GORMAN'S GRAND DEPOT

NEWS OF THIS VICINITY MONTROSE. Mrs. Searle McCullum, who has been onfined to her home with tonsilitis, is convalescent.

Frederick Armstrong, of Ithaca, is the guest of Leonard Raynsford. Miss Belle McCullum, of New Milford, having made a protracted visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles Ainey, of Church street, has returned home. Henry W. Bradley, of New York, was in Montrose on Thursday.

R. J. McCausland, accompanied by S S. Wright, visited Harford lodge, No. 445, at Hopbottom, Thursday night, and worked some of the Masonic degrees A large number of Masons were in at ing a few days in Montrose. Samuel G. Smith, of Wilkes-Barre, was in town during the week.

LeRoy Reynolds, of Scranton, a son of Reuben Reynolds, died on Thursday evening. His remains will be brought to Montrose for burial. David V. Gardner, of ice and cigar fame, is spending a few days in Binghamton. G. W. Baker and family have moved to Binghamton, where Mr. Baker is now engaged in business.

D. O. Wells, of Maine, N. Y., was in Montrose on Friday. Mr. Wells is engaged in the creamery business at that place Mortimer Livingston, of the Binghamton Herald, is in Montrose, looking after the interests of the paper. F. I. Lott, on Thursday, sold to Dr.

J. Lawrence Nevin, of New York, his black mare "Rotha." She was sired by Rex Patchen and is nearly 4 years old. Her dam, Belle Trip, was formerly owned by Ira Tripp, of Scranton, and one of his famous team which was so well known. The mare Rotha is stand-ard bred and is registered under No. 21036. Dr. Nevin is a cousin of E. Guy, of the Montrose House. Mr. Guy told

The Tribune correspondent that he considered Rotha the finest bred horse in this section. A road review was made near Wood's Corners, south of Brooklyn, on Thurs-day, by Surveyor A. N. Bullard, who was accompanied by E. P. Munger and S. B. Rogers. The roads leading to Montrose are still in a horrible condition. While it may seem incredible, the fact does exist that within a half-mile of the court house drifts from three to five feet deep are encountered. Another strange phase is that roads south are worse than those north of Montrose. The oil well at Brooklyn was plugged on Wednesday and further work abandoned. The depth of the well is 2,980 feet. It is not known whether further development work will be done, but it s generally conceded that there is very little oil between Brooklyn and th antipodes, and if any, the Chinese will be more apt to reap the benefit than the Brooklynites.

Hon. D. C. Titman, of Auburn, has rented from Mrs. A. Hamlin her house on Church street. It is understood that Mr. Titman intends opening a general store in Montrose.

Monday, April 8, will usher in what s known here as April term of court. Montrose is decidedly "to the front" at weddings. The "bright young man" on the Republican either coined a word or the wedding was a novel one, for the man had a "groomsmald." He did not say whether the bride had a bridesman, but it is understood that the groom filled that position. Mr. and Mrs. Searle McCollum are the guest of Mr. McCollum's mother.

who has been the guest of Colonel lames P. Taylor, has returned. The Tribune correspondent received an anonymous letter on Friday. It is not the work of any one really interest-ed in the matter, but a convulsive yawp from some one whose ideas of what constitutes right and wrong are decidedly limited. Anonymous comnunications are ordinarly consigned to waste paper baskets, but this one is given: "Dear sir--I have read in the scranton Tribune today in your Montrose items an article on the advertizing show case in front of Baker's jewelry store and wish to inform you that the law allows the photographer to exhiblt the case, otherwise it would not be there, as there was trouble about this before and as the photographers have confirmed to the law it should end the matter." The recipient of the above is perfectly cognizant of the fact that the law does allow a certain space in front of buildings for advertising purposes. There is, however, another phase of the subject which evidently did not enter into the mind of the person who wrote the leter, and that is the moral side of the matter. Is it right to blockade a sidewalk with a huge sign with photographs artistically imbedded in a plaster of paris, cast? It is not wrong when ample advertising space exists in such abundance to utilize space interfering with pedestrians? The Tribune man having done what he considers his duty is now going to let this matter drop and hopes that the echoes thereof will reach the tympani of the proper partles and that the pubic nuisance will be removed. Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!
