THE CHAMBER CONCERT.

Rare Treat Given at Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Night. The second of the four chamber on certs under the direction of Professor Theodore Hemberger at the Young Men's Christian association hall last evening, was an artistic achievement The hall was well filled with an appreclative audience. The first number, Trio, op. 1, No. 1, in E flat major, was the gem of the evening. Theodore Hemberger, violin; T. Rippard, cello, and J. Willis Conant, displayed the nicety, finish and warmth of expression requisite in the performance of a beautiful ensemble; the light and chade was well nigh perfection, swelling to a happy climax; the sequence of ides looming up to a pitch intended by the genius of Bonn-the brightest light that ever shone in the firmament of the art divine, music.

The second number, "Adelaide," was rendered in a masterly manner by J. C. Atkin, of Wilkes-Barre, who was rapturously received. Number three, l, in D major, again showed the ability of Messrs. Hemberger and J. Willis Conant in their respective parts, and All Soul's Universalist church on was a treat rarely enjoyed by a Scranton audience, "Remembrance" also showed the presty voice of Mr. Atkin, before the series of chamber concerts close this season

The string quartette, op. 18, No. 2, in G major, consisted of Messrs. Hemberger, R. J. Rippard, T. H. Rippard and R. J. Bauer, and was all that could be desired.

TAX DISPUTE IS SETTLED.

Judge Edwards Decides That Lackawanna Township Has No Right to Claim Taxes from the Portion of Bellevue Annexed to the City of Scranton.

Tax Collector James Butler, of Lackawanna township, will not collect any taxes from the property owners of that part of Bellevue which was formerly a part of the township, but which was annexed to the city of Scranton on Dec. 19, 1893. When Mr. Butler appeared to collect the taxes the citizens, led by John Hale, one of Bellevue's most prominent men, refused to pay the taxes to the township collector on the ground that Bellevue is a part of the city, and the township has no claim whatever on any property or taxes of the district. Equity proceedings were begun in ourt and a preliminary injunction was granted, restraining Tax Collector Butler from levying any tax until the matter should be decided. Judge Edwards heard arguments in the case, and, after passing upon them, he handed down a decision yesterday making the preliminary injunction permanent. In summing up his opinion Judge Edwards said that he could not see how any doubt could creep into the case. The law gives all cities of the third class a right to annex townships, boroughs, or parts of either, and this is done and formulated by action of the city councils. As a matter of fact the councils of Scranton did by ordinance annex the district in question, on Dec 19, 1893, and that action was final, unless an appeal to the courts was taken aken, but the proceedings on Jan. 16, 1894. It made no difference whether the act of annexation ought to date from the time the ordinance became a law, or the date of the confirmation of the proceedings by the court. Both dates were anterior to the township assessment, which was made by the supervisors on May 5, 1894.

Verdict for the Defendants in the Case of Sweetser, Pembroke & Co., Against McDonald'and Gilpatrick-Dis., pute About Fence Lines

There was but one case tried it ourt yesterday and no others will be called during the rest of this week. The remaining cases on the list were either continued or settled; a good many of them were continued on the ground of the sickness of those con nected with one or the other side.

The jury in the case of Sweetser Pembroke & Co., against P. F. Mc Donald and T. J. Gilpatrick, of Carbondale, brought in a verdict in favor o the defendant. The jury could hardly do dinerwise from all the evidence in the case and the charge of the court This was one of the cases that has a hidden story of true friendship that passes all hypocrisy. McDonnid is an old man and the uncle of Gilpatrick; when the latter became involved in trouble McDonald, who had never been sonate, for plane and violin, op. 12, No. | married, always led a frugal industri ous life, and had saved up several thousand dollars in bank, took thes ravings of a lifetime and turned them over to the city of Carbondale to make good the amount Gilpatrick owed as city treasurer. All the old man got in and it is hoped he will be heard again return was the stock in Gilpatrick's store, which did not go within one tenth of redeeming him.

There Was No Collasion.

Sweatser, Pembroke & Co., plevined the stock and tried to prov that there was collusion between Mc Donald and Glipatrick. The jury did not think so and said so by their verdict for the defendant.

A few minutes before the noon hom Judge Gunster finished his charge in the case of William Moore against James Rowley and at adjournment the jury had not agreed upon a verdict. This is the suit brought by the plaintiff to obtain possssion of a lot of ground on Wyoming avenue, in this city, which he purchased at sheriffs' sale, and the defendant refuses to vacate. The one case tried was that of Robert Tinsley against John Walsh. has been in the courts for several years and was tried once before, but a new trial was granted. It involves a dispute over the fence lines of three lots of ground situated in Moosic. The jury was sent out and ordered to report with their verdict this morning if they shall have agreed upon one.

ADDRESS BY JOHN R. FARR.

Delivered in Pittsburg Wednesday Evening-Reasons Why There Should Be a Law Making Education Compulsory.

The address whch Representative Farr, of this city, delivered at Pitsburg Wednesday evening in support of his compulsory education bill is one of the strongest arguments yet made or this subject. Only a synopsis of it appears in the Pittsburg papers, and from this we quote as follows: For twenty years at least there has en an earnest agitation in this state for compulsory education. At the session of

of the house and senate passed a pulsory educational measure, which pro-vided for the attendance at some school of all children, between the age of 8 and 12, physically and mentally able for at Governo Pattison vetoed that bill and a large arm of coming men and women cannot rea and write as a consequence. He again ve toed it in 1992. A hundred thousand of more neglected children are the sufferer and must go through life handicapped t ignorance because of the sentimental regard of Governor Pattison for the right of parents who will not, when they can lucate their children. Within two day of his veto on this educational measure Governor Pattison signed the amends factory bill, which prevented children under 13 years of age from working in o around coal breakers and factories, inter ering with parental right and authorit to the extent of preventing parents from patting their children to work, but giv-ing them license to allow these children to roam the streets and to pass into man-hood and womanhood as illiterates. If we deem it necessary to keep out undesirable classes is it not of the greatest importance that the children of those who are here get some instruction? Their parents have very limited knowledge of our customs and laws. They cannot talk English. Most are eager for the rights of citizenship. In many portions of our state they are now the balance of power, and the day is near when in some places they will express the wish of the voters. Police courts and criminal lists are hurdened with their misdoings. They have low-ered the dignity of labor and reduced patiently awaited; but what of their chil dren? Shall they follow the lines of their parents? Few of them are being educated. Illiterate sens and daughters of these illiterates will be more dangerous than their parents. Safety demands that they be educated. Nearly thirty other states have compulsory education. The people of the Keystone state have yet to follow the injunction of its founder. "Educate the people," so far as its universal application is concerned.
