All members of the post are hereby requested to attend in full uniform and join in giving the commander of the Department of Pennsylvania a cordial reception and hearty greeting on that occasion. By order of Smith B. Mott, Commander,
Wm. S. Jones, Adjutant.

TESTIMONY AGAINST HER

Witnesses Testify That They Thought Anna Dickinson Insane.

THEY DESCRIBE HER ACTIONS

Mr. Eggleston Was Very Firm in His Belief That Miss Anna Acted Like an Insane Person—Mrs. Jennima Griffiths Was of the Same Opinion.

The same public interest is still displayed in the famous Anna E. Dickinson suit before Judge Acheson in the United States circuit court. Indications now point that the trial will not come to an end before Saturday evening.

Miss Susan Dickinson was recalled to the stand when court resumed yesterday morning. Her testimony was principally in regard to the matters of the household.

Conductor Baldwin, of the train on which Miss Dickinson was conveyed to Danville, was next called to the stand. He observed her on that occasion and her conduct would not impress one as that of a person who was of sound mind.

Miss Martha Brown, the servant, next testified. The substance of her evidence about the actions of Miss Dickinson was the same as that Miss Susan Dickinson swore to yesterday.

Lagrange Eggleston, 19 years of age, and a son of Allan Eggleston, one of the defendants, testified that on one occasion he saw Anna hold Susan by the throat and bang her head against the wall of the room. Mrs. Elizabeth Stanton, the dressmaker, at whose place of business the plaintiff had been charged with exhibiting signs of insanity in her actions, swore that Miss Dickinson asked to have her fingers and toes pulled to thwart the pain she complained of suffering. This occurred on more than one occasion. Miss Dickinson once threw herself on the floor and rolled around, screaming hysterically. She threw her feet up in the air. She called for red pepper to apply to her temples as a relief from headache.

SOME CORROBORATIVE TESTIMONY.

Mrs. Ira Marcy, mother of the preceding witness, and Miss Nellie Ellsworth, who worked at the millinery store, corroborated the testimony in regard to Miss Dickinson's unnatural behavior.

Susan Glen, of Waymart, was the first one called to the stand in the afternoon. She was engaged in October, 1888, to nurse Miss Dickinson's mother, and remained until May 12, 1889. A good part of the fall of 1888 Miss Anna was in bed and under the doctor's care. Dr. Johnson was the physician. At various times the witness observed actions on the part of Miss Dickinson that savored of insanity. She spoke of Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Frances Livermore, Rhea, Modjeska and Fanny Davenport, and charged that they were conspiring to ruin her reputation.

The witness thought that such sentiments were evidences of insanity. She carried a jug of alcoholic stimulants up to Miss Anna's room once. No one in the house was in the habit of indulging in the use of such liquors. The treatment of Anna by Susan while the witness lived with them was kind and indulgent.

Allan Eggleston, of Pittston, one of the defendants in the suit, was called and he went over practically the same ground as Miss Susan Dickinson, in her direct and cross-examination.

Judge Dudley cross-examined the witness, whose blunt answers kept the audience in cheerful humor. Mr. Eggleston related all his part in the exciting occurrence that took place in the plaintiff's room the day she was taken to Danville. The witness stood apart from the other gentlemen present in the room, and left no hand at all on the plaintiff. For some time antecedent to the day that she was removed to Danville, Miss Dickinson acted like one who was crazy or under the influence of liquor. The witness did not think that she was suffering from over indulgence in alcoholic stimulants.

The Liquor Purchased.

C. W. St. John, of Pittston, was the next witness. He keeps a liquor store and sold alcoholic stimulants to Miss Dickinson during the fall of 1889 and spring of 1890. The exhilarating beverages were sold in quantities from a quart to a gallon. Sometimes the purchase was plain whiskey, and sometimes the order was for gin, brandy, port, etc. Miss Anna Dickinson called in person at his store on one or two occasions, but the most of the times some messenger came. The messenger was not sent as far as the witness knew, by Miss Anna especially. The orders came from the Dickinson household and were charged to the family.

Mrs. Jennima Griffiths, of West Pittston, was called to the stand. She was on the closest terms with the Dickinson family, particularly with the mother. She was only slightly acquainted with Miss Anna. On the morning of February 25, 1891, the date of the plaintiff's removal to Danville, Miss Susan Dickinson sent word to the witness to come to the household and assist in proper care. The messenger had to a hospital for mental treatment.

Mrs. Griffiths testified that she responded to Miss Susan's appeal and arrived at the house about 10 o'clock in the morning. She proceeded with a recital of the details that led up to the removal of the defendants to the hospital to take her away.

Miss Anna wanted to know the meaning of this outrage, and one of the gentlemen told her they had come to take her away to a place where she would have rest and treatment. At this she stormed and raved and informed them that whenever it became necessary for her to be treated for any trouble, then she would be entirely competent to manage her own affairs.

No unnecessary violence was used to prepare Miss Anna for removal, and whatever force was used resulted from her own resistance.

Thought She Was Insane.

