He was brought before Alderman Fuller last night and held upon his own recognizance to appear tonight, when evidence will be tendered against him. The arrest was made in consequence of complaints made by Rev. Father Aust, of the Polish Catholic church, on the same street. Gazywinski claims that the tipping house was carried on by his brother, who will be arrested today.

The next rehearsal of "Allatoona" will be held at 8 o'clock sharp next Monday night in the Central Republican club rooms, and regularly each Monday, Thursday and Saturday night until further notice.

A SUCCESSFUL RECEPTION.

Large Pile of Books Gathered for the African Mission.

A successful book reception was held at the African Methodist Episcopal church, Howard place, last night, when the Ladies' Mite Missionary society were successful in collecting 488 books to be forwarded to the African mission fields. Rev. C. A. McGee, in opening the meeting, explained the objects of the Mite Missionary society.

Mrs. William Holland read an able paper on "Why We Should Assist," and emphasized the fact that although they could not cross the ocean they could send something, and that was the pith of the movement. Mrs. McGee read a paper on "The Wants of the Heathen," which was written in a trite manner. A cry of "help" came continually across the ocean, and in a letter received a few weeks ago one of the missionaries complained that they were continually writing in vain, and churches, where they enjoyed every prospect of progress, would be abandoned owing to lack of help. Providence had sent their ancestors over to this country in order that they should be Christianized and send the good work along among their heathen brethren in their native country. Some in this country were disinclined to acknowledge the relation between themselves and the people of Africa, but she was proud of it to proclaim herself a negro, but not a "nigger." She urged that it was a burden duty upon them to help their heathen people and to assist with the "shining light" of the Holy Gospel. Each one had a duty to perform, however small, and God was calling upon them in the present day as he had never done before.

By the conclusion of the meeting about 500 books were received for the purpose stated. Light refreshments were served before the meeting dispersed.

CONCERT AT ELM PARK.

Many Beautiful Vocal and Instrumental Numbers Given.

The admirable supper served by the Ladies' Aid society of the Elm Park church contributed so much to that feeling of comfort in one's surroundings, which is a common name with all mankind, that better preparation for the concert that usually follows them could scarcely be secured.

Contributions to the evening's entertainment included Miss Robbin, of New York; Mrs. Boston-Williams and Messrs. Wooley and Thomas. Miss Robbin's singing of two dainty little ballads was extremely effective, but she was not so successful in Haydn's florid aria, "With Verdure Clad." Other items on the programme were duets by Mrs. Boston-Williams and Mr. Wooley, and by Messrs. Wooley and Thomas. It was a disappointment that Mrs. Boston-Williams was not sufficiently well to appear as a soloist. Her beautiful, rich voice is always pleasing.

Mr. Carter's work on the organ was restricted to two numbers, his chief d'auvre being "Love's Dream After the Fair," a work not usually included in the repertoire of organists, but one to which the professor bent all his mastery and skill and brilliancy of expression. The spacious auditorium of the church was crowded during the recital, and at the close Dr. Pearce took advantage of the occasion to express his appreciation of the professor's marvelous skill as exhibited in his treatment of the two solos he had chosen for the evening's programme.

FOR GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

Movement to Establish a Non-Partisan and Non-Sectarian Organization.

A meeting will be held in the Albright lecture room on Monday evening at 8 o'clock to consider plans for forming a non-partisan, non-sectarian citizens' organization, having for its object the cultivation of a higher standard of citizenship and to look after the impartial enforcement of the laws.

Admission to the meeting is by invitation, about two hundred having been issued by the committee, which comprises J. Watson Brown, Charles H. Chandler, Charles E. Daniels, Joseph H. Davis, W. W. Inglis and Andrew C. Smith.

TWO OFFENDERS.

They Are Charged with Selling Liquor Without a License.

Thomas Thomas and John Kirby, of Larch street, were arrested on Wednesday by County Detective Leyshon on charges of assault and battery and selling liquor without a license, which were preferred against them by Albert Leble.

They were given a hearing before Alderman Fuller yesterday and were held in $500 to appear at court.

Property Owners' Petition to Common Council of No Avail.

TRACTION COMPANY'S CINCH

It Was Allowed a Double Track on Franklin Avenue—City Solicitor's Increased Salary Killed—Each Branch of Councils Meets.

