That License Case. The mandamus obtained by E. J. Bilroy against County Treasurer Reed to show cause why he shall not accept 150 for license fee was given a hearing in the court of common pleas this morning before Judges Rice, Woodward and Lynch. Attorneys Donnelly and Shea were counsel for Mr. Gilroy, and Attorney Charles Keck appeared in behalf of the county treasurer. Although the decision has not been filed, the attorneys on both sides have admitted that they expect that the decision will be given in favor of the $500 fee. Should it be so decided the case may be argued before the supreme court. The licensed liquor dealers of this city are in a brown study and some claim that they will push the matter.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The New York anthracite companies now begin to see their mistake in having followed up the Reading so persistently until hier have driven it into a corner. It is now going to fight. In 1882, after the first Reading re-organization, that company shipped to Tomarket almost exactly 7,000,006 tons of U. coal out of a total of 29,129,000 tons pro-duced. The company has always been one of the firmest in the matter of prices, and not one has stood up for a year past with Mrs. C. A. Skinner, of Port Jervis, is as much firmness as this, and yet the visiting her brother, Fred B. Hiller, of other companies, by their cutting and July other underhand practices, have so en-croached upon its business that out of the 1.391.000 tons shipped to market last year the Reading furnished but 8,286,000 tons. In other words, it is putting no more coal ato the competitive market now than it did thirteen years ago, its whole increase having gone into its own local markets. The Reading owns 50 per cent, of the unmined coal in the country, it has terminal facilities in this city unequaled on the Atlantic coast, and by a very moderate expenditure it could double the number of producing collieries and could handle the increased business. No other com-pany can do this. The sentiment of the bondholders and stockholders of the Reading is unanimous in support of Presi-dent Harris' firm policy for an increase n the share of the trade, and the fight vill be pushed with vigor from this end. York New Produce Market.
