GILBRIDE'S HARD LUCK His Company Disbands and Constables Chase Him.

LOST ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS That Was the Net Result of His Efforts to Stage His Plays—Miss Bessie Grayson Has Him Arrested for Failure to Produce Coin of the Realm.

M. T. Gilbride's company, which appeared at Olyphant Wednesday night, where his play, "City Government," was presented, has more than 200 engagements to appear at Wilkes-Barre last night and tonight have been cancelled. Mr. Gilbride has been arrested by several constables at the instance of hotel keepers, who were desirous of securing a settlement of the boarding bills incurred by members of the company, but probably, none of them displayed more intense anxiety for an interview than Miss Bessie Grayson, who was engaged as subterite at the rate of $5 per week.

This lady secured a portion of her claim at Olyphant but a balance of $10 was owing yesterday and she went before Alderman Fitzsimmons and swore to information against Gilbride. She explained that at Olyphant payments on account were made to all the members of the company except Miss Grayson. A warrant was also issued for Mr. Gilbride yesterday by Alderman Wright at the instance of the proprietor of the Carpenter house.

Company Goes to Pieces. Business Manager Campbell resigned his position with the company after the Olyphant engagement, and when it was announced yesterday the Wilkes-Barre engagement had been cancelled the company work then the "City Government" and in the opinion of those who took part in its production in this city Tuesday night, has elements of success. It is very probable that "City Government" will be shelved for good.

Those in a position to know, said yesterday that Mr. Gilbride's efforts to stage his play in this city had caused him a net loss of $1,000.

Hearing Last Evening. The constable sent forth by Alderman Fitzsimmons located Mr. Gilbride and brought him before the chief justice of the eighth ward last night. It then transpired that Mr. Gilbride had also issued a warrant for the arrest of Stage Manager William Wheeler upon a charge of larceny, the offense being that Mr. Wheeler had refused to deliver up the manuscript of Mr. Gilbride's plays. The stage manager, in a dramatic manner, declared that he was ready for the fray and would be interested to hear how Mr. Gilbride would prove his charge. Mrs. Wheeler, who, by the way, was principal lady, intervened and reminded Mr. Gilbride of the very ungentlemanly manner in which he had behaved. It appeared that the manuscript was in Mr. Wheeler's trunk at the depot and that the only condition which would return the manuscript was that Mr. Gilbride's cash would materialize.

Before this matter could be settled, however, the question of board cropped up. Mr. Gilbride contended that the Wheeler had promised to pay half the boarding bill, as Mrs. Wheeler wanted her husband to pay for the other half, owing to his drinking propensities. Mrs. Wheeler admitted her husband's fondness for the cup that inebriates, but denied strenuously that they had agreed to "split the bill." Mrs. Wheeler, Mr. Gilbride, John Campbell, agent to Gilbride, and Miss Garrison then opened up a debate as to the boarding bill, when Attorney Corbett escorted his client, Gilbride, and the rest of the company to a private room to endeavor to arrange a compromise.

Charges of All Kind. From Wyoming avenue could be heard the accusations of lying made by the various parties until passengers wondered if a performance of "City Government" was being given for the edification of the alderman. Cries of "You're crazy" and other uncomplimentary terms were heard incessantly. In about half an hour, as no settlement was arrived at, the alderman began to hear the case. Mr. Wheeler was examined as to the manuscript and after some skirmishing went, in company with Messrs. Campbell and Tom Gilbride, to bring back the documents from the depot. Mr. Gilbride paid him $1 and presented him and Mrs. Wheeler with tickets to New York.

Miss Garrison, another lady of the company, then stepped up and in a mellifluous manner asked Mr. Gilbride for satisfaction. Another wrangle began and a compromise was effected by payment of the lady's fare to New York.

Miss Bessie Grayson then nestled up to Gilbride and pictured herself a stranded maiden in an alderman's office, which brought the tears to Fitzsimmons' eyes and $4.50 from Gilbride's pockets. Gilbride, however, as a consolator, announced to the company that he was ashamed of those who had presented his play, all of them not being up to his ideas, except a Mr. Allan.

