As instancing the good effects, in ing life and preventing accident, of the law requiring the examination of mine foremen, the Wilkes-Barre Record draws interesting comparisons between the mine statistics from 1870 (when anthracite mine inspection was established) to 1885; and those from 1886 (when the examination of mine foremen began) to 1893. During the first period, $8,065 tons of coal were mined for each death, while the ratio of deaths per 1,000 employes was 3,505. During the second period, 109,256 tons of coal were mined per death, and the ratio of death fell to 3.195 per 1,000 employes. This result is the more gratifying in consideration of the fact that, as the Record adds, "while the mines grow more dangerous every day (the normal immunity from accident betified that Hayward had sounded him relative to his conscience, being anxious to know if it would trouble him if casualties all the time. This, of course, is not altogether due to the law under dis-cussion, but with all the other measures adopted and having the same common object, this one has done its share in making our mines less dangerous than formerly."

WONDERFUL

BOUTH SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 10, 1894.

Mr. C. W. Campbell—Dear Sir: I have given my boy. Freddie, ? years old, some of Dr. Campbell's Magic Worm Sugar and Tea, and to my surprise this afternoon about 2 o'clock he passed a tapeworm measuring about 85 feet in length, head and all. I have it in a bottle and any person wishing to see it can do so by calling at my store. I had tried numerous other remedies recommended for taking tapeworms, but all failed. In my estimation Dr. Campbell's is the greatest worm remedy in existence.

Yours very respectfully,

FRED HEFFNER, 752 Besch St.
