HIGH SCHOOL CONTRACT.

Committee Will Recommend that the Work of Placing Heating and Ventilating Apparatus in the Structure Be Done by Hunt & Conell.

After a lengthy and spirited meeting of the high school committee of the board of control last night, it was decided to recommend at the next board meeting that Hunt & Conell be awarded the contract for placing the "Smith Heating and Ventilating System" in the new high school building. Those present; Chairman Geo. Mitchell, W. G. O'Malley, T. J. Jennings, C. H. VonStorch, W. J. Welsh and P. L. Worman.

The bids were as follows: Gaylord & Rapene, Binghamton, $29,973; Hunt & Conell, $29,478; W. P. Conell & Son, $30,678; Rutler & Co., New York, $32,265; Bates & Co., New York, $37,465. Hunt & Conell's bid, on motion of Mr. O'Malley and seconded by Mr. Lanestaff, was accepted by the following vote: Ayes, Worman, O'Malley, Lanestaff and VonStorch; nays, Welsh, Jennings and Mitchell.

Mr. Worman introduced his vote by remarking that he favored awarding the contract to a home firm, all things considered, and that in view of the present depression of business the awarding of the contract to a local firm would benefit a large number of local laborers and mechanics. Mr. Jennings remarked that he could not conscientiously vote in the affirmative because he believed the Binghamton firm had complied with all necessary requirements and their bid should not be set aside. Mr. Welsh spoke in a similar vein.

It was decided to adopt the electric system of controlling the heat, to furnish the lavatories with marble, and to use a steam engine in the attic to run the exhaust fan instead of an electric motor. The latter change will make a saving of about $1,000, and the contract is awarded with the proviso that the firm receiving it agrees to accept the amended specifications and make the reduction in their bid which the change warrants.

A BARREL OF MONEY.

A Splendid Comedy-Drama Presented at Davis' Theater Yesterday.

E. D. Stairs' bright comedy-drama, "A Barrel of Money," was presented with great success at Davis' theater yesterday. The scenes are laid in a manufacturing city called Slackville in the state of Vermont, where Henry Hazlett, the squint's son, makes love to Roxana, who is a naughty young lady continually in mischief. The manner in which she tortures the love-stricken Hazlett creates roars of laughter.

The third act shows the iron mills, with machinery in full working order, and is followed by very realistic scenes showing the mill hands go on strike. The drama is very interesting and attracts the continual attention of the audience and from the reception given yesterday crowded houses may be anticipated.

Board of Trade Disapproves the Baltimore Currency Plan.

MONEY PLENTIFUL ENOUGH

But the Hitch Comes in Circulating It. Annual Meeting Re-elects Its Old Officers and Receives Committee Appointments—Minor Business.

A fairly well-attended annual meeting of the board of trade last night re-elected its old officers for the ensuing year, received and discussed at length the special committee's report on the "Baltimore Currency Plan," received the appointment of new committees for 1895 and transacted a large amount of minor business. R. J. Foster acted as secretary pro tem in the absence of Secretary Atherton, who, with J. A. Lansing, left at 10 o'clock yesterday to attend the meeting at Cincinnati to organize a National Association of Manufacturers.

Following is the report of the special committee appointed to examine the "Baltimore Currency Plan":

"We find the foundation for the plan in its first, second and seventh sections. The first of these provides for the repeal of the provision of the national bank act requiring the deposit of bonds to secure circulating notes. The second provides that banks be allowed to issue circulating notes to the amount of 50 per cent of their paid up and undivided capital, plus 25 per cent of one-half of 1 per cent, per annum, upon the average amount of circulation outstanding for the year and an additional circulation of 25 per cent of their undivided capital subject both to the tax of one-half of 1 per cent, per annum and to an additional heavy tax per annum, said additional tax to be equal to its capital outstanding for the year. Said additional tax to be known as an emergency circulation.

"Of the general features of the circulation of each failed bank shall be a first lien on its assets.

"Reasons for Disapproval.

"Your committee does not approve of these sections for the following reasons: We see no necessity for abolishing the currency provisions of the present national bank act, but we see good reasons for retaining them. The present act has been amended by the government bonds and has given our country the safest paper money that any country can have.

"Of the general features of government bonds outstanding, the national banks are now using about one-quarter of their capital, and they are secured by $25,000,000 and the amount now used by national banks being $19,000,000.

"We believe a portion, at least, of the greenbacks and Treasury notes, the total of the two being about $600,000,000, should be redeemed by issuing in their place a bond bearing a low rate of interest, and of the same weight as the national bank currency more elastic, the restriction now existing, should be removed that requires banks to wait six months after having reduced their circulation, and to pay the cost of the government tax of 1 per cent, on circulation should be reduced and the bank act should be amended so that the banks should be allowed to issue an amount of circulation equal to 75 per cent of their capital, and then an additional amount, equal to 25 per cent of their capital, in the form of bonds, but subject to a tax heavy enough to cause it to be retired when it is not needed in trade. This would also raise the limit of circulation for each bank to an amount equal to its capital, instead of 90 per cent of it, as at present.

"What the Committee Believes.

"We also believe that banks should be allowed to issue currency to the amount of 75 per cent of the paid up capital, instead of 90 per cent, as at present.

"We object to the circulation of the banks being a first lien on their assets, as we believe the such section should be left wholly for the depositors.

"We agree with a suggestion that has been made as to the advisability of the president of the United States appointing a non-partisan committee of eminent financiers to investigate currency matters and report to congress.