As Actor Who Didn't Fat. Mr. Hoogh, of the St. Charles hotel, in order to be in the swim, presented a claim for $10.50 and Mr. Gilbride maintained his reputation by giving up the cash. Mr. Davies, a member of the company, complained that he had received no meals at the St. Charles that day, and Landlord Keough invited him to come around and "square himself off" by leaving the alderman's office. Mr. Gilbride had discharged all his claims and received his manuscript.

ARRESTED FOR PERJURY. Henry Goodman held in $800 Bail to Appear at Court. Henry Goodman, of Washington avenue, was yesterday arrested upon a charge of perjury at the instance of Henry Herrick, of New York state, and after waiving a hearing before Alderman Fuller, was held in $800 bail to appear at court, M. J. Jukovic, of 425 South Washington avenue, qualifying as his bondsman.

The warrant was issued in consequence of an affidavit made by Henry Herrick, representing the firm of McFarlane & Co., who alleged that Goodman "did unlawfully, wilfully, corruptly and falsely swear to certain matters and things in an affidavit of defense dated Dec. 5, 1894, in the case of McFarlane & Co., versus the said Henry Goodman." The defendant at the time swore that 100 boxes of shirts supplied by McFarlane & Co., were not of first quality, but of second quality, and that they were worth $181.29 and not $64.24, as claimed by McFarlane & Co. Goodman also swears that Herrick admitted that the goods were of an inferior quality and that he would allow a discount of 25 per cent. Herrick, in his affidavit, makes oath that these statements are false and that Goodman swears to them, knowing them to be untrue.

ISLE OF CHAMPAGNE. Received with Much Favor at the Academy of Music. Thomas Q. Seabrooke, unlike Richard Mansfield, has no reason to complain of his reception in this city. It was hearty and cordial, and at times bordered closely on the enthusiastic.

"The Isle of Champagne," in which Mr. Seabrooke made his appearance at the Academy of Music last evening, is labeled a comic opera on the house bill, but it scarcely arises to that dignity. It is light and frivolous in the extreme, but frivolity and lightness is of the delightful character. Theatregoers admitted so much in "Champagne" and which won for it its great popularity. It is an evidence, one might be warranted in saying, that people go to the theater to be amused rather than instructed, when Mansfield plays to empty seats and Seabrooke causes a standing room sign to be placed in its place, it is very well in its way, but it won't make people laugh and forget their cares in the way the merry monarch of the Isle of Champagne can, and that is no doubt the reason why the higher forms of the dramatic are not popular in the box of seats.

Mr. Seabrooke, as King Pommeur, kept the audience in constant good humor last night. He belongs to the natural school of comedians, and there is nothing forced about his efforts to amuse. The music of the "Isle of Champagne" is catchy and tuneful, and it was well rendered last evening, for Mr. Seabrooke has a number of good voices in his company. Miss Maud K. Williams rendered several solos with spirit and feeling and was awarded hearty applause.

Miss Irene Murphy assumed the leading female role, that of Diana, the belle of the Isle of Champagne, and did it in a very clever manner. She sang better than we have heard in this city with the Bennett and Keating opera company, and displayed all the chic that has won prominence for her in the realm of comic opera. Through an error the house bill announced that Miss Kiviea Cox, otherwise Mrs. Thomas Seabrooke, was Diana, but Miss Murphy is so well known to the theatregoers that the mistake did not deceive many. Miss Murphy and Miss Cox alternate nightly in the role.

Among the members of the company who won much favor with the audience last night, for their clever work were Walter Allen, King Pommeur, Charles McDonald, Daniel L. Baker, W. Wallace Black and Eva Davenport.

DICKINSON IS CAUGHT. The Pike County Bigamist Landed in the County Jail. Special Officer Fred Mink located his game with ease and Alexander McDonald, the young man who, it is alleged, deserted his first wife to marry another, will remain in the county jail until some one furnishes bail to guarantee his appearance in court for the charge of bigamy.

