THE SECOND MRS. TANQUERAY.

"The second Mrs. Tanqueray" is an interesting play, judged from a purely dramatic standpoint. In it Pinero shows the cleverness of his pen and the appreciation of situations, climaxes and stage craft that have allowed him to take rank among the first of English dramatists. But the story he tells will not do much to elevate the stage. It belongs to a class of plays the effect of which must be evil. Mr. Tanqueray, a widower of 40, falls in love with a woman who has never been married, but, as she expresses it herself, has "kept house" with several men. He thinks that he can by a quiet marriage and an equally quiet residence in Surrey for a few years launch her into the circle of English society to which Mrs. Tanqueray No. 1 belonged. The daughter of the first Mrs. Tanqueray feels, by instinct, that her step-mother has a reprehensible past and coldly refuses to accept her as a mother. Finally Mrs. Tanqueray falls in love with a dashing army officer while on a visit to the Continent and when he presents himself at the Tanqueray country to pay his respects to her parents it is discovered that he is one of the men with whom Mrs. Tanqueray has kept house. That ends the love episode between him and Mrs. Tanqueray. tells her step-mother in virtuous language that she always knew she was a bold, bad woman. Then Mrs. Tanqueray kills herself, though not before the audience, and the curtain is rung down.

Mrs. Kendall gave a faithful interpretation of the wayward character of the Second Mrs. Tanqueray. Her work was painstaking and thorough, though somewhat marred by her peculiar mannerisms and facial contortions. Mr. Kendall, as Aubrey Tanqueray, was excellent, and the supporting company was very competent.

The play was staged in a careful and artistic though not elaborate manner. A fair-sized audience saw the performance.

DEATH OF JOSEPH TURK.

Coroner's Jury Will Meet Tonight to Hear Evidence.

Mystery surrounds the death of Joseph Turk, the Hungarian who was found expiring at 11 o'clock Friday night, not far above the Scranton city line, along the street car tracks on the road in Dickson borough. As mentioned in Saturday's Tribune, the man died a few minutes after being found. The body was brought to Swallow's undertaking establishment in Oliphant, where it was examined by Coroner J. A. Kelly.

The law did not warrant Justice of the Peace Logan in empaneling a jury, requiring that the place where the body is found must be at least ten miles away from the county seat, before any other person, but the coroner can hold an inquest, and then it cannot be done except at the order of the coroner. Another jury, substantially the same as empaneled by Squire Logan, was sworn, and a post mortem examination of the body was proceeded with. Dr. Kelley, in an interview yesterday, expressed the statement that the man's death was the result of loss of blood. The wounds on the head were not mortal, the skull not being fractured; but these injuries were very aggravated.

The theory that Turk was injured on the street car tracks does not seem to be borne out by the facts. The position of the body when it was discovered is totally against any such conception. It had all the appearance of having been laid in the spot by some person who wished to make believe that the street car had terminated the man's life. If the car had struck the man or passed over his hand the body would hardly be found on its back with the mutilated member half folded across the chest. Then there are the blood stained sprig and stone, and the drops of blood on the ground traced toward the Delaware and Hudson tracks. The man's hat, too, was not run over by a street car but seems to have been torn in a struggle.

The jury will convene this evening at Oliphant to reach a verdict after hearing the remainder of the evidence; only the testimony of the street car men was taken Saturday.

CLARENCE P. ALLEN DEAD.

Youth of Strong Character and Admirable Disposition.

The death of Clarence P. Allen occurred at his residence of 127 Wyoming avenue, yesterday. He was a son, who, because of delicate health, was the object of the tenderest care on the part of his family, and rewarded it by a most gentle uncomplaining and affectionate spirit. He was so quiet that few realized his strength of character and the loveliness of his disposition.

He united with the Second Presbyterian church, of this city, over four years ago. He was an active member and treasurer of the Senior Boys' Mission band.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the house.

TEMPERANCE MEN MEET

They Discuss Many Live Topics Bearing on Their Work.

MATTER OF LADIES' SOCIETIES

Reasons Why There Is Opposition to Their Formation—Speak Easily Are Declared to Be the Deliberate Foes of the Temperance Movement.

Questions bearing on the cause of temperance were discussed with much warmth of opinion and vigorous expression of views by the delegates from the various total abstinence societies of the Second district of the Scranton Diocesan union at the ninth quarterly convention held yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's army on West Lackawanna avenue. J. C. Gallagher, presiding officer of the district, called the convention to order at 2:30, and the usual opening prayer was said. Every society of the district was represented by five delegates and a very worthy feature was the presence of a large number of young ladies as representatives of their societies.

Rev. D. H. Green, assistant priest of St. Joseph's parish, Minooka, was there and was accorded the position of honor on the platform. Presiding Officer Gallagher introduced Father Green to the delegates and the reverend gentleman responded with an address that contained words of encouragement and assurance. Father Green bespoke success and prosperity for the organization that attends to the education of the youth in the glorious cause of temperance.

Flow of Oratory.

