A. W. COOK'S DEATH.

Well-Known as a Writer of Special Hunting Stories. Albert W. Cook, well known in this city as a writer and special contributor of hunting and animal stories to the metropolitan dailies, died Monday morning at his father's home in Schnevus, N. Y. Death was caused by diabetes. His funeral today will be attended by Druggist John H. Phelps, whose medicines have for several months been advertised through the agency of Mr. Cook.

Mr. Cook's writings were not all of the humorous and droll style so much newspaper career as part owner of the Carbondale Leader in 1872. He later established the Carbondale Critic and the Scranton Eagle, afterward working on the staffs of a number of Scranton papers. He became correspondent for the Elmira Telegram, but for seven years had confined himself to special writings.

The marriage last night in the First Presbyterian church of Miss Marian B. Hitchcock to Dr. Burdett O'Connor was witnessed by a fashionable gathering representing the city's most prominent social element. The bride is an heiress and, until she attained her majority, was a ward of George A. Jessup. Dr. O'Connor is a physician of Brooklyn, N. Y. The eremony was performed by Rev. Dr. James McLeod, pastor of the church, At 8.20 o'clock the peals from Lohengrin played by Miss Florence Richmond announced the arrival of the bridal party. The ushers, bridesmaids and Miss Mary Drum Hitchcock, of New York, the maid of honor, approached the altar from the north alsle and were followed by the bride, accompanied by Mr. Jessup. "Captain posed the music for the Brownies, has Letterblair" was taken off in the height been in the city for several days and was present at the reception given to New York, to fulfill its contracts on the banquet. Those present were Palmer Cox, Malcolm Douglass, Arthur Frothingham, Attorney M. W. Lowry, Llvy S. Richard, E. T. Sweet, Fred C. Hand, W. W. Youngs, P. W. Gallagher, John H. Blackwood, R. J. Beamish, J. E. Kern, J. R. Burnett and J. F. Mitchell.

Mr. Cox gave an interesting account of the origin of the Brownie series of articles. Prior to the fourteenth century there had been a firm belief among the people of the western part of Scotland that the Brownles were in every family and finished up the work left undone by the good housewife when she retired for the night. From this legend Mr. Cox evolved the little people who have proved so interesting and entertaining. Remarks were also made by John H.

Blackwood, J. E. Kern, M. W. Lowry and Livy S. Richard.

There are forty-eight residing in the home, exclusive of the matron and staff, and the general health of the institution is reported to be excellent. The invalid is a little 7-year-old child, and is making satisfactory progress toward recovery. During its illness the little sufferer has been well isolated in a cozy room on the third floor, and the precautions taken have prevented the spread of the fever. Dr. Heilner has been unremitting in his efforts to relieve the sufferer.

JEWISH-GERMAN ADDRESS. Mr. Gaebelin Is to Open a Mission in This

A meeting of unusual interest was held at Finley's hall, on Lackawanna avenue, last night when Rev. A. C. Gaebelin, superintendent of the Hope of Israel mission, New York City, addressed a large gathering of Hebrews in Jewish-German upon religious question of vital interest to the Jewish community. Mr. Gaebelin, is not, as was previously announced, a Hebrew, but is of German extraction, and an eminent Hebrew scholar, and one who has made a life study of the history of the Jewish nation.

Mr. Gabaelin will, at an early date, open a Hebrew mission in Scranton, and hopes to secure the assistance of all Christian people in the movement. He will be glad to receive communications from Christian and Hebrew friends at 209 Madison street, New York City.

MISS HEATH'S LECTURE.

Included a Display of Valuable

Autotypes.
Miss Heath's secondart lecture for the benefit of the Green Ridge library building fund, was delivered last night in the library building. Her subject, "Rubens and Vandyck, the greatest Flemish Painters," elicited wrapt attention by an audience much larger than heard the first lecture of the course. Autotypes by Malson, Brown & Co. of New York, were shown, and attracted more than ordinary notice. They are direct reproductions of photos from the original and are peculiarly valuable in possessing a shade and gloss, absent in engravings and like reproductions. The process is secret to the firm, which alone possesses the entre for photographing purposes to the many royal galleries of the Continent and London. The next lecture will be on Thurs-day nights of April 18 and 25, when the subjects will be respectively "Greuze and LeBrun, of the French School," and "The Barbizon School." The admission price to either lecture will be 50 cents. The commendable object in view is expected to attract increased interest and attendance.

IN LOCAL THEATERS.

Elita Proctor Otis and company will appear at the Academy of Music Thursday evening in a grand production of "Oliver Twist." Miss Otis will assume the character of Nancy Sykes, in which she stands as a poor, frail woman, the common law wife of that incarnate brute and ruffian. Bill Sykes, a coarse but loving creature; coarse not by nature, but from her surroundings. Her loyalty to Bill, her sympathy for Oliver, her desire to be better, her tragic death, are all portrayed in the most artistic manner by Miss Otls. Miss Otls has made a close study of Nancy, and her performance is very clever. In the lighter moods she carried it with a cheerfulness and buoyancy that is captivating. In the hate of the virago for the nagging Fagin, she is artistically successful, and in an equal degree her work in the death scene is terribly realistic.