The officer had no trouble in finding Dickison and returned with him at a late hour Tuesday night. The prisoner was taken before Justice of the Peace Arnold, of Peckville, and in default of bail committed to jail.

MUSICAL HONORS. Conferred on B. Percy James, of Olyphant. B. Percy James, of Olyphant, has received information from the registrar of Trinity university, Toronto, that his cantata, "God Is My Refuge," a work containing solos, quartets and fugue choruses in eight parts, has been approved by the examiner, Frederick J. Karn, Mus. Doc., London, England.

The work was written as a preliminary to the final examination work, for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, of nine candidates sent for examination only four passed the required standard. Mrs. James was prepared for the arduous task by T. J. Davies, Mus. Bac., of this city.

MR. SCHROEDER'S CINCH. No Opponent for Select Council from the Sixteenth Ward. It is not probable that Adam Schroeder, the regularly nominated Republican candidate for select council from the sixteenth ward, will have any serious opposition. No Democratic nomination papers have been filed in the court house five days preceding the election, which will be held Tuesday.

Among politicians it is not considered likely that Mr. Schroeder will have any opposition. He is being currently regarded as the Democratic leader in the ward had tried to hit upon some available German, but without success, and it is not expected that any eleventh hour candidate will be run on stickers.

Wood's College Notes. The attendance for March is more than twice as large as one year ago. One hundred and ninety students are now in attendance at the night school. James A. Peterson, a bookkeeper for the Lackawanna Store Company, a prosperous corporation of this city.

Harry A. Hall and Anna Beecher leave the college to accept of positions. Two calls for men are as yet unfiled. The demand for shorthand writers continues and a large number are placed before they have time to complete the course.

The earnest efforts of the faculty are now being shown. More students will complete the course this year than in any year of the college and out of the many that have been placed in positions, not one has been returned because of incompetency.

Professor Wood spent Monday in Wilkes-Barre in the interests of the new college. For plumbing and electric bells telephone 232 to W. G. Doud & Co., 509 Lehigh ave.

CAPTAIN AMSDEN'S BURIAL Under G. A. R. Auspices Tomorrow in the Dunmore Cemetery.

PRIVATE SERVICE AT HOUSE Sketch of His Record During the Rebellion and as a Citizen—Engaged in Many Battles—Prominent in Scranton's Development.

The funeral of Captain Frank Power Amstden, who died Thursday evening at his home, No. 1 Halfstreet place, will be held tomorrow afternoon. Brief private services will be held at the house at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr. S. C. Logan officiating, to be followed by burial under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic, at Dunmore cemetery. Captain Amstden was born Aug. 25, 1829, in Boonville, N. Y., and came to Scranton with his father, the late Joel Amstden, in the spring of 1851. He has lived in this city the greater part of his life since. He was engaged with his father, who was the resident engineer, on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, and the surveys of the borough of Scranton, and afterward in general office work of civil engineering and architecture.

When the war of the rebellion broke out he enlisted as first lieutenant in Battery H, First Pennsylvania Light Artillery, on Aug. 5, 1861. He was assigned to Battery C, June 21, 1862, of which battery he was commissioned captain Nov. 2, 1862.

In charge of Camp Curtin. In the spring of 1862 he was detailed on recruiting service and for a time was placed in charge of Camp Curtin, Harrisburg; was acting adjutant and quartermaster of Artillery Battalion, First division, Fourth corps, and joined Battery C just as the "Peninsular" battle was on, serving with Artillery brigade, Seymour's division, Fifth corps, Army of the Potomac. He participated in the battles of Mechanicsville, Garrier's Mill, Charles City Cross Roads, and Malvern Hill. At Garrier's Mill the command devolved on Lieutenant Amstden. At the second battle of Bull Run, Aug. 30, the battery was completely destroyed, except two cannons, and Captain Amstden was killed. Lieutenant Amstden was recalled to Washington to reorganize and was commissioned Captain, and assigned to duty with Artillery brigade, Third division, First Army corps, Army of the Potomac, in the battle of Fredericksburg, Dec. 11-15. He returned May 25, 1862, on account of disability contracted during the severe duties of the "Mud March."

