A RECEPTION BY YOUNG MEN

It Was Held Last Night in St. David's Episcopal Church--Party at Residence of Benjamin Hughes.

The members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew of St. David's Episcopal church tendered a social and reception to the male members of the parish in the church parlors last evening. A goodly number of young men were present and the evening was a very enjoyable one. W. A. Price, chairman, opened the programme with an address of welcome, which was delivered in an excellent manner. This was followed with a pretty violin solo by Miss May Fisher, a young lady of musical ability. Charles Frazer, a layman in the church, made a few remarks, and a vocal solo was rendered by Miss Mand Fisher, address by Frank Jones and Alfred Gratz, of Bloomsburg, followed. "The Battle of Hastings" was recited by Benjamin Griffiths in a manner which proves that gentleman a splendid voice and delivery. Rev. M. H. Mill, pastor of the church, gave an address on "Young Men in the Church" in his usual bright style. He was loudly applauded. Mr. Mill's effort was followed by a solo, which was sung by Benjamin Griffiths by request. A recitation, entitled "A Voice from the Poor House" was touchingly recited by Miss Mame Elzinger, after which the guests sat down to a supper which had been prepared by the ladies. After the refreshments were served, Chairman Price gave an address, entitled "The Social Relations of the Church to Young Men." It was delivered in a masterly manner. Miss Mame Elzinger was accompanist of the evening. The social was held for the purpose of having the men become better acquainted with each other and was a success in every particular.

Destroyed by Fire. At a few minutes before 5 o'clock yesterday morning Lawrence Pratt discovered flames issuing from the residence of Louis Lindner, on North Everett avenue. An alarm was quickly sounded from Box 28, at Garfield avenue and Lafayette street. The Franklin and Columbia companies responded, but their efforts were of no avail, as the fire had gained too much headway and the house and a barn were nearly burned to the ground.

The fire is supposed to have originated in the barn, which is but a few feet from the dwelling. Mr. Lindner and his family were asleep at the time and several neighbors had to break in the door and awaken them. Mrs. Lindner, who has been an invalid for some time past, was carried out, and, with several small children, were removed to the home of Phenix Reibert, next door. Nothing was saved from the burning structure. The barn, which was an old one, contained about fifteen pigeons, none of which escaped.

An Evening Party. A pleasant surprise party was conducted on Monday evening at the home of Benjamin Hughes, on North Sumner avenue, in honor of Miss Ella Davenport, of Plymouth, who has been visiting friends on this side. Music was furnished by the Columbian quartette and games were played for many hours. Refreshments were served. Among those present were Misses Margaret Pembroke, Alma Davies, Mattie Davis, Ida Pembroke, Annie Davis, May Kennedy, May Jones, Mattie Jones and Byron Evans, John Hughes, Bert Kellow, Owen Hughes, Tom Bees, Bert Schenk and Daniel Hughes.

The musical services at the Hampton Street Methodist church have already been the means of the accomplishment of much good in quickening the membership and awakening thoughtfulness among the un-Christian. The Rev. J. O. Eckman will preach tonight, and the services will be continued through the week, except Saturday evening.

PAPER WAS UNEARTHED Attorney H. M. Hannah Found It at His Home Monday Night.

WAS PRODUCED IN OPEN COURT Suit Against Dickinson City Borough to Recover $50,000--George Bailey Is the Plaintiff--Bill Had to Be Paid Twice--Ehrhard's Case.

The paper which disappeared so suddenly and apparently mysteriously on Monday during the trial of the case of Ehrhard, Greenwald & Co. against T. McDermott and E. A. Barber, was produced in court yesterday morning and the necessity of asking for a continuance of the case because of the loss of this paper was obviated.

When court adjourned for the noon recess Monday H. M. Hannah, one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, put the paper in question in his pocket and at his home while examining his mail got it mixed up with the letters and left it lying with them on his desk. When he returned home Monday night he found the document.

After court opened yesterday morning the paper was produced and offered in evidence, and Attorney John F. DeLoach proceeded to make the closing address for the defendants. Mr. Hannah argued for the plaintiffs and after Judge Pudy's charge the jury retired at 2:30 to deliberate. It had not agreed up to the time court adjourned. No other case was called in No. 2 during the remainder of the afternoon.

Verdict for the Plaintiff. Before Judge Archbold in court room No. 3 the ejectment suit of Eliza Small and others against E. J. Ehrhard was resumed yesterday morning. After all the testimony was in the judge directed a verdict for the plaintiff because the defendant had not shown by the preponderance of the testimony, as required by law, that he purchased the land in dispute and paid for it under a parol agreement with the person from whom the plaintiffs obtained title.

The next case called was George Bailey against the borough of Dickinson City. The plaintiff is a young man and a carpenter by trade. He is represented by Attorneys C. Comery, George Peck and George S. Horn, and the defense by Attorneys John R. Jones and Joseph O'Brien.

