instruction of Miss Lillian Morris, has been a new feature the past year, and has well repaid the cost. The children are very fond of their teacher and have improved wonderfully.

The home family never neglects to observe the various holidays. Easter brought them many gifts. The Fourth of July they had dinner and tea on the lawn and a pleasant entertainment in the evening. Even Hallowe'en was not allowed to pass without a fitting observance. The old ladies came down stairs and seemed to heartily enjoy the boisterous merriment of the little ones. Christmas was so full of gladness, the gifts were so generous, the Globe warehouse dinner so bountiful, the children so exuberant over their loads of gifts, the old ladies so weighted down with happiness and the generous offerings of Remembered by Mrs. Reed. During the past year Mrs. Sively Reed, one of our life members, has been called from earth. She was one of the first officers of the society and a life-long friend. By her will, she evinced her fidelity to its interests by bequeathing $1,000 to the organization.

The home has also lost, in the death of Mr. W. W. Winton, one of its liberal supporters. Our sympathies go out toward his afflicted widow, our faithful senior manager. One name has been added to the roll of life members, Mrs. William H. Storrs.

A very welcome contribution of $430.51 came to us through John E. Smith of Dunmore, treasurer of the fund for the Johnstown sufferers. St. Luke's Guild greatly added to the health and happiness of two of our old ladles by giving them a change of air and scene at their summer home, Dalton.

Physicians have given careful attention to our sick. Ministers have rention to our sick. Ministers have ren-dered cheerful and willing service. Quilts have been sent from various sources, one labelled, "For the bed of the oldest old lady." Collections have even been forwarded from summer re-sorts. Tickets have been given for matinees. The press of the city have been uniformly kind, courteous and lib-eral.

We hope the coming year that the unsolicited gifts for current expenses will be greater than ever before, as we expect to do away with the system of house to house solicitation, except for the annual memberships. The city has outgrown the old time plan. It is impossible to cover the entire field. It is, and long has been, an extremly hard and, in some instances, a disagreeable and, in some instances, a disagreeable task to perform. We trust the friends of the home will take kindly to the new method, and that the treasury will no suffer from the change. It is prob-able that regular annual subscriptions will be solicited.

And now before closing, we must lay before you the details of the largest financial undertaking we, as an organ-ization, have ever attempted. For the first time in many years we come before you with a nearly empty treasury. For a long time we have needed more room. The managers considered the matter very carefully. The building commit-tee, with its able chairman, deliberated leng and corposity. Our advisors board long and earnestly. Our advisory board met with us many times and gave the matter thoughtful attention. It was deemed advisable to erect a new home building on our lots at Green Ridge. Architects were invited to submit plans. Several very kindly responded. Those of Davis & Houpt were accepted as most nearly meeting our requirements.

Work on the New Building. In September the contract was awarded the Peck Lumber Manufacturing company for the foundation, less the left wing, for the sum of $6,613, the the left wing, for the sum of $6,613, the architects (now changed to Davis & Von Storch) to superintend the work. The foundation is completed. We have paid, as you noted by the treasurer's report, $1,000 to the architects and $3,800 to the contractors. Very soon our last payment of about $2,000 must be made. The building fund accrued by bequests from Mr. J. J. Albright, Mrs. H. S. Pierce and Mrs. Thomas Moore, has been exhausted.

We desire to let the contract in the we desire to be the contact in the spring for the superstructure, less the left wing. It will cost about $40,000. We hope, in time, to dispose of our Adams avenue property, but this will not be sufficient for our needs. It remains for the friends of the home to say whether we shall continue in our undertaking. The home has always had the generous support of the public. We have faith to believe that when a per-sonal appeal is made to the friends of sonal appeal is made to the friends of the home, the response will be most liberal, and that the universal verdict will be, "Let the good work go on." Scranton did not want Minooka and now the ambitious denizens of that hamlet are agitating the subject of forming into a borough. The citizens of Minooka had hoped that the city councils would favorably consider their petition, and since their application for annexation was rejected they have determined to pull away from the present condition of things. Under the laws regulating townships in this state it is impossible for a progressive community to plunge forward, although there is enough of taxes levied to support a set of officers that would be invested with the powers to order and enforce public improve-ments. Martin McDonough, one of the leading citizen of Minooka, stated to a Tribune reporter that local polities is now busying the people and they have for the time being forgotten this matter in the bustle and turmoil of the other, but as soon as the February election passes, the agitation will be taken

I VESTIGATION ASKED

Strong Resolutions Adopted at Armenian Meeting.

