DECREASE OF IMMORALITY

Conclusion Drawn from the Literary Society Debate-A Deserved Promotion-Funeral of Mrs. J. M. Carletou-Chicken Thieves' Haul.

The members of Hyde Park Literary and Debating society held a meeting last evening in their rooms on South Main avenue. The feature of the even-ing was to have been an explanation of the characters in Shakespeare's "As You Like It." In its stead a debate was held on the subject, "Resolved, That Immorality Increases With Civili-

The discussion was won by the nagative side. Among the speakers were W. A. Price, Charles Daniels, Emerson Owens, John Edwards and David J. Davis. Next Monday's meeting will discuss the subject, "Resolved, That a Third Party Is Needed in American

Those pres were: Misses Bertha Fellows, Mand Chalmers, Annie Edwards, Ella Shaw, Ella Chambers, Elsie Harris, Phoenie Gibbs, Regina Ward, Margaret Ward, Bertha McCracken, Sarah McCracken, and Harry Zintell, Eddie Walker, Har ry Miller, Archie Sax, Wendel Evans, and Arthur Chalmers.

Chicken Thieves About.

Some time during Saturday evening chicken thieves entered the yard of Amos Michael, of North Bromley avenue, and William D. Morgan, of North Sumner avenue, and succeeded in ab-stracting a large number of the finest fowls from both places. Mr. Michael suffered the greatest loss, as fifteen of his fowls were carried away. Mr. Morgan discovered that five of his were missing. Many of the fowls taken were of rare breed and very valuable.

EMPTIED HIS REVOLVER.

Then the Constable Waded in and Captured His Man in Church. By the United Press.

Wayne, W. Va., Feb. 11.-Last night Constable John K. Napier, of Stonewall, went to the West Lynn Baptist church, where he had been informed Lafayette May, for whom he had a warrant for assault, was in attendance. He attempted to arrest May, who drew his revolver and began shooting at the constable in the church. There was a great scramble to get under the seats. and the constable and outlaw had it out there, without interference.

May shot the constable in the thigh, and another bullet struck a book in Napier's breast pocket, and carrying through it, glanced from his suspender buckle, plowing a furrow through the flesh on his side, After May had emptied his pistol, Napier overpowered him and took him to jail.

For the new chamber of the Massachu-serts house of representatives the authori-ties are going to banish the famous codfish which has been so long the sacred emblem, the origin of which has been so long a mystery. After much research Ed-itor Paifrey, of the Salem Register, has found that on Wednesday, March 17, 1784, John Rowe, a member from Boston, moved permission to hang the codfish in the house as a memorial of the import-ance of the cod fishery to the welfare of the state. The motion was adopted, and the state. The motion was adopted, and the state that day the codfish has always day morning when the men went in to hung proudly in the chamber. High Carnival - They Raised High Jinks Along Decorous Lines and Stayed Until Morning.

In the assemblage were many wome and visiting delegations representing societies of Carbondale, Wilkes-Barre and the Sangerrunde, Kriedle Verein and Turners, of this city. How this assemblage for four brief hours played fast and loose with rollicking frolle would be very hard for one who speaks only English to explain. There was no need of an interpreter, however, to understand that the carnival made fun and lots of it.

Servants of the Devil. This devil's court consisted of the following: City Controller Widmayer, Charles Falkowsky, Theodore Miller, Robert Freiderick, Theodore Pittack Theodore Kiesel, Mr. Boyer and E Moses. John Meiss and Berthold Judd were the barlequins, and Frank Hummler the president of the evening. The harlequins pranced about through the tisles leading queerly costumed candidates to the stage. MERRY FUN AND LOTS OF IT

Well Known Scranton Germans Revel in

That the Germans know how to have a high jinks time along decorus lines was demonstrated last night in Music hall, where the Scranton Liederkranz and its guests participated in a carnival. It was not so extensive as the outdoor Mardi Gras of New Orleans, or the fetes of European cities, but the large gathering had its fill of fun just the same.

Until midnight the gathering sat at table, sipped beverages and held its sides in laughter. The sport all originated on the stage, which was set in flaming red, with a tunnel leading to Hades in the background and lined with skulls. "Tonight the Devil is Abroad" appeared in German beneath the proscenium. Along the front of the stage extended a table occupied by an inquisitorial court whose especial purpose seemed to be to decide on the eligibility of certain candidates for the infernal regions back of the flaming red.