That merry extravaganza "Palmer Cox's Brownies." with its aerial ballet composed of half a dozen serpentine dancers, the Brownie raft in mid-ocean, the singing moon and the Brownle German band, will be presented at the Frothingham Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee, April 4, 5 and 6. The merriment is continuous from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The situations follow each other so rapidly and so consistently that she interest is never lost. The Brownies are quaint enough to amuse anybody, and they scramble through the performance with wonderful energy and nimbleness. Not only the Brownies amuse, but the fairles are as vivacious as ever, and the demons triumph for a time. The startling mechanical effects, particularly the earthquakes and volcanoes and the fiying fairies and the flying ships, interest the audience. The aerial ballet elicits hearty applause. The dancers present their midair performance to the accompaniment of flashing colored lights. Another interesting feature of the show is the remarkable acrobatic performance of the Richards family. All of them are clever in their line.

The knowledge of the great success which attended E. H. Sothern's production of his new comedy, "Captain Lettarblair," is almost as positive among theater-goers here as in New York itself. Therefore the statement that Mr. Sothern will be at the Academy of Music Friday night to give the first perroad. The new play is more in the which were found in his pockets, showing that he was 35 years of age, and ing that he was 35 years of age, and serenaded by the Lawrence band at the serenaded by the Lawrence band at the serenaded by the Lawrence band at the hotel. The reception was followed by a ference, there being less of the heroic and more of the comedy sentiment and pathos of life. Mr. Sothern's character is that of a young Irish officer, hotheaded, impulsive, witty, yet honorable and a gentleman, with a most delightful brogue.

> "A Railroad Ticket," to be presented at the Academy Saturday night by a good company, is one of those farce comedies running over with mirth, fun and dashing humor. All the old farce comedy situations have been cast aside and the hits are confined to extremely up-to-date things, including the rain making craze, suburban real estate. and other novel ideas.

> Two causes will combine to attract theater-goers to Scranton at the Academy of Music Saturday, April 13; one is the most wonderful, but very marked popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, the knowledge that whatever they and their company undertake is well worth seeing; the other is the knowledge the opportunity of seeing them is limited to only one performance and their farewell engagement in Scranton, which will be attended by a brilliant assemblage of artistic, social and intellectual notabilities. The play selected for their final appearance in this city will be Pinero's renowned play, "the Second Mrs. Tanqueray." Mr. and Mrs. Kendal and an excellent company appeared here last season in a grand production of "The Ironmaster" and scored a great success.

> The new realistic scenic and mechanical production, "Temptation of Money," will be the attraction at Davis' theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This new scenic melodrama is said to be one of the greatest hits of this season, and is is claimed that the scenic and me chanical effects are new and novel, and that the play is a most fascinating one. Messrs. Boyer and Hardy, the managers have spared no pains in making "Temptation of Money" an ideal production, dramatically as well as scenically, as they have engaged an exceptionally strong cast. There are several high class specialties introduced.

Detective Scanlon and Hatter Dunn Were the Central Figures.

THE FORMER USED A REVOLVER

in Unpaid Bill Was at the Bottom of the Difficulty - Principals' Stories Do Not Agree as to Details-Statements of Both Men.

Detective Anthony Scanlon and Hatter Alexander Dunn, fr., had an alter-cation in the former's office, at Wyoming avenue and Spruce street, yesterday morning, which resulted in Mr. Scanlon firing two shots at Mr. Dunn, and the latter beating a hasty retreat from the building. The stories of the principals concerning the cause of the trouble do not harmonize at all. It is conceded by both that the difficulty arose over a bill that Mr. Scanlor owed Mr. Dunn.

This bill, Mr. Dunn says, Mr. Scanlon refused to pay, notwithstanding that he was requested so to do a number of times. Mr. Dunn declares that the greatest satisfaction he could get out of Mr. Scanion in response to the dunning the latter received, was the statement that if Mr. Dunn wanted his noney he could sue for it.

Yesterday morning, Mr. Dunn says, he went to the office of Colonel F. J. Fitzsimmons to make inquiries about the lease of his store on Wyoming avenue. Mr. Scanlon has desk room in the colonel's office, and as Mr. Dunn was retiring he spoke to Mr. Scanlon concerning the bill. Mr. Dunn gays that without reasonable provocation Mr. Scanlon threw a piece of iron at him, following that action up by firing two shots. Mr. Dunn alleges that Mr. Scanlon said that the reason he would not pay the bill was because Mr. Dunn, as a memagainst the Center street pool sellers. On his part Mr. Scanlon says that he has never objected to paying Mr. Dunn what he was rightfully entitled you. to have. Mr. Dunn, he says, rendered him a bill which he believed was excessible. He marked the overcharges and sent a check for the balance. This check was returned to him, he says, with a curt note from Mr. Dunn. Then Mr. Scanlon told Mr. Dunn that he

"He abused me publicly and said he would take the bill out of my hide if I did not pay him and I threatened to have him put under bonds to keep the peace. This morning he came to my office and again insulted me. He moved toward me as if to offer personal violence and I retaliated."