From the actions of Miss Anna on that occasion the witness was and is still under the impression that she was crazy. She described the restraining jacket put upon Miss Dickinson. It was made out of strong black cloth and laced in the back. Mrs. Griffiths and Dr. Hellman put the jacket upon Miss Dickinson, who fought and struggled with them.

They had to take it off again because Miss Dickinson would have torn it off. Mrs. Griffiths again reiterated that she thought Miss Dickinson was crazy.

Mrs. Mary J. March, of Ploga county, was the next witness. In the spring of 1891 the witness was employed at the Danville insane asylum. She recounted the details of Miss Dickinson's reception at the institution and her detention therein for five weeks. Miss Anna very often spoke of sending telegrams to Jay Gould, How & Hummel, her lawyers and other distinguished gentlemen. She often effusively kissed

DELUGE OF CITY BUSINESS

Each Branch of Councils Holds a Busy Session.

ORATORY NOTICABLY ABSENT

Business Performed with Celerity in Anticipation of Monday's Final Meetings. Public Market Ordinance Passes Two Readings in the Common Council.

Each branch of councils met last night and held a busy session. There was a noticeable absence of oratory, and business was transacted with a rush owing to the fact that each branch will hold only one more meeting before reorganizing for the new fiscal year of 1896. Last session adjourned to meet at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Early in the session of the select branch Adam Schroeder, elected from the Sixteenth ward, in Tuesday's special election, presented his certificate of election and took the oath of office.

On motion of Mr. Roche the meeting first went into the eighth order of business, and, in addition to the ordinance providing for a 12-6-10 mill general and special tax levy for 1895, the following ordinances were passed on third reading and sent over to the common branch for concurrence. Providing for the construction of a main sewer on Washington avenue from Stafford Meadow Brook to Beech street; providing for treasurer's sales of real estate for unpaid city taxes. Each of these measures was passed on two readings in the common branch.

That Seventh Ward Middle.

A resolution presented by Mr. Roche and drafted by the city solicitor created some debate. The measure provided for the removal by the street commissioner of encroachments on Green's place, in the Seventh ward, within a compromise space twenty feet wide, and that in case property owners refuse to remove obstructions the city solicitor shall begin suits of ejectment.

President Chittenden relegated the chair to Mr. Lauer and spoke briefly, as did Mr. Wagner, against hasty action on the resolution. They contended that the cost of the resolution might involve the city in damages. Mr. Roche said that the city solicitor held otherwise, and that the latter had said the purpose of the resolution could be enforced if it required the use of the entire police force and the Thirtieth regiment.

The resolution passed without opposition.

Decided action was taken upon a statement of the delinquent tax collectors from 1877 to 1893. The statement was furnished by the city controller and shows thirty-one collectors in default of the total of $125,725. Mr. Williams' motion, seconded by Mr. Wagner, prevailed that the matter be referred to the city solicitor with instructions to proceed, if possible, against either the collectors or their bondsmen for the recovery of all delinquencies previous to 1893.

A number of minor matters were acted upon previous to adjournment.

RECEPTION AT ST. CHARLES.

Given by the Servants Employed About the Hotel.

It would have been worth more to a hypochondriac than all the remedies and tonics known to medical science to have been present at the dance in the St. Charles hotel last night.

As is well known the Keogh Bros. will vacate the premises on April 1, and during the current week the furnishings and furniture have been disposed of by an auctioneer, so that the slight that greets one upon entering is bare walls and empty rooms. The lady servants, who have been in the employ of the present proprietors for the past five years, asked as a final favor of Messrs. Keogh, permission to give a reception in the partially empty rooms.

At 5 o'clock Professor Martin J. Lovery, with his flute, and John Blighin, with his violin, put in an appearance, and the festivities began. The orchestra furnished every tune from "Garry Owen" to "The Hungry Harp on a Willow Tree." Invitations were lavishly sent around and the response was electrical. The dancers were active and the revel continued till after midnight.

USED ANTITOXIN.

Eugene L. Moyer's Daughter Cured of Diphtheria by It.

Dr. Coillidge, of Quincy avenue, has made a very successful test with antitoxin in the case of the 15-year-old daughter of Eugene L. Moyer, permanent man of Nay Aug horse company, who, through antitoxin, has had a remarkably quick recovery from an attack of diphtheria.

The little girl was found to be suffering from the dreaded disease about a week ago, and as she was unable to swallow any nourishment, it was decided to procure a supply of antitoxin.

Dr. Coillidge injected a tablespoonful of the serum a week ago yesterday and in twelve hours the child was able to eat and swallow, which encouraged the father and medical attendant to procure a further supply, which was also injected and ensued the recovery of the patient to such an extent that she was able to partake heartily of nourishment during the past two days.

SCRANTON TEAM LOSES.

Nanticoke Wins the Basket Ball Game by Fifteen Points.

The Scranton Basket Ball team was defeated Wednesday night in Nanticoke by a score of 18 and 3. A report of the game indicates that the Scrantonians were losers from the beginning.

The team lined up as follows: Scranton—Basket, center; Steve Rindt, Charles Zang, John Rafter; centers, Ed Bierch, captain; Theodore Fahrholt, Arthur Levi; guards, Frank Malott, Warren Cowle, Arthur Courson.

