FARR BILL PASSES HOUSE

Democrats Refrain from Voting on the Measure.

HERZOG LED THE OPPOSITION

Considerable Eloquence Brenks Away Before the Final Vote Is Taken. Mr. Fow Raises a Row-A Very Lively Debate.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 5 .- The Farr compulsory education bill passed the final stage today in the house. The Democrats, under the lead of Mr. Fow, tried to block its progress and refused to vote on final passage. When the bill had passed third reading the member from Philadelphia moved to re-commit to the education committee. Speaker and directed the clerk to proceed with the calling of the roll, the question being shall the bill pass finally.

"I rise to a question of privilege," said Mr. Fow.

Lytle-The gentleman is out of order. There is nothing in order but the calling of the roll. The clerk will proceed with the call.

Fow-I demand my constitutional rights as a member of this body. Mr. Speaker. My motion is in order under the ruling of the speaker of the session of 1893, and I demand that it be put before the house

The speaker pounded Mr. Fow down proceed with the calling of the roll.

'Let the people of Pennsylvania know how this thing was passed," cried Fow, as he sank back into his seat. "It is a compulsory measure passed by compulsion, and the people ought to know it."

Before the vote was announced several members who were absent during his views. the roll call crowded around the clerk's desk inquiring if they had been recorded. This brought Fow to his feet protesting against, as he said, the name of any member being placed surreptiously upon the roll. Mr. Collins, who was in the center of the group, excome from a sick bed in Philadelphia,

"I have no objections if the gentle-"But I do object to it being placed upon the record in any other

The afternoon session was given up to the consideration of the bill. In the midst of the debate Richey, of Allegheny, moved the previous question; the motion was adopted by 129 to 28. The bill then passed third reading by 136 to 38. On the final passage of the bill thirteen Republicans voted against

A burst of enthusiastic cheering ing of the roll call on the bill. An interesting scene was presented at Representative Farr's desk, where he was surrounded by many members who that he has three times succeeded in getting through the house.

Representative O'Malley won a victory before the judiciary general committee by getting favorble consideration of his plumbers' bill, which encoun red considerable opposition.

RECORD OF THE FIGHT.

Representatives Who Voted for the Measure-The Democrats Dodge the Issue. Harrisburg, Pa., March 5.-The house met at 10 o'clock. Among the bills read in place were the following:

By Mr. North, of McKean, giving preference to honorably discharged union soldiers and sailors on all public works under penalty of $100 fine; by Mr. Fow, of Philadelphia, punishing the printing, posting and distributing of any libelious circular or poster; also a bill relating to sults for libel, permitting newspapers to retract statements and giving plaintiffs actual damages

The bill providing for the publication of the sheriff's election proclamation in newspapers instead of by printed posters was defeated, but later the house reconsidered its action, and Mr. Burrell, of Mercer, asked for the passage of the bill. He pictured the hardship of a farmer saddling his horse on the night preceding the election, riding several miles through the rain and finally climbing a telegraph pole to find out where he was to vote and what officers were to be elected. He said the news papers were the only proper places to advertise the proclamation. The bill was defeated-ayes, 98; nays, 58-less than a constitutional majority.

Herzog Leads the Opposition. The Farr compulsory education bill was taken up. Mr Herzog, of Berks, led the opposition to the bill, saying he owed it to himself as a teacher for eighteen years to state his reasons for opposing the bill. He said no obnoxious measure should be forced upon the people lest they be prejudiced against for the senate and assistant cashier of the schools. While it is easy to enforce | the treasury. the laws against the major crimes it is difficult and sometimes impossible to enforce laws that are not in accord with public sentiment. He said that the advocates of the bill oint to Germany as a shining example. but there is a vast difference between training and teaching. No country in the world has so many skeptics and atheists as educated Germany. He attacked the bill as a paternal and op-ternalism of the bill. It no more interfered with paternal care of children than does the factory inspector law, and it is better to build schools than jalls and penitentiaries. Mr. Farr, Lackawanna, said there is a tremendous necessity to prevent the increase of illiteracy. Illiteracy is on the increase in this glorious old commonwealth in spite of Pennsylvania's liberal treatment of schools. One-seventh as many children as the number attending school are running the streets. A few years hence, he said, the state will need something better and stronger, but the bill under consideration will meet the requirements of the present.

