NOTED ABOUT TOWN.

E. C. Edwards, after pleading guilty to a charge of larceny by bail in court Wednesday, was handcuffed to another prisoner to be taken back to the county jail. When the bracelets were placed on his wrists he told Warden Grimes that he could slip any pair of handcuffs ever placed upon him. Mr. Grimes thought that Edwards would have a task to get rid of the pair just fastened on him, but decided to watch without letting Edwards know it. Soon he saw him twisting his wrist and by allowing the muscles in it to contract the prisoner succeeded in reversing his wrist in the cuffs. As soon as the muscles were relaxed, the new position became very uncomfortable and painful, and Edwards was unable to get his wrist back to its original position. He called to the warden and told him the cuffs had been put on the wrong way, but they were not changed until Edwards reached the county jail. During that time he suffered great agony. It will probably be some time before he will attempt to slip a Lackawanna county handcuff.

Attorney Wedeman, of Forest City, who is associated with Ward & Horn in conducting the defense in the Boschino murder case, is becoming a familiar figure in the Lackawanna county courts. He is all an impressive looking man and is a good talker, as his opening address to the jury yesterday indicates. He will gain much valuable experience during this trial from Ward & Horn, than whom there are no more shrewd criminal lawyers in the county.

District Attorney John R. Jones is receiving many compliments for the excellent manner in which he is conducting the Commonwealth's side of the Boschino case. He is very thorough and leaves nothing in doubt. When he is through with a witness the jury has all the information at the command of the person on the stand. It is a rather severe induction into office for Mr. Jones to have the first case he is called upon to try one of such great importance, but he is proving himself equal to the occasion.

Chief Engineer H. F. Ferber, of the fire department, is still laid up at his home on the West Side. He injured his foot at a fire some time ago and cold inflamed the wound to such an extent as to cause a most painful sore.

Michael McGovern, of the firm of McGovern Bros., of Lackawanna avenue, is dangerously ill at his home on Penn avenue as the result of a cold contracted a few days ago.

IN LOCAL THEATERS.

The Academy of Music will have a theatrical attraction tonight that has been looked forward to for a long time with more than ordinary interest. It is the advent of Otis Skinner as a star in the new comedy-drama by Clyde Fitch, entitled, "His Grace de Grammont." Mr. Skinner needs no introduction to Scranton play-goers. He has always been held in high esteem here as an actor of the most sterling worth. His range of ability and artistic perception entitles him to a position among the foremost actors of his day. Percy Anderson, of London, designed the costumes of the characters from the old portraits of Sir Pagan Irelly, and now hanging within the royal palace of Hampton court. Beautiful and artistic stage pictures have been supplied from the brush of Walter Burdick. Mr. Skinner's supporting company is a very efficient and capable one, containing a number of names familiar to Scranton theatergoers for previous and successful efforts in other companies.

The stage splendor, the capital feeling of the comic players, the charm of the music, and the excellence of the specialties, together with a clever little boy, make "A Raggedy Clown" the coming attraction at the Academy on Saturday night, one of the best light entertainments. Mark Sullivan, the artistic, refined comedian and dancer, is one of the leading features with the new farce comedy. Wherever the play has appeared it has given the best of satisfaction. It is, in short, a rousing laughter maker.

The sale of seats for "The Still Alarm," Joseph Arthur's thrilling and popular play, will begin at the Academy of Music Saturday at 9 a. m. The engagement will be for one night only, Tuesday evening. The play has been so often that its strong points are familiar to most local play-goers. It is sufficient to say that it will be presented on this occasion by one of the best traveling companies on the road and with an entirely new set of scenery. At the head of the cast is Edwin F. Mayo, whose portrayal of the part of Jack Manley, the heroic fireman, is the most forceful that has been given of the part.

DUSKEET BROKE HIS LEG.

Serious Result of a Fall on Penn Avenue Last Night.

Richard Duskeet, of Webster avenue, who is a cripple, slipped on the sidewalk on Penn avenue yesterday afternoon and fell heavily, his right leg being broken.

Mr. Duskeet's thigh was found to be fractured and he was taken in the ambulance to the Lackawanna hospital, where he was reported to be resting comfortably last night.

HOW THE WORK HAS GROWN

Impression of the Present Usefulness of the Y. M. C. A.

INCREASE IN POPULARITY

Opening of the New Building Brought About Many New Social Pleasures. Presidencies of W. J. Hand and A. W. Dickson.

When the reader of Young Men's Christian association history or the careful observer of its work for the past quarter of a century comes down to the period of its existence in the new building, he is at once impressed with its great increase in popularity and usefulness among the young men whom it had long sought to reach and influence.

The opening of the new gymnasium drew many men to the association who have ever since been regular attendants, and though the work suffered at intervals because of the lack of a competent physical director, yet it showed a constant development of practical usefulness. Today, with its skilled instructor and large classes of business men, young men and boys, it is an important element in the physical well being of many citizens.