Nanticoke—Basket throwers, Griffin, Dally, Hutchings; centers, McKinnon, McEldon; forwards, R. R. Riswick, captain; Boyd Anderson.

Referee—W. F. Tobbetts, Empire—H. H. Powell.

FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON.

Servies Over the Remains of James Edward Nolan.

A few friends and sympathizers will hold a service at the residence of James Nolan, 429 Penn avenue, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, previous to the funeral of his son, James Edward Nolan, who died on Wednesday.

At the conclusion of the service the remains will be taken to St. Peter's cathedral, where the church service will be held. Interment will be made at the Hyde Park Catholic cemetery. Mr. Nolan, who was but 23 years of age, had an extensive circle of friends, who were deeply attached to him by reason of his Christian bearing and adherence to the faith he professed.

A PLEASANT RECEPTION.

Tendered to the Choir of the First Presbyterian Church.

A very pleasant reception was tendered to the choir of the First Presbyterian church at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hunt, on Jefferson avenue, last night. The time from 8 to 11 o'clock was most delightfully spent. The choir gave several selections, and other numbers were given by Miss Annette Reynolds, Miss Caro Dickson, Misses Grace and Annie Rose, Miss Florence Richmond, Miss Anna McLeod, D. C. Richards, Alfred Harber, and a male voice quartet.

Refreshments were served. It is understood that the excellent choir of the church is to receive a number of other receptions in the near future.

GREEK FATALLY INJURED.

Crushed by a Car in a Colliery in Jessup.

Felix Ornesk, a Greek, employed at a colliery in Jessup, died at the Lackawanna hospital yesterday afternoon from the results of an accident which occurred yesterday morning.

He was cleaning the track and was unable to get out of the way of an approaching car, which ran over both of his legs, crushing them in a terrible manner. Despite the strenuous efforts of the physicians he died within a few hours.

Twenty-first and Eleventh wards respectively.

Mr. Lauer wants the nomination, but Mr. Schwank, in different, is the popular choice of the Democratic members.

In the Common Council.

In common council, which has a Democratic majority of three members, P. J. Neills, of the Fourteenth, the present incumbent, was nominated by nine of the twelve Democrats to succeed himself to the presidency. James J. Grier, of the Third, another Democrat, is an independent candidate who will be supported by the nine Republicans. Mr. Loftus, the newly elected Democrat of the First, and, possibly, Mr. Noone, another Democrat, of the Eighteenth.

Assuming that Mr. Noone will not bolt, Mr. Grier with his own and another Democratic vote and the votes of the Republicans will be elected by a majority of one.

For the clerkship the Neills Democrats have nominated W. F. McLean to succeed himself. The Republicans Wednesday night informally decided to present the name of H. C. Hutton, of the First ward. He is an ex-member of common council and is employed in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western coal office. Whether he will receive sufficient Democratic support to insure his election is a matter of conjecture.

Republican caucus last night.

Last night the Republicans held a joint caucus in the mayor's office and formally nominated James F. Torrey to succeed himself as city solicitor. Attorney M. F. Sands has been chosen by the Democrats. The indications are that Mr. Torrey will be re-elected.

Conservative judges make this forecast of the result:

Select council president, C. W. Westphal.

Common council president, James J. Grier.

Common council clerk, W. F. McLean.

City solicitor, James F. Torrey.

RESTS WITH THE WOMEN.

They May Have the Right to Vote When They Want It.

"Holland" in Philadelphia Press.

One thing is certain, it rests entirely with the women of New York state whether they may have the suffrage or remain without it. When the question shall be demonstrated that a considerable majority of the women of the state want the electoral franchise they will receive it. It is not the men, the voters, who are preventing woman suffrage in New York state, but instead the great body of the women. With the exception of a few earnest organized efforts, such as women made in this city, and in a few of the other large towns and states, there was no evidence brought to the constitutional convention of any special desire of the part of the women in favor of an extension to them of the suffrage. Had there been evidence of a sincere desire of the women of this state to obtain the right of suffrage it is very likely that the constitutional convention would have given them that power, so far as it could, and by the simple expedient of striking the word male from that clause of the constitution which defines and limits the right of suffrage.

Sewers Not to Be Flushed by Sea Water.

London's county council has decided against the proposal to construct aqueducts for the conveyance of sea water into the metropolis for flushing sewers and watering roads. It was estimated that the work would cost $15,000,000, and this was more than the council was prepared to saddle on the taxpayers.

SHE IS AT DAVIS' THEATER.

Rider Haggard's Thrilling Tale Presented to Large Audiences.

Large audiences were attracted to Davis' theater yesterday by the announcement that Elder Haggard's thrilling tale "She" would be presented. The world narrative has been adapted by Edwin Barbour and faithfully depicts the leading incidents in the world-famed story.

Miss Sadie Farley, as Ayesha, Queen of Kor, who has lived over 2,300 years, has the part well in hand and has evidently made a study of the character. To any one interested in this great effort of Haggard the opportunity to become further acquainted with the intricacies and details of "She" is one that should not be lost. The company will remain during today and tomorrow.