Under the head of unfinished business the question whether or not the Ladies' Temperance societies are a benefit was introduced for discussion. Delegates Noon, McCaffrey and Lavelle opened up with speeches in favor of the ladies, and the question got along without incident until M. J. O'Toole asked Delegate Cullen why the ladies' society connected with St. John's society of the South Side had disbanded. The answer came that the weaker sex were held up to ridicule and could not stand the taunts and gibes of scoffers.

Delegate Mulhern, of Pine Brook, felt that the organization of ladies' societies would conduce to the success of the men's society. If that is not a fact then the delegate would not be in favor of the ladies' societies, because he had a higher opinion of them than to think that they needed to band together for self-preservation.

Mr. Cullen said that the timber that is wanted is not drunkards, but moderate drinkers. There are Keeley cures for the former, and the latter need to see the woman organized in the movement for the example they would show.

They Have Great Influence.

Delegate Lavelle, from the South Side, said that it would take a team of oxen to yank some persons into the temperance ranks, and he noticed that many thus disposed were as tractable as doves when the young women took an interest in temperance work. Delegate Purcell, of Green Ridge, put forth the assertion that the women are just as sadly in need of reform as the men.

Mr. O'Toole thought that the convention was evolved into a sort of mutual admiration feast. If you inquire into the work of the Women's Christian union, he said, it will be found that the organization is a power for good. In some of the western states, according to Mr. O'Toole, the enfranchisement of women has shown what they are capable of doing and in several other states where the freedom of the ballot is soon promised to the weaker sex the good use they will make of it, will answer the calumnies and aspersions that have been cast against them.

Give the women a chance, advocated Mr. O'Toole, and they will prove themselves equal to the trust. He moved to postpone the question indefinitely, and the convention agreed to the motion.

Speeches from Visitors.

D. J. Campbell, of this city, and John H. Foy, of Pittston, entered the hall and were escorted to a place on the platform. Mr. Campbell was called upon for a speech and addressed the assemblage in an eloquent manner. Mr. Foy was called on to make a few remarks. The temperance men, Mr. Foy said, are engaged in the noblest work in the land. He is glad to see the ladies assisting in the work. He believes that a young man puts forth the best evidence of his character when he shows that he is sober.

The question concerning the greatest drawback in each vicinity to the cause of total abstinence was next discussed. The secretary called for the names of delegates and representatives from each society stood up and gave their opinions. Mr. Purcell, of St. John's society, South Side, when called upon, stated that the irrepressible "speak-easy" is in his locality the most deliberate foe that had to be contended against. Delegate James Mahon, of the South Side, thought that there ought to be more earnest and energetic work among the members to induce men to join and hold those that are already in the ranks.

President John H. Devine, of the Diocesan union, spurred the officers of the societies to greater effort, and his remarks called from Conductor P. J. Meisitt, of the South Side, and Vice-President Cullen, of the district, prompt queries, asking Mr. Devine to be more specific, and if he knew of any back-sliding to report it. They told Mr. Devine to tell what he knows about officers who do not do their duty, and Mr. Meisitt, in his advice to the first officer of the Diocesan union, rose to a high pitch of eloquence.

Minooka Knows the Speak Easy.

Peter F. Cusick, of Minooka, complained that the unlicensed grog shop is not an unknown quantity in that village, and in St. Joseph's society, of which he is a member, Mr. Cusick said that the old men are not in favor of any amusement that would tend to make it pleasant for the young men to make it would tend to keep the young men together.

Mr. Martin, under the head of new business, made a motion that the officers of the district be authorized to correspond with the pastors of the city, with a view toward organizing calet societies. The motion did not prevail. M. T. Burke, of Carbondale, read a letter from Rev. George Zurcher, of Buffalo, a very eloquent priest, who would be pleased to come to Scranton after Easter and deliver a lecture. The reverend gentleman will be in Hazleton in a few weeks.

An intermission of a half hour was spent in enjoying a delicious lunch, furnished by the St. Pauls. Before and after the intermission the advisability of amending certain sections of the constitution and by-laws of the Diocesan union was discussed. President Devine found a ready response from the delegates in taking tickets to dispose of for the benefit at the Frothingham for the Thirtieth regiment armory fund.

KILLED ON THE TRACK.

Tragic Death of Butcher Lewis Getz of the West Side.

Death in a sudden and uncertain manner overtook Butcher Lewis Getz, of 718 West Lackawanna avenue, on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad tracks opposite the Lackawanna Iron and Coal company store at 2:55 yesterday morning. His body was run over and mangled by the fast train for New York; the wheels passed over the breast and almost bisected the body, only a few shreds of flesh and bone holding both portions together; the right arm was cut off and the bruises on the head and face were so violent that the dead countenance is turned to a dark crimson color.

Getz was a well-known business man of the West Side, was married, and leaves a wife and four children, Ella, William, Edwin, and Charles. He left home Saturday afternoon to go to the South Side to collect some bills, and being widely acquainted across the Roaring Brook, he remained until late. The supposition is that he was taking a short cut across what is known locally as Mill street, and was killed after reaching the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western tracks.