He was a charter member of Lieutenant Ezra S. Griffin post, No. 129, Grand Army of the Republic, at the time of his death the trusted position of quartermaster, an office filled by him for a number of years past. His interest in Grand Army work was recognized by the appointment as aid on the staff of the commander-in-chief, also as aid and assistant inspector-at-large on the staff of the Department Commander of Pennsylvania.

Was City Engineer. After his return from the war he followed his profession of civil engineer and architect in this city, of which he was city engineer for a number of terms. He was in New York city in partnership with his father, on Long Island, as engineer in charge of the Flushing and North Shore railroad, and in Dover, N. J., as resident engineer for the Morris and Essex railroad.

He was married on April 9, 1860, in New York city to Harriet Fielding, who died March 3, 1882. He is survived by three children, Anna L., of this city; F. G. Amstden, of Lebanon, and Edith B., of Philadelphia.

REDUCING THE LIST. Cases Began as Late as the May Term, 1894, Will Be Heard at Coming Term of Common Pleas Court. The three weeks' term of common pleas court will begin on Monday, Judge Edwards will preside in the main court room, Judge Archbald in No. 2, and it is probable that a judge from some of the adjoining judicial districts will be on the bench in No. 3. There are one hundred and five cases on the list for trial, many of which are of an important nature. In seven trespass cases the city is named as defendant and the local electric railway company is defendant in five.

The terms of the common pleas court were extended to three weeks, and three judges employed in the trial of actions the number of cases awaiting trial has been greatly reduced. On the trial list for the next term are fifteen cases that were begun during 1894, some of them as late as the May term. Judge Edwards said yesterday when within another year the civil courts of this county will be abreast of litigation and those who find it necessary to invoke the law will not have long to wait to get a hearing before a jury.

ROBBING A DEAF MUTE. The Experience of Albert Weatherall, a Wayne County Deaf Mute. Albert Weatherall, a deaf and dumb laborer from Wayne county, was robbed on Thursday afternoon in a most daring manner. He visited several saloons during the day, and when in a helpless condition two men, claiming to be friends on the look-out for him, took the deaf mute in charge, and gave him to understand that they were going to place him comfortably in bed.

They escorted him along Lackawanna avenue, down Bridge street, until they reached the Bloomingburg road of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company. Here they selected a cozy corner and after a time Weatherall was safely in the arms of Morpheus while his friends robbed him of $11.50, his shoes, hat, overcoat, and everything in his pockets.

He awoke in a frozen condition and frightened several passers-by by his strange appearance and wild gesticulations. The police, guided by him, have inspected the places, but owing to his inability to describe the men, they have no hope of tracing the thieves.

AT THE FROTHINGHAM. Nugent's Metropolitan Company Pleases Large Audiences. Nugent's Metropolitan Comedy company gave a fine production of the "Fugitive" at the Frothingham last night before a large audience. In the afternoon "Colleen Bawn" attracted a very large audience.

This afternoon "East Lynne" will be given as a matinee, and in the evening "A Grass Widow" will be produced.

TIMES AFTER THE CASH. Have Begun Legal Proceedings Against County Commissioners to Secure Payment for Publishing Mercantile Appraisement. Business Manager W. R. Bell, of the firm of Bell & Hudson, proprietors of the Scranton Times Publishing company, through Attorney M. E. McDonald, yesterday applied to court for a writ of alternative mandamus to compel the county commissioners of Lackawanna county to pay for the mercantile appraisement list for the year 1895 in the Times. Manager Bell made an affidavit to the effect that the paper of which he is a part proprietor is the only Democratic daily in this county, qualified with the additional necessary condition that it is the only paper, except Sunday journals, representing the minority party in Lackawanna county.

Judge Gunster was on the bench in the main court room, and the proceedings were begun before him. A rule was granted to show cause why a writ of mandamus as prayed for should not be issued, and was made returnable and will be argued on Monday morning at 9 o'clock in open court. The affidavit made by Manager Bell and upon which the mandamus is petitioned for states that county commissioners Samuel W. Roberts, Giles Roberts and John Demuth ordered the publication of the mercantile appraisement list of names and classification of persons subject to license in three papers, viz: The Scranton Republican, Scranton Times and the Wochenblatt, a German paper, none of which represent the minority party of the two principal parties of the county.