Mr. Swartz, Monroe, seconded by Mr. Fritz, Columbia, moved to postpone consideration of the bill. The motion Protest from Montgomery. Mr. Dambley, Montgomery, said it was doubtful if Pennsylvania would be more successful in the enforcement of the bill than other states. Fow Becomes Furious.

There was some confusion at the close of a speech by Mr. Hicks, Philadelphia, and the previous question was moved by Mr. Ritchie, of Allegheny, Mr. Fow characterized this as a compulsory motion to pass a compulsory law. The motion was carried-ayes, plained to the house that he had just | 129; nays, 28. At this point Mr. Fow moved to recommit the bill to the eduand that he was anxious to record his cation committee. Mr. Fow insisted on his motion to recommit, saying he had called the attention of the chair before the roll was ordered called. "I know my be told how this measure was forced through."

There was great confusion and much ed around Mr. Fow's desk. Mr. Lytle graw searlet and counded the desk with great force. When the names of sons, Cornelius and William K. Alexander Richardson Charged with Corrupt Solicitation. New Castle, Pa., March 5.—The grand jury today brought in two true bills against ex-Mayor Richardson. In one bill there are five counts, charging bribery, and in the other he is charged with corrupt solicitation. Richardson, it will be remembered, settled an illegal liquor case brought before him as mayor for $150. After the matter was exposed by a suit to recover the money he resigned his post-

PRINCETON WEAKENS.

Refuses to Hold Further Athletic Contests with University of Pennsylvania for Fenr of Aronging Ritterness

Philadelphia, March 5.-The chief topic of conversation today is the official announcement by Princeton that she will hold no further athletic contests with the University of Pennsyl-A prominent University man said today: "It has been known for several weeks that Princeton was looking for an excuse to justify her in taking such a step, but it has surprised all that she would offer such a weak one, viz.: 'because the game occasions bitter ness of feeling between the two institutions.' It is the general belief at the University that the real cause is to be found in an examination of the results of the contests between the two institutions during 1894."

Continuing he said: "In base ball, Princeton won the first game by a score of 4 to 3. Pennsylvania won the second by a score of 22 to 9. Princeton refused to play the third or deciding game. In track athletics Pennsylvania made 3714 points at the Princeton open games on May 5, while Princeton made but 25. On May 15 Pennsylvania defeated Princeton in the annual relay race by more than forty yards. At the Mott Haven athletic games held in New York May 26, Pennsylvania scored 2014 points, while Princeton did not score a single point. In foot ball, Pennsylvania won the annual game by a score of 12 to 0.

There was great confusion and much noise in the house and members crowded around Mr. Fow's desk. Mr. Lytle grew scarlet and rounded the desk great scarlet and rounded the willed $10,000,000 outright to carry their coal into this city. Lancaster, May 22, 23; June 22, 24; July 11, cendancy at Pennsylvania, she has won the scarlet from Princeton six out of the last ten games of base ball, two out of the last three annual foot ball games, and has three annual foot ball games, and has ore points than Princeton at the Mott Haven athletic games during the last two years.

ASSAULTED AND ROASTED.

White Girl Becomes the Victim of Negro Fiend. Jacksonville, Fla., March 5.-Near Hawthorne, Alachua county, Florida, vesterday evening Annia Jenkins, a 16year-old white girl was assaulted by a negro and then roasted. The girl was returning home from a neighbor's and was walking on the railroad track. She discovered some ties on fire and tempted to extinguish them. While thus engaged, a negro seized her, dragged her into the bushes and re peatedly abused her. With fiendish cruelty the brute then held the girl over the burning ties until her clothing was in a blaze. He then threw her into a muddy place near the track and escaped. The girl became unconscious and was so found several hours later by her father, who, alarmed will burn him at the stake. The girl will hardly recover.
