MINER JOHN JONES INJURED

Premature Explosion in the Central Colliery--Framers of Mrs. Martha Mohr from Her Late Home on North Bromley Avenue--Other News.

The members of the Marquette club, on South Main avenue, followed up their brilliant reception of Thursday evening with an oyster supper, which was held in the club Saturday evening. During the formation of the evening the members formed euchre and pedro parties. At 11 o'clock the oysters were served with other delicacies. Those present were: John Wetting, Will D. Griffiths, Charles B. Mansfield, William A. Davis, Robert Cooper, Harry Reinhart, Albe Beers, George Schoen, Henry Roland, J. L. Merriman, W. J. Thomas, of Carbondale. The club will hold a smoker in the near future.

Injured in the mines.
John Jones, a miner in the Central colliery, was quite seriously injured on Friday while working. Jones and his laborer had drilled a hole in the coal for the purpose of blasting it, and had placed the powder and lighted the fuse. Through some reason or other the blast went off before Jones could retire to a place of safety, and he was severely cut about the head and face with pieces of the flying rock. The injured man was removed to his home, at the corner of Eynon and Ninth street, where his injuries received medical attention. Mr. Jones is married and has a family.

Mrs. Mohr Buried.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Martha Mohr, who died on Wednesday at noon, at her home on North Bromley avenue, occurred on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A large number of friends gathered at the family home, where a brief service was held. The remains were then conveyed to the German Presbyterian church, on Chestnut street. Rev. P. A. Pompe, the pastor, officiated, and in his funeral sermon referred to the many kind actions of the deceased, and the Christian fortitude which she displayed during her illness. The floral offerings were numerous and included many pretty designs. Interment was made in the Washburn Street cemetery.

Death of an Old Resident.
Patrick Arthur, an aged and respected resident of the West Side, died on Saturday morning at his home, 716 Hampton street, after a long illness. The deceased was one of the best-known residents of this side, as he had lived here for a large number of years. He was born in Ireland and was 83 years of age. He is survived by several children. The funeral will take place this morning at 9 o'clock from his late home. A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Patrick's church, Intermediate in the Hyde Park Catholic cemetery.

SOUTH SIDE NEWS.

Herman Saar, of Pittston avenue, is visiting in Buffalo.
Rev. A. P. Doyle, the eloquent temperance orator, will speak at St. Joseph's church Wednesday night.
Miss Bessie McTigue, of Cherry street, is visiting in New York, intermingling business with pleasure, and she will be absent for the next two weeks.
At St. Mary's German church, St. John's church, the Greek Catholic church and St. Joseph's, Minooka, Lenten devotions will be held on Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. Since the unfortunate accident of being fearfully burned by gas in the mines occurred to John Connors, of Genet street, it was not definitely known whether he would recover or not. Better reports now come from his bedside that he will recover, although it will take some time.
The warm temperature of the last week has done away with so much of the snow in a gradual thaw that a deep sense of relief has come upon the people living in the lower flats. On the upper streets, where the gutters were blocked with ice and the residents crowded down to the rocks in their basements, the fear has been removed. Street Commissioner Kirst has had his men cleaning the gutters.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS.

The closing entertainment of the season has been fixed for March 13. Assistant Secretary H. M. Brewer is on the sick list. Night Secretary Leonard has not missed one night's duty for twelve months.
This morning the employes of the cars shops will go on duty at 7:30 a. m., and leave at 4:30 p. m., which, with one hour for dinner, makes an eight-hour day.
Since the Delaware and Hudson mines have been working increased hours the railroad hands have been more actively engaged, and will be in a happier state of mind when pay day arrives.
The series of lectures on the "Abstinence" will be concluded on Thursday and Friday evenings. On Thursday the lecture will be for conductors and brakemen, and on Friday for engineers and firemen.
Rev. J. W. Williams, of the Dunmore Presbyterian church, addressed a large number of men yesterday afternoon. The sermon was a practical one and was followed with deep interest. The railroad men are to deserve credit for the excellent music rendered.
From the report of the secretary of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania it appears that there are 176,228 officers and employes upon railroads in this state, as compared with 200,158 during the year 1893, being a decrease of 23,930. The number of persons employed on the railroads of the country is a fairly accurate indication of the prosperity, or lack of prosperity, that prevails, and the fact that in a single year there has been a decrease of almost 24,000 in the number employed in this state alone is evidence that the railroad hands have kept pace with other industries in the downward tendency. During the past year there were 551 persons employed for every 100 miles of road, as compared with 1,105 in the year 1893.

FATHER DOYLE'S ADDRESS

Secretary of the National Union Lectures on the Ram Traffic.

DENOUNCED IT IN PLAIN TERMS

St. John's Church, South Side, Crowded Densely with Those Eager to Hear Him--He Will Be Here Until Friday.

Eloquent Rev. A. P. Doyle, of New York city, general secretary of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America, has begun a course of addresses on the subject of total abstinence, and last night he delivered the first at St. John's church, South Side. This evening he will speak at Providence Holy Rosary church; tomorrow night at St. Paul's, Great Ridge; Wednesday evening at St. Joseph's, Minooka; Thursday at St. Mary's, Dunmore, and on Friday he will return home. He belongs to the Dominican order and is stationed on Fifty-ninth street.