County Solicitor ex-Judge H. A. Knapp accepted the service of the rule and will appear for the county commissioners at the hearing on Monday morning. Chief Clerk Charles F. Wagner said that the proprietors of the Times published the appraisement list of their own volition, and they had carried the matter to court to receive payment therefor. If court decides that the county must foot the bill, then, of course, it will have to be done. Fred Wagner, publisher of the Scranton Wochenblatt, has certified to the county commissioners that his paper is a Democratic journal.

Clark Wagner states that the Wochenblatt has given satisfactory evidence of its political principles; for it has been hostile to the Republican party for years.

Lake Ariel Excursion Announcement. The season of 1895 proved the most successful in the history of Lake Ariel, and of the many thousands who favored this exceedingly delightful and interesting resort with their presence, we believe there are few who are not enthusiastic over its charms.

With the opening of spring, the liberal policy pursued in the line of improvement will be continued, many new and attractive features are contemplated, which are certain to delight annual visitors. Conditions are so favorable that a decided increase in excursion traffic, although a general dullness in trade circles prevails throughout the valley. Many parties have secured desirable parties, and early applications which are being received are indications that Lake Ariel will eclipse her past victorious records.

From church and society contemplating excursions, we invite consideration, feeling that we possess in Lake Ariel, a resort which will prove both delightful and advantageous. Special attention is given excursion business, and amicable arrangements made for large parties.

As many committees were disappointed last season in securing desirable dates, we suggest that applications be sent in as early as possible.

KILLED BY A STREET CAR Twelve-Year-Old Willie Fletcher, of Dunmore, Crushed to Death.

HE WAS COMING FROM SCHOOL Ran on the Track Ahead of a Rapidly Approaching Car on Chestnut Street and Was Instantly Killed—Coroner Kelley Will Hold an Inquest.

Opposite the Odd Fellows' building, on Chestnut street, Dunmore, Willie Fletcher, 12-year-old son of Jacob Fletcher, of 628 East Drinker street, was mangled to death at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a street car on the Dunmore Suburban line.

School was just out and the children were on their way down the street going toward the postoffice, as is customary with them daily. Several boys were together playing, running about on the street, and young Fletcher did not stop, before rushing across the street car track, to notice whether a car was in sight.

Car No. 133, in charge of Motorman Frank Fleming, was inward-bound and approaching at a rapid rate of speed. The motorman is credited with sounding the bell long and loud enough to warn the children, but Fletcher was on the track ahead of the car and before he could escape or the car could be stopped it bore down upon him and crushed the breath out of his body. His skull was broken, his arms and legs twisted out of joint, and his body badly mangled. The motorman, when he saw that the accident was inevitable, reversed his car, but it slid along ten feet before it stopped and dragged the body that distance.

The remains were taken to the establishment of Undertaker Fletcherworth at 6 o'clock removed to the parents' home, Coroner Kelley will hold an inquest this morning.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, with services at the Methodist Episcopal church. Interment will be made in Dunmore Protestant cemetery.

Persons who saw the accident do not attach any blame to Motorman Fleming. The speed of the car was no greater than is usual, and when he saw the danger he endeavored with all the strength at his command to stop the car. He rested in Dunmore, not far from the Fletcher household, and is deeply pained at his involuntary part in the boy's death.

SUITS FOR EVERYBODY. Once in a while somebody comes in and says: "You ready-made folks can't fit me." That man has had hard luck; he's been into a small ready-made store or a big one, where they don't keep sizes enough or where sizes don't fit.

IT IS DIFFERENT HERE OUR sizes fit, and there are always plenty of them— plenty, for example, of those nice Mixed Cheviots and Tweed Suits, plenty of those delicately woven, yet very handy, Worsted. Suits for slim men, stout men and all sorts of men. Call and see.