With the opening of the new building came also increasing social attractions. Many Christian women, prominent in social and religious circles, freely gave time and money to this part of the work, and the great reports from time to time show what a large place these social recreations had in the activities of the association. By these agencies large numbers of young men were given opportunities for social enjoyment which have left lasting impressions for good.

The increasing secular attractiveness does not seem to have lessened the spiritual activity of the work, for the reports show that gospel meetings, Bible classes, etc., were more largely attended than ever before.

Educational Work Begun.

During the life of the association in the present building the following men have served as presidents: Colonel H. M. Boies served a second term during 1891-1892. It was during this period that the association made a beginning in educational work, and in his annual report for 1891 President Boies said: "The upper story of our building should be finished and occupied. It is too valuable space to be allowed to go to waste; it would be an excellent place for a manual training school. No education would be of more positive benefit to the boys and young men of our city than intelligent training in the use of tools and in manual dexterity. Most of them will have to depend for their livelihood upon what they earn with their hands, but our public schools are as yet exclusively devoted to the instruction of the mind and brain, while the hand upon which most must depend is entirely neglected." This view heralds a work which the directors hope very soon to begin.

Its Youngest President.

In 1891 William J. Hand, the son of the first president of the association, took the helm as president and served with fidelity and success until 1892. Mr. Hand's position was in many respects a trying one because of the changing of executive officers and secretaries, which necessarily threw upon him an unusual share of responsibility for the details of association management, all of which he bore with great prudence and wisdom.

In April, 1893, one who had for a period of years been the entire history of the association been a "school horse" in the harness and upon whom

MORAN OF SCRANTON.

He Was Rejected By Miss McAuliffe, of Lambertville, N. J.

The New York Herald yesterday printed the following dispatch from Lambertville, N. J.: "A crowd that almost filled the large St. John's Roman Catholic church turned out this morning to witness the wedding of Charles H. Callan and Marie McAuliffe. Miss McAuliffe some time ago became betrothed to Joseph Moran, who came here from Scranton, Pa., and was employed by a tailor.

"Shortly after the engagement was announced Moran went to Pittsburg, Pa. At different times he remitted to his intended bride small sums of money for the purpose of defraying the wedding expenses. But Marie soon began receiving the attentions of Charles H. Callan. Her engagement to Moran was announced a few weeks ago. Moran heard of Marie's unfaithfulness and came here to press his suit.

"Marie, however, would not receive him, and today she was married to Callan.

"The fact that Moran had remained in town and had asked to be allowed a seat near the altar to witness the ceremony created the impression that he intended making a second marriage. He was persuaded, however, by some of his friends to leave quietly last night."

had often been placed the burden of raising funds was elected to the presidency in the person of A. W. Dickson, of the Weston Milling company. Mr. Dickson is still president, and though carrying many burdens, gives the needs of the young men of the city constant thought and engages in earnest efforts for their welfare.

List of Secretaries.

During the twenty-six years of the association's history the following men have filled the position of general secretary: W. D. Mossman, 1870-1872; F. A. Goodwin and W. Hadden, in 1873; Thomas McCune, 1874; H. C. Chapin and T. H. Roe, in 1875-1876; C. W. Kirkpatrick, in 1878; W. A. Cook, in 1879; D. A. Beidleman, 1880; T. T. Horney, 1881-1891; George W. Smithing, acting general secretary, in 1892; George G. Mahy, the present general secretary, who began his term of office in May, 1892.

BAD AMOS ROBINSON.

Had Mrs. Hunter Arrested and Was Directed to Pay the Costs.

A case revealing the lives of some of Scranton's citizens was heard before Alderman Fitzsimmons last night, in which Amos Robinson, of Forest City, charged Mrs. Grace Hunter with stealing a light blue bedroom suite, folding bed, sewing machine, heating stove and other articles.

Robinson said that he lived at 107 Lackawanna avenue with Mrs. Hunter, and after some difficulty they separated, but Mrs. Hunter removed the articles surreptitiously. Attorney Elliott Ross subjected the plaintiff to a severe cross-examination and after some questions relative to the character of the house he refused in an emphatic manner to give any further information.

Mrs. Hunter, a good looking young woman, in defense said that she lived at 107 Lackawanna avenue and was running the house for Robinson. It was the resort for immoral characters. With these earnings of the resort she bought the goods in dispute. Robinson did no work and the proceeds of their business was sufficient for their maintenance and to buy the goods. The alderman dismissed the case and the plaintiff was mulcted in $3.50 costs.

DREW A LARGE AUDIENCE.

The Ensign Greeted with Favor at the Academy of Music.

"The Ensign," an American naval play, attracted a large audience to the Academy of Music last night, notwithstanding the disagreeable weather. It abounds in action and hair-raising climaxes, which never fail to evoke hearty applause.

