NEWS OF THIS VICINITY

TUNKHANNOCK.

A. J. Lewis, of Avery, who has been housed up by sickness nearly all winter, was in town yesterday. The funeral of Elmer E. Brown, who died Wednesday morning, will occur at Centromethod Methodist Episcopal church today. For the past two weeks he had been quite rapidly failing, and his death was not unexpected to his friends. He was about 33 years of age, a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church and a genial Christian man. A little over a year ago he moved to this place from Northumberland, and was appointed clerk at the county commission's office, a position he filled faithfully and well as long as his health would permit. He leaves a wife and two small children.

IRONSDALE.

Ground was broken yesterday for the new National bank building. The building to be erected will be fully equipped and modern in all its appointments. Wooden & Blakeley shut down yesterday on account of boiler inspection. Work will be resumed today. Otto Weaver was brought home Wednesday night in a Pullman car. His condition is about the same. The afternoon train on the Erie yesterday was about two hours late. The delay was caused by the breaking down of the locomotive at Round Edges, and a wait until another engine could be obtained from Port Jervis.

PRICEBURG.

Rev. Father Conway, formerly of this place, but now of Brooklyn, made a business trip here yesterday. Harrison Collins, of Carbondale, called on friends here yesterday. The Delaware and Hudson Canal company is enlarging their freight house at this place. Charles Eley, of Main street, is improving his residence. John Lathrop, of Taylor, visited friends here yesterday. William Robinson is confined to his home by the grip.

HALLSTEAD.

N. F. Mitchell, proprietor of the Mitchell House, has decided not to accept a proposition made him for a lease of the above hotel. Rev. Mr. McHenry, of the Episcopal church of Great Bend, has arrangements nearly completed for the opening of a kindergarten in the spring. The lady to be in charge is from Philadelphia.

MINOOKA.

The slate pickers in the Greenwood No. 1 colliery struck yesterday afternoon on account of a new boss, who endeavored to make them obey orders. A. W. Taylor, a student at the Stroudsburg State Normal school, is visiting Greenwood friends. Manager G. T. Davis, of the South Side store, returned yesterday from a visit to New York. The funeral of the late Thomas Mullen, of Greenwood, will take place this Friday morning at 8 o'clock. Interment will be made in Minooka Catholic cemetery.

HIS JOKE RECOILED.

One Congressman, Trying to Be Funny, Is Nearly Circumvented. From the Washington Post. A good joke is being told in the house lobbies by Mr. Russell, the solemn and staid member from Connecticut. Mr. Russell rarely indulges himself in levity, but he did recently, and that's the point of the story. The Connecticut member resides at an uptown hotel. There also reside a New York member and his wife, and altogether sit and dine at the same table. The other day at table Mr. Russell resolved to treat himself to the luxury of a little joke. Addressing Mrs. New York, he remarked with a mysterious smile: "Do you know that I saw your husband to-day in one of the house galleries with a lady."

RELIEF IN SIX HOURS.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder Diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidney, back and every part of the urinary passages, in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by C. M. Harris, Druggist, 125 Pennsylvania, Scranton, Pa.

TAYLOR.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Neely, of Main street, are visiting friends and relatives in Peckville. William Poole, of the Stroudsburg State Normal school, is spending a short vacation here. The funeral of David Beecham occurred yesterday afternoon from his late home, in the Pyne, and was attended by a large concourse of people. Funeral services were held in the Congregational church, on Union street, after which interment was made in the Forest Home cemetery. The Pyne Shaft Kog turned out in large numbers. Rev. R. G. Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, removed his household goods from Hyde Park this week. The concert at the Price Library association's hall this evening will be an event of unusual interest in this community. The Garden Village quartette, accompanied by Willard D. Howe, the well-known electrician, and Joseph Hitchner, are a company capable of furnishing an excellent programme.

TEARS A BEAUTIFIER.

The Woman Who Weeps Frequently Retains a Strong Charm. From the New York Evening Sun. A capacity for tears--abundant, warm and ready ones--is, says a physician, one of the surest preservatives of the feminine beauty. It is a grievous mistake to think that tears can injure the sweetest eyes or dig furrows in any face. When their rain is fresh and most frequent, they are the natural outlet of emotion, a sort of liquid lightning rods in which excitement and passion are most easily and rapidly dissipated. Sweet Alice, that wept at a frown, retained until late in her career rounder contours, unfurrowed brows, dimpled lips, shining eyes and her hair so brown. So do nearly all weeping women who let rivers of hot, salt tears course down over their cheeks. It is she who keeps up a power of thinking, who has few tears to shed, and those flow with an effort, whose facial lines and gray hairs come early. A capacity for tears is worth cultivating, since not only does a lack of them score heavily against one's freshness of face, but has its marked effect in general temperament. The women who weep easily have correspondingly light hearts, tender, demonstrative and impulsive ways and a charm the dried-up women lack. Quite Accommodating. The Gardiner Reporter-Journal tells of a good man of that place who stays at home Sunday forenoon and "does the dishes for the women folks next church day. If this isn't practical Christianity, what is it?"