Father Doyle reached Scranton Saturday evening at 9 o'clock, and was met at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western depot by Rev. E. J. Melloy, spiritual director of the Scranton Diocese, and a delegation of temperance societies of the Second district. He was escorted to Father Doyle's room at the St. John's hotel. At 9 and 10:30 masses he spoke briefly to the worshippers, and at 4 o'clock he delivered a special sermon to the ladies. His sermon on temperance began at 8 o'clock precisely, after the rosary had been said by Father Mohr. Every seat was occupied and the doorway crowded. Father Doyle creates an expectation as soon as he ascends the altar; there is a hush about his personality. Before he began and while he waited for the audience to become composed, the ticking of the clock could plainly be heard throughout the church. His text was from Isaiah, "Voe to ye who are strong men to drink wine and are strong men to drunkenness for as the fire consumes the stubble and the heat thereof devoureth, so shall your ashes and blood go up together."
Subject Nearest to His Heart.
Father Doyle said he estimated it a joyous privilege to be called to address such an immense audience. To him it is always a keen pleasure for the sake of his subject nearer or dearer to his heart. The temperance question has for its object the stamping out of one of the worst evils of the day. It is the greatest vice on this earth, because it has for its object the death of man's reason; it rouses up the passions and subjugates the intellect. There is no sin more its worst feature. Its worst feature is its universality; and by looking over the cities, towns and hamlets of the land, there is not a dell, there is not a spot, where its ravages are not found. Like the destroying angel mentioned in the Scriptures, it has swept through the land and goes throughout the land and exceeds in its deadly work of ruin the plagues of Egypt. There is not a household in the land that is free from the blight of intemperance. According to statistics 75,000 human beings go down to a drunkard's grave every year; 200 in one day, and 8 in one hour.
If the drunken wretches who have been mangled on the railroad, drowned in the river, or killed in the mines were called back and could tell their tales of the sufferings of the damned in hell, it might convey some idea of the blasting effect of this evil. There is no sin that ever cursed mankind there is none that has ruined more homes. It is a vice that affects a man in his business, physical and spiritual life. Health is a precious thing, without it life can not be enjoyed. Drink is in no sense a benediction; physicians say that alcohol is a poison and if injected into the veins will produce death.
One Excuse for Drinking.
A man will say he must drink because he has had work; a woman says she must drink because she has a household of children and must take a little to keep up. In the system drink taken moderately answers with pains in the head and liver; an overdose sends all the organs of the body into commotion. Just the same as an insane man would upset a family gathered around the bedside by breaking in upon them unexpectedly.
Father Doyle told of a man in western New York who thought he must drink to work. He had two sons and taught them likewise. They died drunkards' deaths and his wife died of a broken heart. Life insurance men insure men quicker who do not drink at all; men who are training for athletic sports do not drink. A pathetic reference was here made to the greatest physical giant in strength and constitution that the nineteenth century produced, when it was sober soldiers and once had little guessing to connect the man in the speaker's mind with John L. Sullivan. Medical men say that total abstinence live longer. These were given as proofs taken from a physical standpoint, that there is an object in being a total abstainer. It has been recorded that a soldier soldier on the long marches of the English army in the tropical sun of India lived longer than those addicted to drink.
When the demon of drink once enters a home he makes it the ante-chamber of hell. Poverty, misery and wretchedness follow in his wake. The speaker related some touching stories of life as he found it in his travels, and ended his sermon with a flood of pure, thrilling eloquence.
Blank cards were sent around to everybody in the church for all who wished to sign the pledge.

The first battle was won by the "Fives" and the second bout went to Shanty Hill; third bout was a draw, which ended the jollification. Where is Constable St. John?

COSTLY INTERVIEWS.

Englishmen of Prominence Charge Rev. Gilbert with their Opinions.
From the New York Herald.
W. S. Gilbert, the sharp-tongued and caustic librettist, recently wrote a young woman who had requested an interview that he would grant it if she would pay him twenty guineas. As the majority of celebrities are usually sought to be interviewed upon all subjects and at every conceivable time, Mr. Gilbert's charge of $100 for a short conversation has been looked upon as a startling novelty on this side of the water. As a matter of fact, however, it is by no means an uncommon thing for Englishmen of prominence to charge for their opinions in this fashion. The Sun correspondent in London at one time wrote to Mr. Gladstone asking him for an interview on the Irish question, and in the course of an interview which followed with Mr. Gladstone's secretary it was learned that a fee of $500 would be expected in payment for the interview. It being understood that Mr. Gladstone should write it himself, and thus make it authoritative. Lord Roberts fixed the price of $100 for an interview upon the threatened war between England and Russia, on another occasion. It should be said in justice to Englishmen who take these grounds, that they insist upon payment so that marked journalists shall not find their market supplied with literature that is not paid for. Richard Mansfield will write an article for a daily paper, but he invariably insists upon being paid for it, though he passes the money over to charity. He believes in the English theory that if a celebrity of any sort writes an article for a paper for nothing he invariably does harm to the working journalists. So it may be that Mr. Gilbert was philanthropic in his demand for twenty guineas, though his reputation makes it difficult to believe this at first blush.