GOVERNMENT URGED TO ACT

Ask That Speedy Redress Be Demanded for the Unspeakable Wrongs Already Perpetrated-Addresses That Were Made by Well Known Citizens.

Scrantonians did not properly appreciate the efforts of the gentlemen who promoted the indignation meeting came to us through John B. Smith. of on Saturday night if the attendance at Elm Park church on that occasion formed any criterion. Rev. Dr. Griffin, of Binghamton, opened the meeting by prayer, and Mayor Connell, chairman, was then introduced by Rev. W. H. Pearce in appropriate terms.

Rev. James McLepd, who has acted Rev. D. C. Hughes read a report of the work done by the committee and submitted the following resolution:

of New York city, will be in his Scranton office, 411 Wyoming avenue, every Monday from 8 in the morning until 9 in the evening. as accretary of the committee, explained the object of the meeting and

Resolved, That we as citizens of Scren ton, Pennsylvania, representing the Chris-tian sentiment of our city and thousands of our fellow citizens of the outlying disof our fellow citizens of the outlying dis-tricts, appeal to the president of the United States as well as the branches of congress that measures be immediately adopted to prevent any further infringe-ment of the rights of our fellow Chris-tians wherever found under the flag of Turkey; and that speedy redress be de-manded for the unspeakable wrongs al-rendy perpetrated. Pertinent are the words of our own Lowell in this connec-tion:

"He's true to God who is true to man, Wherever wrong is done 'Neath the beholding sun; That wrong is also done to us And they are slaves most base, Whose love of right is for themselves And not for all their race."

Remarks by Mayor Connell. Mayor Connell then addressed the meeting and remarked that the Armenian atrocities were unparalleled in the history of the human race and caused strong men to shudder and wo-men to turn to them for protection. The people of Armenia were not persecuted because they were not a law-abiding people, but because they claimed the same privileges that were already in our possession, liberty of conscience, liberty to worship God in the manner they choose. He trusted that the peo ple of Scranton would be aroused by the meeting and that it would awaken the government to a sense of its duty under the circumstances. Judge Hand made an admirable address in which he said that this country could not understand how in the nineteenth century any ruler could be so arbitrary to attempt to weaken his own power or government by destroying a portion of those committed to his care. It was impossible for a true American to hear of cruelties without his sympathies being aroused and that spirit of sympathy was responsible for the meeting and for the feeling of horror which swept over the land when the Armenian atrocities were first reported Judge Hand then spoke of the right of the American government to interfere In such circumstances, and hoped that from such meetings there would proceed an influence, not of revenge, but of righteous indignation, to warn the that atrocities of kind would be unheard of. A bill was before congress giving this country consular representation in the region they were discussing and he trusted that the influence of the meeting would prevail on senators and congressmen in passing the bill. Experience of E. B. Sturges.

E. B. Sturges related his experience on Turkish sell and urged that the Sultan, probably, was not aware of the atrocities. He supported the sugges tion that this country should send a delegation to investigate the atrocitie and that they should be accompanied with a file of soldlers for protection.

Rev. P. J. McManus, in an eloquent speech, supported the objects of the meeting. He held that by the right of Christianity and the brotherhood o men we were justified in attacking the internal policy of another nation. An example should be made of the Turk as we had shown by previous wars, that it was the policy of this country to protect man; the protection of mer was the question now at issue, and wherever an American could be found, the government should be there to pro test him. City Solicitor James H. Torrey em phasized the point that when England and America neglected to prevent further atrocities they became in a measure responsible for the atrocities. A display of power would thoroughly overawe the Turk. Rev. James McLeod read letters of sympathy with the objects of the meeting from William Connell, W. W. Watson and Rev. Rogers Israel after which he made a powerful speech condemning the atrocities. The following amendment, offered by E. B. Sturges, was incorporated in the resolution:

Resolved. That the united government be urged to insist upon the privifege of making an independent or unhampered investigation of the alleged
