CLOWN OF THE HOSPITAL

'Sailor" Jordan, Who Pell from the

New Hotel Jermyn,

But He and His Health Are Frenkish and the Hospital Officials Like Him-He Remembers Nothing of His Terrible Fall.

On a cot in the surgical ward of the Lackawanna hospital and in fairly good health lies "Sailor" Jordan.

No especial importance would be attached to either the man or his bodily condition but for the fact that the man is a freak and his bodily condition is something almost beyond the ken of the medical men who are familiar with his case. "Sailor" Jordan four weeks ago, lacking two days, fell from the sixth to the ground floor of the new Hotel Jermyn and today is almost well, which explains his importance and the attention bestowed upon him and his health.

In his awful fall he sustained a broken leg, a broken arm, internal injuries and concussion of the brain, and was taken in a more or less damaged state to the Lackawanna hospital. Under such conditions it is not surprising that his life was despaired of. But after being for ten days dead to the world he became conscious, insisted upon attending mission services at the cathedral complained of hospital food, criticised the nurses and the doctors and in various other ways convinced those around him that he was yet worth more than several dead men. Jordan Is a kicker.

In fact "Sailor" kicked. The word most aptly explains his recovering condition. However, the hospital force humored him, enjoyed his queer charicteristics and grumbling and finally the ludicrous part of the situation dawned upon the patient. Since then he has been dubbed the clown of the hospital and every one likes "Sailor," he likes every one, though he yet kicks onstantly, and there will probably be certain mutual regrets when he is discharged

Yesterday "Sailor" told of his frightful tumble to a Tribune reporter and he inference was drawn that the tumble was not so frightful after all. In fact "Sailor" knows nothing about it. He even does not remember the beginning of the fall, and said that his afternoon. Interment was made in the last recollection is of trying to lift one end of a short iron beam. This is taken by the doctors as an evidence that his mind power was destroyed during the infinitessimal part of second that his frightful danger dawned upon him. There was nothing to indicate that he had an epileptic r other sudden attack. If that were so, the fall would have killed him. Through "Sallor" Jordan no person

THE MIMIC WORLD.

Peter Maher and his company appeared for a second time at the Academy of Music Saturday night. The vaudeville portion of the entertainment was excellent, but it was the set-to between Maher and Patrick Murphy, of this city, that the large audience was eagerly waiting for. It was nearly 10.30 when the men appeared on the stage. Murphy is not near so large as the big Irish champion, but he knows how to handle himself and use his hands, and he has plenty of grit. Although greatly outclassed by Maher he gave that gentleman an exceedingly lively battle for four rounds and managed to land some telling blows. Billy Hennessy and Peter Lowry, both members of the company, gave a 3-round sparring exhibition. Tonight Maher and his company appear at Carbondale.

Nugent's Metropolitan company closed a successful week's engagement at the Frothingham Saturday night. In the afternoon "East Lynne" was produced and at night "A Grass Widow." Popular prices prevailed during the engagement. Mr. Nugent's company is much superior to those that usually play at popular prices.

Tonight at the Academy of Music will be given one of the most important dramatic productions of the season. Lillian Lewis will present "Cleopatra." This will be the first time the famous play has been here and great interest is taken in the prduction. Everybody has read and heard of "Cleopatra" and Lillian Lewis, and, of couse, everybody is anxious to see the actress and the play. In the cast is that best of classic actors, Charles B. Hanford. Bright burlesque will hold the stage at Davis' popular house the first three days of this week as presented by the London Galety Girls, opening with a matinee today. This burlesque attrac-tion is said to be one of the very best Jordan could make a good living in a travelling, and its reputation is claimed to be more than sustained this season. The performance begins with a musical burletta entitled "The Recep tion of the Clans," and is a travesty on the present Scotch craze, followed by an olio, comprising William Darly, parody author and vocalist; Dot Lathrop, soubrette; O'Brien, Jennings and and talking about Jordan's fall. The O'Brien, a comeda trio, whose laughable boxing act is sure to please; Keating and Flynn, comedians; Mattle and When the accident occurred there were Terry Furgeson, Celtic entertainers, and others. The concluding burlesque is "King Ko-Ko-Mo."

Judge Acheson Will Go on the Bench To day in the United States Circuit Court and Judge Buffington in the District Court.

Since Saturday night there have been coming into the city many officials, lawyers and witnesses who will play a part before the United States district and circuit courts which open this morning in the Federal building.

The Wyoming house has been made the headquarters of the visitors and in the hotel corridor, usually quiet on Sunday, there passed to and fro or stood in conversational groups the advance of lawyers, marshals, United States attorneys and witness

At the Wyoming are Judge Acheson who will preside in the circuit court Judge Buffington, who arrived last evening after spending the Sabbath with Deputy Collector Brundage, of Wilkes-Barre, and who will sit in the district court; United States Attorney Hall, who arrived last evening, and his assistants, Samuel B. Griffiths and George W. Wurzell. Marshal Walker, the venerable officer who is yet as straight as an arrow and of gigantic stature, and Clerk Lindsay complete the immediate list of court officials.

The Frink Letter Case. Attorneys George P. Little and John . Courtright, of Montrose, arrived at the Wyoming Saturday night. Mr. Little is one of the ablest members of the Susquebanna county bar and repreents the defendant in the Frink ob scene letter case. Mr. Courtright is called "Squire" by his intimates, and knows everybody in the state, throughout which he has made a reputation as a wag and successful manipulator of big legal cases.

The balance of the Susquehanna ounty delegation, including many well known men and women who are involved as principals or witnesses in the obscene letter case, will arrive on this morning's 9 o'clock Lackawanna