THE VAST SOLAR SYSTEM.

The Sun Would Be Hardly Visible Alongside of the Pleiades. If our sun were removed to the Pleiades it would hardly be visible in an opera glass with which nearly 100 stars can be seen in the cluster. Sixty or seventy Pleiades surpass our sun in brilliancy. Alcyone being 1,000 times more brilliant, Electra 500 times and Mars nearly 400, says Longman's Magazine. Sirius itself takes a subordinate rank when compared with the five most brilliant members of a group the magnificence of which we can thus in some degree apprehend. If we seek to know the dimensions, not of the individual stars, but of the cluster itself, we are met with many difficulties, but, on the assumption that it is approximately spherical in shape, we can estimate its diameter to be over 40,000,000,000 miles. If we think of the dimensions of our solar system by themselves or in relation to terrestrial matters, they appear stupendously enormous. Neptune, the most distant known member, has an orbit over 5,000,000,000 miles across, but the solar system is to the Pleiades but a microbe to a mountain--for a sphere the size of the solar system would, if it were spherical and its diameter that of the orbit of Neptune, be relatively so minute that it could be contained more than 400,000,000,000 times in a sphere the size of the Pleiades. In other words, the limits of the Pleiades could contain 150 solar systems as many times over as there are miles between Neptune and the sun. It must not be forgotten that though there are 2,300 stars in the cluster, yet with such dimensions for the entire group vast distances must separate the stars from one another. In fact, 2,300 spheres, each with a diameter of 3,000,000,000 miles, could be contained in the limits assigned to the group, and, assuming equal distribution of the stars in the group, each would be at the center of a sphere 3,000,000,000 miles across, and, therefore, a light journey of 157 days from its nearest neighbor.

SOME VALUABLE TEETH.

Half a Million Dollars in Gold Spent on Them Yearly. From Le Temps. A Frenchman who has been traveling in this country says that what struck him most in the United States was the American habit of filling the teeth with gold. About $500,000 worth of gold is thus used every year, he says, all of which is, of course, buried. So he figures that at the end of three centuries the cemeteries of America will contain gold to the value of $150,000,000. "I am afraid," he adds, "that this will prove too heavy a load for the practical mind of the future American, and we shall see the day when companies will be organized to mine the cemeteries and recover the gold secreted in the jaws of dead ancestors." The writer then goes on and figures on the average amount of gold in the teeth of each dead person. He has evidently been consulting the record of vital statistics, for he says that $75,000 people died in the United States in 1889. This would bring the value of gold in each person's teeth to an average of about 55¢, cents, and he thinks that in well-civilized countries the bulk of this gold could be carried on profitably, despite the small average value.

DOYLE ON AMERICAN BOOKS.

What the Author of "The White Company" Has to Say About Them. From the Ladies' Home Journal. Mr. Doyle speaks of "The Scarlet Letter" as the greatest novel yet written in America. He was fascinated as a boy by the subtle genius of the author of "The Snow Image" and "The Great Stone Fence," and those other finely-conceived bits of psychology so dramatic in their expression and so touched with the imperishable charm of art. The novelty of the situations in Bret Harte's stories, the newness of the dialect, and the uncommon blending of heroic and criminal qualities in hero and heroine had a kindred spell for an imaginative boy, who had active hands and feet, as well as an active mind, and whose imagination responded to the appeal of that which is adventurous, unusual and subtle. He was early drawn, also, to American historical writing. He revealed, as many an American boy has done in Washington Irving's "Conquest of Granada," which he regards as a store-house for the imagination of a boy of chivalrous impulse; and one may venture to guess that it was this kind of reading which laid the foundation for the writing of "The White Company." He was also an assiduous reader of Prescott. One of the great regrets of his visit to this country was the fact that he could not shake hands with Dr. Holmes, and tell the genial "Autocrat." In his youthful age how many delightful hours had been spent in Edinburgh in the society of the Boston wit, poet and philosopher, Dr. Doyle regards "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" as one of the most distinctive of American books.
