The Saturday Tribune.

The man who wants to be thoroughly happy will need to read tomorrow's TRIBUNE. Its twelve handsome pages will literally teem with good reading-some of it grave, some gay, some diverting, some instructive. You have probably noticed that this Saturday edition of our's is steadily growing better. You already know, of course, that it is the best Saturday issue of any newspaper in Scranton, which means in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

But that doesn't wholly satisfy us. There is no reason why the best city in the state should not have, at least once a week, the best paper in the state. We have an idea that the intelligent readers of this section will appre ciate the opportunity which THE TRIBUNE is glving them to obtain, for two cents, a paper well worth ten; and that, for Saturday, they will know how to evince their appreciation of the best number of any newspaper in the entire state.

It costs us double the money; but it doesn't cost the purchaser even one extra mill.

The death of Mrs. Catherine Cortright, wife of William Cortright, occurred yesterday afternoon at the family residence on Delaware avenue, Mrs. tack of apoplexy about noon yesterday, from which she did not recover, The deceased was 69 years of age. Funeral announcement later.

Arrested on Suspicion.

Michael Coyle was taken into custody last evening by Constable Edward Small. He is accused of stealing the team in front of the Sinclair House on Tuesday evening. Coyle was taken before Justice Jordan, who remanded him to fail in default of bail to await a further hearing. He asserts his innocence and lays the crime to a compantop, who, in company with Coyle, was forcibly ejected from the Sinclair House on the night above mentioned by Landlord Fenney for creating a disturbance in the billiard room. The fellow made a desperate resistance as Chief Loftus and Constable Bennett hustled him

Philadelphia Inquirer: Andrew P. Bedford, the general manager of the big milk transportation company which controls the business all along the Lehigh Valley railroad, was at the Girard louse Wednesday, and as he gazed out wondered if more blizzards were in store to keep him in harness day and light for a week. Speaking of the difficulty of bringing milk into the city during such weather as happened last week, he told how the Lehigh Valley July ..... officials had helped to prevent a milk OATS. officials had helped to prevent a milk famine in Philadelphia by running in milk cars on their fast trains, even taking off Pullman coaches in order to provide for the transit.

The slipless wheel grinds through this to the rail and throws the accumulation of snow and ice to the side of the track. Trials made on the lines of the Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming Valley railroad indicate an unexpected degree of success in the invention. It is thought Mr. Roll will realize handsome returns on his invention.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The bitumin ous coal trade season has begun under circumstances almost as discouraging as those that prevail in the anthracite trade. The contract for supplying the Grand Trunk road with fuel has been awarded at as low or even lower figure than ruled last year. Before any bids were put in the principal railroads options very dull and steady with prices agreed not to cut rates but to get more for transportation than they did in 1894 and to support no bidder who did not conform to this agreement. Yet the contract for Portland deliveries has a warded to the Posch Cook Track into been awarded to the Beech Creek inter- firmer; options quiet, firmer; February, est at a price which seems to imply that 13%c.; March, 13%c.; May, 33%c.; No. the railroad company has cut the white May, 35%c.; spot prices, No. 2, 33%c. freight rate 20 cents a ton or more. The contract for 100,000 tons for delivery at Suspension Bridge was awarded to the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg interest at a price slightly less than ruled last year, when the price was considered exceptionally low. To say that the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western and other tidewater shippers are highly incensed at the action of the Beech Creek is to put the case very mildly. They claim to know perfeetly well what it costs to mine Beech Creek coal and what the vessel freights are from Port Richmond to Portland and they declare positively that the Beech Creek has violated its agreement, and has cut rates just as it did last year. The Grand Trunk contract is always the first to be awarded and this unexpected development may work disaster when the property. Attend the fair and help has destroyed confidence among all the soft coal producers who now have no faith in the honesty of their com petitors. Last year was a disastrous ne to the soft coal carriers because of the strike and the low prices that prevailed and the strain was too much for the Norfolk and Western, which of the court. But this year opens worse than last year did and if the rates fixed by the Beech Creek conprevail universally then there is a possibility that one and perhaps two more bituminous carriers may be forced into receivers' hands this year.