Wants Fifty Thousand Dollars. On the night of Nov. 13, 1882, Bailey was walking along Main street, Pottsville, when he fell into a hole about three feet deep at the edge of the sidewalk. It had been a well and was filled up, but the rain had caused the earth to sink, making the hole into which Bailey fell. He sustained a dislocation of the hip, which has permanently lamed him. He was also badly bruised about the head. It is contended that the borough is responsible for the accident, as it was bound to keep its streets in a safe condition. Bailey has not worked any since he was injured. When court adjourned last evening evidence for the plaintiff was still being heard.

After court opened yesterday morning it was learned that one of the jurors in the case of E. L. Griffith against Ambrose De Pew and Gilbert De Pew was ill. All of the testimony had been heard and Judge Edwards deferred charging the jury until late in the afternoon, when the sick juror was able to be present. At 4:30 the jury retired to deliberate.

Had to Pay Twice. The case of Hay & Sons, of Easton, against White & Murphy, of Carbonate, to recover a bill of $312.75 was tried before Judge Edwards. White & Murphy paid the debt due Hay & Sons to their agent. He had no authority to collect and when he got the money back he took a vacation which he has not returned yet. "You must satisfy your conscience," said Judge Edwards, "that the verdict may seem a hardship, but it is the only one that you could give under the law."

The case of A. R. Cowell against Charles H. Pletcher, executor of the estate of Thomas Hughes, deceased, was called before Judge Edwards. Mr. Cowell sued to recover damages for what he alleges was the illegal sale of his household effects on a landlord's warrant. The case will be resumed this morning.

DUNMORE DOINGS. Miss Agnes Murphy, of Olyphant, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Lora Brady, of Apple street, is visiting friends in Moscow.

The People's party met at Wahler's hall last evening to nominate borough officers, but adjourned until Saturday, when they will meet at the same place and fill the entire ticket.

injured by the street car collision at that place last Saturday.

Mrs. Emily A. Warner, widow of the late "Squire" Norman Warner, died yesterday morning after a short illness. She was the mother of Charles Warner, Thomas Warner, Mrs. Charles Brodt, of this town, and Mrs. Griffin, of Green Ridge. Mrs. Warner was 82 years of age and had spent the greater part of her life in Dunmore. The funeral will be held at her late home at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Griffin, on East Market street, Green Ridge, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

NEWS OF THE SOUTH SIDE. New Parsonage of the Hickory Street Presbyterian Church--Breakdown of Machinery at Silk Mill--Personals and News Jottings.

It has been agreed upon by the trustees of the Hickory Street Presbyterian church to erect the proposed parsonage upon the lot now owned by the congregation, situated east of the church, on the same side of the street. Plans for the residence will be looked over at the next meeting, which will be held next Monday night.

The trustees have decided to build a parsonage that will be a credit to the congregation and one that will be in keeping with the architecture of the church, which is one of the finest frames of worship in the city. The old frame building now used as a parsonage will be torn down.

Break at the Silk Mill. One of the floors at the Saugport Silk mill was idle yesterday, owing to a break in the machinery. It threw about 150 girls out of work, who will be idle for several days. The damage was slight and the accident occurred a few minutes after the machinery was started in the morning.

Shorter Paragraphs. The Greenwood mines will be idle today.

Miss Maggie Delmar, of Hyde Park, visited Minooka friends yesterday.

Miss Maggie Morgan, of the West Side, spent yesterday with Minooka friends.

The new double structure of Edwin Jones, on Pittston avenue, will be ready for occupancy in a week.

Hotel-keeper A. L. Dunlevy, of Cedar avenue, is improving and his physician says that he will be around in a few days.

John J. Brown, of Cedar avenue, was able to be out on the streets yesterday for the first time since the accident to his ankle at the South works a few weeks ago.

When reporting the fourth anniversary of the King's Daughters' society of the Cedar Avenue Methodist Episcopal church an error was made in stating that it was simply an entertainment.

Michael McGarry, of Pittston avenue, is not decided whether his name shall go before the voters of the Twentieth ward for the office of select council. His staying in or out will not cut much of a figure in the candidacy of Thomas J. Coyne or Mark Cahill. He will pull about an equal number of votes from each. He says he is in the fight for principle; that he would be doing an injustice to his friends if he withdrew.

AMOUNT OF APPROPRIATION. Estimates Committee of Councils Will Fix It Tomorrow Afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be a meeting of the estimates committee of councils to fix the amount of money to be appropriated for the coming year.

A list of the estimates for the different departments was furnished recently to select council by City Controller Widmayer. The estimates were referred to the committee and the report of the committee was made at the special meeting of select council tomorrow night for this purpose.

AT STATE CONVENTION. Board of Health Delegates Meet Today at Hotelburg.

Today will open the state convention of the boards of health of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg. Among the many interesting matters that will receive the attention of the convention, one will be the discussion of anti-toxin.

The delegates from the board of health of this city are Drs. W. E. Allen, Bentley and Paine.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS. Ross F. Wicks, the celebrated boy lecturer, will speak at the noon meeting at the machine shops today.

Empty cars are becoming scarce, and the Lehigh and Navigation's colleries have been closed until Friday. The same complaint comes from Hazleton.