Last night each branch of councils was in session. The select branch held a regular meeting and transacted a greater volume of new and old business than for many weeks, while the common branch was content to pass, against the will of property owners, the ordinance permitting the Scranton Traction company to double-track Franklin avenue, between Spruce street and Lackawanna avenue, and to act upon a small number of minor matters.

In the select branch upon motion of Mr. Roche the rules were suspended and the session went into the eighth order of business and passed the 1895 appropriation ordinance on third reading. It was sent over to the common branch for concurrence.

Under the same order Mr. Lansing called up for third reading the ordinance increasing the salary of the city solicitor from $1,500 to $2,000. Messrs. Roche and Laner opposed its passage, and its adoption was lost on a vote, and the following voting in the negative: Members Kelly, Clarke, Roche, Schwank, Follows, Burns, Coyne and Laner.

Mayor's Appointments Confirmed.
The following appointments by the mayor were confirmed: Miles H. Beecker, engineer, and Edward Goodman, stroker, for General Phinney Engine company; Peter Ross, inspector of paving work on West Lackawanna avenue.

The city treasurer's appointments of delinquent tax collectors and their securities were confirmed.

A common council resolution, accompanied by a petition of taxpayers, that a portion of the Fifth ward be added to the Eighth ward, was referred to committee.

The streets and bridges committees recommendation that $23.65 be awarded Mrs. Elizabeth Boyan for damages caused her property by the bursting of a hydrant at the corner of Grant avenue and Jackson street, was adopted.

Bridges Contractors Helped.
A resolution was adopted granting to Contractors Muldon and Bowe six weeks extension on their contracts for building the substructures of the Linden and Spruce street bridges. The contracts originally contained the dates of March 28 and May 25 respectively as the time for the completion of the Linden street and Spruce street contracts.

The tax levy ordinance for a total of 13,640 mills for general and special city taxes for 1895 passed two readings.

The streets and bridges committees recommendation that $23.65 be awarded Mrs. Elizabeth Boyan for damages caused her property by the bursting of a hydrant at the corner of Grant avenue and Jackson street, was adopted.

HE KEPT THE ORDER.

Then Gilbride Was Arrested for Larceny by Bailie.

M. J. Gilbride was arrested again yesterday at the instance of P. J. Conway, of the Conway house, upon a charge of larceny by bailie. One of the ladies engaged by Mr. Gilbride in the production of his play "City Givers," "Without a Name," boarded at the Conway house for some time and an order was given for the payment of expenses drawn upon Gilbride.

The order was sent to Gilbride, who retained City Givers, in the hands of the Alderman Fitzsimmons yesterday and paid the boarding bill, with costs of the suit.

DEMOCRATS CAUCUS.

Nealis and McLean Named as Candidates for Chairman and Secretary.

Before last night's meeting of common council the Democratic members, excepting Members Grier, Noone and Loftus, held a third and final caucus, and decided upon President Nealis and Clerk McLean as candidates to succeed themselves in the coming reorganization.

The three absentees, it is said, are bolters from the regular caucus, and will, with the Republican members, vote for Mr. Grier for president. What position Clerk McLean occupies in the split does not appear. Some claim that the Grier men will vote for a Republican clerk.

For the select branch chairmanship, Mr. Westpahl has been regularly nominated by the Republicans. The Democrats have not decided on a candidate, nor is it likely that they will do so unless as a matter of form.

The whole matter summed up indicates that the reorganization of councils will result as follows:

Mr. Westpahl, Republican chairman of select council.

Mr. Trosky, Republican city solicitor.

Mr. Grier, Democratic chairman of common council.

Mr. McLean, Democratic clerk of common council.

MRS. RICHARDS' LECTURE.

Discussed the Works of Richardson and Fielding.

Mrs. M. T. Richards, in continuing the series of English and Biblical lectures, delivered the fifth of her course last evening at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Dickson, on Washington avenue, when she began a study of the novelists of England, dwelling particularly on the works of Richardson and Fielding.

As a prelude to her lecture Mrs. Richards gave an instructive retrospective glance at the history of the novel, and its development. Poetry was divided into three divisions, lyric, narrative and dramatic, and prose presented counterparts to these divisions. For example prose set forth oratory as a counterpart to lyric poetry and the several varieties of fiction as a counterpart to the narrative poetry.