The action of the play revolves about Ensign Ben Baird, of the United States steamship San Jacinto, during the late war, who is court-martialed and sentenced to death for having killed Lieutenant Horace Blythe, of the English navy, a renegade American seaman, who escaped from the ship while under her sentence of death and joined the English navy under an assumed name. This man plots to cause trouble at Havana in order to prevent the San Jacinto from capturing an English prize. He seeks a quarrel with Ensign Baird, who, knowing Baird's design, refuses to be moved until the latter pulls down the American flag, tramples it under foot and, with drawn sword, advances toward Baird. The latter retaliates and kills his man. The remarkable thing is that an American court martial condemned Baird to be hung from the yard arm of the San Jacinto for the crime and it required great efforts to induce President Lincoln to pardon him. That court martial finding is the weak spot in the plot. The finding ought to be revised.

The drama is produced in an excellent manner, and is a very capable one. Logan Paul represents President Lincoln, and his makeup is a very good fair simile of the features of the martyred president.

James M. Brophy was highly emotional as Ensign Ben Baird, and Marlborough Barry, as Ensign Lawrence, Jr. The Delaware and Hudson train for the north, due here at 11:20 o'clock, was forty-five minutes late, and the 11:35 south-bound train was nearly an hour overdue.

On the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road the 12:10 train, going north, was reported one hour late at 11 o'clock. Trouble was experienced in getting freight trains over the Pocono, and messages were received of considerable drifting north of the city. Orders were given to hold several coal trains at Clark's Summit and Great Bend. Freight trains north and south were from one to three hours behind time. Unless the storm abates, today's passenger service will be thrown completely out of joint.

Storm is General.

At an early hour the wires of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies were working properly. Telegraph reports indicate that the storm is general and snow has fallen to a considerable depth in all the neighboring towns and cities.

NO EVIDENCE YET.

Common Council Investigators Will Make Another Trial.

Members Morris, Battle, Sweeney and Hickey, the special fire department committee, met yesterday afternoon to investigate the charge recently made that Chief Ferber had kept the Niagara company out of service for one week. District Chief Detweiler informed the committee that Chief Ferber is confined by rheumatism to his home on the West Side and advised the committee to postpone action until he is able to appear before it.

No evidence was heard and the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

A gentleman well posted in municipal matters told a Tribune reporter that the investigation will come to naught, no matter what the evidence may be. He stated that an investigation committee has no authority unless constituted jointly by each branch of the council. Select council, he observed, will not ratify a conclusion made without a representation from the select branch. What Mayor Conwell will do, is another question for consideration.

CITY ALMOST SNOWBOUND

Snow and Wind Has Made Railroad Travel Very Uncertain.

ELECTRIC TRAFFIC STOPPED

Huge Sweepers and Gangs of Shovelers Accomplished but Little—Calmness Keep a Harvest—Discouraging Prospect for Today.

At midnight last night the city was almost snowbound. Long before that hour regular traffic on the street car lines was practically abandoned, and the incident was that travel on the railroads will be demoralized before 6 o'clock this morning.

Three large theater audiences found a blinding storm awaiting them when they went to go home. Sensible persons paid famine prices to cabmen, a few timidly took refuge in a lonely street car or two while in large percentage stood a few moments in the whirling snow and after chewing cud of wrath depended on their legs to carry them home.

Up to 8 o'clock the cars appeared only in fitful gasps, and afterward made a pretense of running, only when preceded by one of the two huge electrical sweepers, which, with a small army of shovelers, accomplished little against the fury of the snow and consequent drifting. At this hour travel was completely at a standstill outside the city limits and the two sweepers were sent out on various lines to head a procession of stalled cars on inward-bound trips.

Sweepers and Plows in Use.

Horse plows were placed in service on the West Side and Laurel Hill lines, but they proved useless. At 11 o'clock the two electric sweepers were being used to bring in cars with broken motors on several lines.

The sweepers were kept running throughout the night, but even though the storm abated it is not likely that traffic will be possible before noon.

All the available vehicles in the liveries were engaged in advance by theatergoers with the result of giving the night hawk caddy who holds forth on Lackawanna avenue an opportunity to reap a rich harvest. He demanded and received double fare, and closed with a flourish as he was "glammed" to his snow-balled nag in frequent and demoralized trips about the city.

At 1 o'clock he disappeared with his tired horse and the belated traveler had to pay a good price to a livery or sleep in the snow or a hotel. The houses were well lit.

The Delaware and Hudson train for the north, due here at 11:20 o'clock, was forty-five minutes late, and the 11:35 south-bound train was nearly an hour overdue.

"WE'RE RIGHT IN THE PUSH,"

When the advertising atmosphere is so heavily charged with exaggeration, it is well to remember who the honest advertisers are. Wily assertions about GREAT reductions—advertising goods at impossible prices, find no lodging place in the minds of intelligent people. Bull trade throughout the legitimate business season may make necessary, wild statements from some clothiers to attract trade, but the schemers will have to scheme harder and find new disguises for their lame excuses before they can stop the people from coming to this store for honest values. The triumph of this store is the triumph of intelligence, and you have made it so. Trade has been up to the mark here, yet there's a touch of attractiveness in the styles and assortments. We've added another and more taking attraction—REDUCED PRICES, natural order of things here at this season: LOWER PRICES than you find ELSEWHERE.