Conductor Edward Pittsimmons has said adieu to his position on the Ontario and Western railroad and will embark in other business. His berth is now occupied by James Miller, of Carbonate.

Engineer Zurlah Bensecoter, of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, is one of the oldest hands, having been employed since 1868. He now runs the No. 10 passenger train. Mr. Bensecoter, by his long service, has become one of the best known men on the road.

George McDonald, the agent at the Delaware and Hudson, is one of the local giants of the railroad, being a well-built body towering to 6 feet 2 inches. Although such a fine type of an athlete and a ladies' ideal man, he still revels in single blessedness.

A collision between a street car and a locomotive is an unusual occurrence, but such an event took place on Monday afternoon at the Port Blanchard crossing of the Erie and Wyoming Valley railroad. An East Side-Pittston-car ran into an engine which hauls the coal from No. 14 breaker near by. The jacket on the boiler of the engine was partly torn off and the car was completely around. No one, however, was seriously injured.

NEW TRIAL IN MUNLEY CASE Judge Archbold Discourses on Propounding Questions to Jury. HE THINKS IT IS BENEFICIAL Aids the Court in Ascertaining if an Intelligent Verdict Has Been Rendered and Keeps a Check on Uncertainty of General Verdicts.

In an opinion handed down by Judge Archbold yesterday afternoon a new trial was granted in the case of Mrs. Ann Munley against the city of Scranton.

Patrick Munley, of Archbold, on Nov. 25, 1888, was in this city and while passing along lower Lackawanna avenue fell from a temporary sidewalk into an air shaft owned by John Hull, on which a brick store building was then being erected.

Mr. Munley was killed by the fall and his widow, Mrs. Ann Munley, brought suits against Mr. Hull, the owner of the property, and the city of Scranton to recover damages.

The case against Mr. Hull was tried about a year ago and a nonsuit granted on the ground that he was not the person responsible for the accident. In November last the case against the city was called and the jury returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Munley for $5,000.

Jury Wanted Information. While the jury was deliberating on the case it came into court and asked if the testimony of Patrolman Walsh, who was the only eye witness to the accident, should be considered. One of the jury also asked the court to tell him whether or not a man was drunk when he was intoxicated. The opinion of Judge Archbold granting a new trial is as follows:

"The purpose of propounding questions to a jury and requiring them to make answer thereto in addition to their general verdict is not only to assist them in arriving at an intelligent verdict, but to enable the court to know whether they have done so. The purpose of the practice as a check upon the uncertainty of a general verdict will be better appreciated when we have had a little longer experience of it."

It is recommended by Justice Williams in his address at the commencement of the Dickinson Law school in June last and might well be made the subject of legislative action. Its importance is exemplified here. One of the most material points in the city's defense was the alleged intoxication of Munley, the subject of the accident.

Weight of Evidence Other Way. "If he was in this condition and fell into the cellar on account of it, the plaintiff clearly could not recover. While there was some slight evidence to the contrary, sufficient, perhaps, to carry the case to the jury, the weight of the evidence was the other way. It was in view of this that the questions submitted to the jury were formed as they were. The fourth and fifth required them to state whether or not Munley was intoxicated, and if he was whether it was on that account that he fell into the cellar, and in case these were negative they were called upon to answer the sixth question to state briefly how the accident happened."

"The latter was designedly a very searching inquiry. Its purpose was to compel the jury if they found that Munley was not intoxicated--against the plain weight of the evidence--to give a consistent account of the accident. It was about, and one that could be justified from the evidence. It was only by a satisfactory response to it that a verdict against the city would be warranted. The answer which they make certainly does not come up to this requirement."

One Sided Answers. "Having negatived the fourth and fifth questions, they say to the sixth and seventh: 'To the best of our knowledge this accident to Patrick Munley was caused by the imperfect condition of the sidewalk and guard rail.'"

"The difficulty with this is that while it may account for the accident from the side of the city, it does not do so from that of Munley, and that is what the question was solely directed at. The purpose of it thus has been entirely lost. * * * If, then, we allow this question to pass with no more specific answer than we have, we surrender the whole purpose of propounding questions to the jury and might as well not have undertaken it. They might as well have been permitted to render a general verdict."

"But there is another substantial reason why a new trial should be granted. The colloquy between the court and the jury when they returned for instructions leaves it in grave doubt whether they properly considered the evidence submitted to them, and the verdict which they have rendered strongly confirms this idea. The alleged intoxication of Munley was, as we might say, the turning point of the case, and it was established by the testimony of Officer Walsh, the only eye witness to the accident, and only feebly called in question by that of Saloonkeeper James. * * * There is enough on what we have said to award a new trial, and the rule to that effect is, therefore, made absolute."

WILL IT BE DOUBLE TRACKED? Common Council Will Take Up Franklin Avenue Ordinance.

An important meeting of the railway committee of common council will be held tonight at the city clerk's office to deal with the ordinance introduced at the last meeting providing for the allowing the Scranton Traction company to lay a double track on Franklin avenue, between Lackawanna avenue and Spruce street.

The committee will also take action on the ordinance granting the right of way to the Scranton North End Street Railway company over certain streets of the North End.
