LUPINO LUNCHES UPON RATS

To Win a Wager of Thirty Cents He Defies Decency-Base Ball Looming Up-Fine Display of Wild Duck-Mr. Fitzer's Death.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Pittston, April 5.-Angelo Lupino, an Italian living on Railroad street, has acquired a peculiar and abnormal taste. Last evening Angelo wagered with a fellow countryman, Anthony Nero, that he, Angelo, possessed digestive powers that would vie with those of the almond-eyed Mongolian. A number of enormous rodents, known to ment Americans as long-tailed rats, were prepared for Lupino's delectable meal. He succeeded in disposing of three of AFFAIRS UP AT DUNMORE STOCKS AND BONDS. New York, April 5 .- There was little New York, April 5.—There was little disposition to trade at the stock ex-change today, and the total sales fell to 137,000 shares. The duliness was due to the desire on the part of operators to await the outcome of the meeting of anthracite coal presidents. The latter were in session all day and finally ad-journed without accomplishing any-thing of great importance. The coalers were again rather feverish.