Coroner Kelley went to the residence yesterday afternoon and empaneled the following jury: Dr. Walter M. Reedy, John Hoffman, W. B. Duggan, Thomas Maloney, H. Bergmann, and John T. Brown. The remains were viewed and the inquest was adjourned until Wednesday evening at 7:30 to the arbitration room in the court house.

Burial services will be conducted tomorrow at 12 o'clock at the house by Rev. G. L. Aldrich, of Grace Reformed Episcopal church. The remains will be placed on the 12:45 afternoon train on the Central Railroad of New Jersey and taken to White Haven for interment.

VERY MEAN THIEVES.

They Descended to the Stealing of Pennies.

For breaking open and stealing the pennies inside the slot machines of the Jersey Central and Delaware and Hudson depots, Albert Hammond, colored, and Sterling Bruce, white, strangers in the city, were arrested Saturday night. In yesterday's police court they were sent to jail in default of $300 bail each to await trial in court. They gave their occupations as cooks. The colored youth is 18 years old and is from New York City; Bruce is 22 years old and hails from Cincinnati.

Lieutenant Davis, of the police department, had been notified that the penny slot machines in the Jersey Central depot had been rifled of their contents. Later in the evening the men were found tampering with the machines in the Jersey Central depot. They were then arrested and locked in the central police station. A number of pennies were found in their possession.

PROF. SIEGEL'S DANCE.

Bauer's Full Orchestra Will Furnish Music at the Frothingham Tonight.

Tickets for Professor J. Frank Siegel's promenade concert and dance at the Frothingham this evening have been selling rapidly, and the event promises to be among the most enjoyable society affairs of Easter week.

The temporary dancing floor has been placed in the theater over the orchestra chairs and all arrangements for the entertainment and comfort of guests have been completed. Music will be furnished by Bauer's band and orchestra, and the dancing will be under direct supervision of Professor Siegel.

ALLATOONA NOTES.

Teddy Richards, the well known bugler, will execute the bugle calls incident to the play in true military style.

Eugene P. Ham, one of our well known musicians, will play the leading character, colonel of the United States volunteers.

As the proceeds will be for the benefit of the new armory our citizens are doing all they can to make it a financial success.

The ladies of the cast, Misses Norton, Powell, Harris and Rice, will doubtless give great satisfaction in their various roles.

One of the thrilling incidents will be the famous reply of General Course, while badly wounded, to General Sherman's dispatch from Kenesaw.

D. W. Seism, the capable stage manager, will play the part of the villain of the drama—a confederate colonel. His success as a professional assures a highly creditable performance.

E. F. Kingsbury, who has worked indefatigably in the interest of the armory fund, will leave today for New York city, for the purpose of purchasing the necessary costumes and paraphernalia for the play.

Dr. Gibbons.

VERY CHOICE BURGLARS

VISITED ATTORNEY O'BRIEN

They Gathered Up Silver Service and Carried It Away but Did Not Touch Anything Else—Obtained Entrance Through a Window.

Professional burglars forced an entrance into the residence of Attorney Joseph O'Brien, on Madison avenue, near Mulberry street, between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning. They secured over $200 worth of solid silverware.

The cracksmen made a nice distinction between solid and plated stuff, and carried away only articles of exceptional value. The job was done neatly and with dispatch, and the peculiar details of the burglary indicate positively that the men were professionals and knew their business. The case was reported yesterday morning to Chief of Police Simpson. At a late hour last night no clue had been found of the identity of the bold night prowlers.

A list of the articles taken is as follows: three dozen tea spoons, a tea service of many pieces, several napkin rings, two child's mugs, a cake dish and match safe, all solid silver. A chenille cloth, which covered the dining room table, and which was probably used to hold the plunder, and a pocketbook containing 50 cents, which had been left in the drawer of a coat rack in the hall, were taken. It is possible that other articles of silver were also stolen.

THE WAY THEY ENTERED.

Mrs. O'Brien, who is ill, and who is attended by a nurse, heard suspicious noises between 2 and 3 o'clock. She became nervous and directed the nurse to awaken Mr. O'Brien. After being called, Mr. O'Brien descended to the first floor and found the small cellar lamp lighted and resting on the kitchen floor. The small window at the rear of the kitchen was open. The sill of the window is about 12 feet from the ground.

Mr. O'Brien soon ascertained that silverware had been taken from the buffet in the dining room. After satisfying himself that the robbers had left the house he fastened the window and retired for the remainder of the night, notifying the police early in the morning.

Asked of the Traction Company for Killing Merritt Lawrence.

A suit for damages to the amount of $10,000 has been started against the Scranton Traction company by Allan Lawrence, father of Merritt Lawrence, the 4-year-old boy who was killed by a car ten days ago at Adams avenue and Olive street. The first formal papers in the suit were filed Saturday by Hulslander and Vosburg in the prothonotary's office.

Mr. Lawrence declares that the car which caused his boy's death was driven negligently and carelessly, and at a high rate of speed, that the bell was not rung, and that the car was not equipped with modern and proper appliances to check its headway or guard against such accidents.