The demand for "stories" in the early centuries was then exemplified in their inception from the short tales of gallantry of the Italian type and French tales of chivalry of the Twelfth century to the development of the reign of Queen Anne in the eighteenth century, was a greater tendency shown for prose than in Great Britain, where the narrative has predominated ever since. The collections of the Welsh and American ballads were utilized in the development of the novel.

The lives, works and different styles of Richardson and Fielding were then analyzed in an entertaining manner, and the large assembly evinced considerable interest in the excellent treat provided.

WOODEN BLOCKS MAY GO.

There Is a Probability That Penn Avenue Will Be Paved.

It is the opinion of councilmen that Penn avenue will be paved during 1895; this despite the fact that the $2,500 surplus revenue from the recent opening of Wyoming avenue between Phelps and Ash streets, and despite the fact that Mr. Durr, the Eighth ward representative, was unsuccessful in having the Wyoming avenue appropriation set aside in favor of Penn avenue.

It is explained that the recent biennial city assessments have increased valuations $2,000,000 which, from the 10-mill tax for general city expenses, will bring into the treasury $20,000 not included in the city controller's estimate of revenues. This sum will be added to the incidentals and judgments fund and if necessary a portion of it can later be used for paving Penn avenue.

Councilmen seem to be united in the belief that Penn avenue is a nasty blot on the city's otherwise well paved avenues, and should be the next important matter to engage their favorable consideration.

WILL BE NO CHANGES

So Says Timothy Burke, a Traction Company Stockholder.

REASONS THAT HE ADVANCES

Says the Road Is in Better Shape Now Than Ever Before—Last Week Burke Brothers Bought Four Hundred Shares of the Stock.

The article in yesterday's Tribune relative to contemplated changes in the management and operation of the lines of the Scranton Traction company in this city created no little surprise and much comment.

People generally credited the present management with giving the most efficient service ever known in the history of the road, while the same was true of the road bed and equipment.

Among those who are interested in the company's affairs in this city are the well known contractors, Burke Brothers, who own the major portion of the stocks and bonds held in the city. When approached on this subject yesterday Timothy Burke said:

"There is absolutely not a vestige of truth in the entire statement, and when I called up the firm of E. W. Clarke & Co., of Philadelphia, by telephone this morning Walter Clarke, one of its members, stated that there was no truth in the rumor. There seems to be an effort on the part of certain individuals in this city to depreciate the value of this property. What their motives are they alone can tell, but if they hope to be personally benefited by any such project they are in error. The property of this company has never been in such shape as it is at present, and it has never been so well managed. The receipts are larger than ever before, and the first two weeks of this month showing an increase of 15 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year.

Operating Expenses Are Low.
"These are facts that the directorate is entirely cognizant of, and when it is taken into consideration that the operating expenses, into which everything enters, is lower than ever before, it does not seem probable that a change would be even thought of, much less desired."

"I was instructed by my superiors at that time to place last year, as it was owing to representations made by me in Philadelphia that the change was made that resulted in Mr. Beeton being placed at the helm in this city. It seemed to me at that time that a movement of the same character as that reported yesterday was on foot, and the investigation at that time warranted the assertion I had made.

"Does it seem reasonable then," said Mr. Burke, "that a change is to be desired at this time? As a director of the company, I can say with safety, and my statement will be borne out in Philadelphia, that there is no desire of transferring this property. Electric street railroading in this city is in its infancy and the prospects are very bright. I do not say that if a good offer were received it would be rejected, but this much I will say, that any change in management has never been contemplated, and a change such as that mentioned yesterday is not even among the possibilities of a very remote future.

Complimented Mr. Beeton.
"There is one other matter I would like to refer to," said Mr. Burke, "and that is the present acting manager's thoroughness. I have had an experience of twenty years in railroading, and I have yet to see the man who has impressed me as favorably as Mr. Beeton. His peer as a financier is not in this section, and although receiving a very large salary he has more than saved it during the past year by economical purchases. I know also that Mr. Beeton has received some very flattering offers from other corporations but has refused them because he felt that until the property in this city was in first class shape his first allegiance was due to E. W. Clarke & Co."

Concluding, Mr. Burke said: "It is only last week that Burke Brothers bought 400 shares of the stock that were held in this city. It would be preposterous to assume that we would throw away our money, if we did not have full confidence in the stability of the company, and while the present management continues our confidence will remain unshaken. The property, while not being all that is desirable, is a big improvement over what it was."