William H. Peck,
J. A. Lansing,
Samuel Hines,
Committee.

The report practically favors the present plan of currency without the greenback system, although the committee suggests the issuance of bonds at a lower rate of interest and the extending of circulation to a full par value. A. W. Dickson, W. H. Peck, President May, R. J. Foster, H. J. Anderson, H. E. Paine, Colonel F. L. Hitchcock and Samuel Hines participated in a rather one-sided discussion which indicated that the present system with its weak points is preferable to the new plan. Mr. Hines was of the opinion that if the amendments suggested in the report had been adopted by congress two years ago the financial depression would not have existed. The enormous amount of $700,000,000 lying in reserve indicates a lack of opportunity for investment rather than any stringency of circulation.

Would Not Remove Cause.

Under these circumstances it appeared that the Baltimore plan for increasing circulation would not remove the cause of financial crisis. There was a marked concurrence on the proposition that the president appoint a commission of financiers to investigate currency matters.

The report was adopted unanimously and the Baltimore chamber of commerce will be notified that its plan is not approved.

The legislation and taxes committee reported the introduction in council of an ordinance taxing wagons, excepting those with wide tires. The committee reported the amendments suggested by R. G. Dun & Co., through its local agent, David Picketts, to the bankruptcy law, which were adopted as follows: That judgment notes be filed three days after signature, otherwise they shall lose the privilege of execution; that any preference to a creditor sixty days prior to his insolvency shall lose its privilege; an amendment providing for a system of division among preferred and other creditors was concurred in.

On motion of A. W. Dickson, the matter was referred back to the committee in conjunction with the secretary for formulation and to be forwarded to the legislature.

The publication committee reported that the issuance of the 1894 reports recently had been accomplished without expense to the board, which would receive 2,500 copies and a sum of money more than sufficient to pay the cost of mailing.

New Members of the Board.

New members were elected as follows: R. A. Zimmerman, C. P. J. J. J. Van Nort, J. E. Williams, Thomas Aubrey, J. W. Guernsey and J. James Taylor.

A number of communications from commercial organizations in several cities and bearing upon financial and other matters were acted upon.

The names of seven members were

HIS TROUBLES NOT OVER

Doc Smith's Right to Lil Howard's Property to Be Contested Further.

AN APPEAL HAS BEEN ENTERED

The Decision of Register Koehler Refusing to Revoke the Letters of Administration to Smith Will Be Reviewed.

Answer Filed by Smith.

Another chapter was enacted yesterday in court in the case of Mrs. Asenath Davis, of Throop, against "Doc" M. D. Smith, who insists that he was the lawful husband of the late Esther M. Davis, otherwise known as Lil Howard, whose death occurred on Sept. 17, 1894, possessed of considerable property and leaving no will.

The doctor was granted letters of administration on the estate on Nov. 3, 1894. Mrs. Davis was a half sister of Miss Howard, and she petitioned Register Koehler to revoke the letters granted. A hearing was taken before the register at which Attorney E. C. Newcomb appeared for Mrs. Davis and Attorney O. B. Partridge and Milo J. Wilson for the defendant. Many witnesses on both sides were sworn, but after the case was over Register Koehler refused to revoke the letters granted to the doctor.

Mrs. Davis carried the motion to the judicial court and a citation was issued by Judge Edwards ordering the doctor to show cause why an appeal should not be taken from the decision of the register refusing to revoke the letters of administration. A hearing on the rule took place yesterday and after hearing the arguments court made the rule absolute and allowed the appeal to proceed and required the doctor to file an answer.

The answer filed by the doctor's attorneys was that he was the legal and lawful husband of Esther M. Walter at the time of her decease, and as such he is entitled to administer upon her estate as was fully proven by the evidence taken by the doctor in relation to the case. He admits that Mrs. Asenath Davis was a half sister of Esther M. Walter, and that A. B. Constock was her nephew and Miss Alice Meyers her niece; but he was her husband and as such is entitled to the estate.

AN ORGANIZATION FORMED.

Teachers of the City Form an Aid Association—Details of the Plan as Developed at the Meeting in Liberty Hall.

A plan for establishing a sick benefit and annuity fund among the public school teachers of the city was formulated by a largely attended meeting of teachers in Liberty hall yesterday afternoon, when a committee was appointed to draft the by-laws and constitution in accordance with the plan decided upon.

The meeting was presided over by Professor George Howell, and Professor M. J. Donahoe acted as secretary. A committee on organization, which had been appointed at a previous meeting consisting of Miss Jessie Lees, Mrs. Kate Greenstead and Professor D. A. Stone suggested the following particulars of organization: The name of the association, the Scranton Teachers' Aid association; that its purpose be to furnish sick benefit funds and annuities; that the officers be a president, vice president, recording and financial secretaries, and a board of trustees be created; that the dues be $2.00 per year, that the dues be a percentage of salaries.

Professors H. L. Burdick, W. R. Graves and D. A. Stone, Miss Frances McAlpin and Miss E. J. Chase were appointed the committee to draft the constitution and by-laws, and were instructed to announce through the press when they are ready to report. The committee will be guided by the expression of the meeting that dues be based upon from 1/2 to 1 1/2 per cent of certain salaries per annum, which will be from 20 to 30 cents. It was decided to pay dividends after the organization shall have been established six months, and to pay sick benefits only after members have been ill one week or more, the benefit to date from the first day's sickness.
