Dr. George F. Brooks, No. 29 Temple Place, Boston, says: "I have used a good many rheumatism medicines in the course of my practice, but I can candidly say that I never saw a remedy as effective as Munyon's Rhou-matism Cure. I gave the sample bottle I got Monday to one of my patients, a lady, who has had chronic rheumatism in her limbs for years. Her knee and elbow joints were stiff, and she suffered great pain. Its effect was simply marvelous, Relief from pain was obtained in a few hours after the first dose and inside of twenty-four hours the lady was feeling better than she had for years. I shall pre-actibe Munyon's Cure for all cases of rheumatism that come under my care in the future."

THE STORY TOLD BY MRS. JONES

Describes Her Husband as One of the Greatest of Scoundrels-Poor Farm to Be Thrown Open for Inspection of Taxpayers May 1.

Among other interesting matters dealt with at the meeting of the Scranton poor board yesterday aftern on, the question was introduced whether a general public invitation should be sent out to all the citizens to visit the Hillside home on Wednesday, May 1, or whether only a special invitation to representatives of the press and clergymen of augmented remarkably the status of er thing. There has recently been made every denomination would be the propthe parish, will leave today and tomor- at the home some valuable improvements, representing a money outlay of over $60,000. One new building has been constructed at a cost of $40,000, and another has been remodeled to the tune of $20,000 or more, These two buildings are at present devoted to the needs of the old men and old women cared for by the district. Mr. Gibbons advocated an inspection of these improvements by the men who have paid the tax that liquidates the running expenses of the poor district, but he felt it would be too much of an undertaking to ask the public to attaken passage on the 6 o'clock outward tend; it would meet with such a response, he thought, that the expense of suitably receiving the visitors would be more than ought to be entailed. It Matterson met at Elm street, and as would require expense, he thought, in engaging carriages to transfer them there was a standstiff. The question from the railway station to the home, arose as to which of the cars should re- and it would not be the proper thing. in his opinion, to treat them shabbily after inviting them. A lunch should be provided. Public Would Be Informed.

Therefore, he argued that instead of asking the public at large to visit the home, if a special invitation were given to newspaper representatives and to clergymen that would meet all the ends and save the expense that would otherwise occrue. He is not in favor of spending money levied for the support and care of the indigent and insane on "blowouts." Mr. Gibbons sensibly maintained that the newspapers would enlighten the public at large about the improvements at the home

Director Williams thought that the course Mr. Gibbons suggested would make it appear that the board was discriminating in favor of journalism, to the exclusion of the judges of our courts, the mayor and city councils, etc. After some discussion it was agreed to extend a general public invitation and let all who so desire attend. At the suggestion of Mr. Shotten, Superintendent Beemer will be "at home" to all visitors all day on May 1. Bread and milk or coffee and cake will regale the visitors.

Mrs. Duggan brought to the attention of the board the case of Patrick Murray of 328 South Washington avenue This is the individual who has been styled heretofore by Mrs. Duggan as "too lazy to work." He has a wife and six children, and Mrs. Duggan says the wife is as bad as Murray. The children are sent out to beg on the streets with pitiful tales of sick parents at home. and the revenue thus derived is devoted to the purchase of rum. Mrs. Duggan does not know whether Mrs. Murray is addicted to intoxicants, but she encourages her husband in sending the children out to beg, and likely to

Mr. Gibbons favored giving Murray the full benefit of the law and by his motion the case was placed in the hands of Director Tropp and the attorney of house on Margaret avenue occupied by the board, with instructions to look John Hughes, who has moved to after the children and also look after Murray and to prosecute him.

A revolting story was brought to the surface in the examination of Mrs. Margaret Jones, who lives on the Olyphant road, near the Capouse works. She was the second applicant for relief. She cited as the ground on which she desired relief is that her husband has deserted her and left her without a means of support. Director Shotten asked her if David Jones, her husband, is not living in Duryea or Pittston. She could not tell, she does not know where he is and moreover does not care; and she stated before the meeting that she will never again live with him. He has not lived with her in two years; and then she unfolded a loothsome accusa-

"I refuse, and shall refuse to live with him," she said, "because he abused his own two daughters; he abused other little girls, too, and one of them that I know is living now in Dunmore.

Jones Must Do His Part.

Mr. Shotten arose and asked her if this was not a trumped up charge, and she glared flercely and emphatically answered, no. He asked her how it was that the matter was dropped, and she said it was on account of the girls. Her oldest daughter is 18, and the other 14. The board decided that Jones should support his family, and if he does not do it voluntarily he shall be compelled to do so. HEALTH NOTES.

Sudden change of weather, as from heat to cold, and the reverse, is responsible for many an illness, and especially for throat and bronchial affect tions. Sir Morell Mackenzie, who was a specialist in throat troubles, always insisted that a great many of the allments that were brought under his notice could have been escaped but for the injudicious coddling of the throat. The throat must not be wrapped up too much; the great thing is, to try to harden it. By care and persistence the throat can be made as weather-proof as the face. Many people who are not in the secret are amazed that the patriarchal Gladstone can stand for with the head uncovered in the open air, while a strong breeze is blowing. ability to do this with impunity was gained by sitting habitually at a window through which a draft was created, so that the head became accustomed to all variations of temperature and all degrees of air motion. In the same way the throat can become habituated to varying conditions. It should be kept free from wrappings. Women should dispense with their great feather, boas and Medici collars, and men should cast aside their stifling mufflers. It is an excellent practice to wear turn-down collars, and gargling with cold, salt water in the morning has sovereign virtue, as well as bathing the throat first with hot water, and then with very cold. The throat thus gets the effect of a sudden shock, and is braced up and permanently strength-

Mothers of puny and delicate babies need not despair. The excessively weak condition of Voltaire prevented his being baptizd for several months after he as born. Perhaps he protested at that early age. Newton was so small and frail at his birth that his life was despaired of. He lived, however, like Voltaire, to the age of 85. Jean Jacques Rosseau says: "I came into the world sick and infirm." Up to the age of 5 the life of De Thou, the historian, (born 1553) hung by a slender thread. Fontenelle, whose mental faculties remained unimpaired to the end of his long lifehe died within a month of being a centenarian-was so delicate in his infancy that he was not allowed to be taken out into the open air. Walter Scott was an invalid before the age of 2. His right leg being paralyzed, the poor little fel-low had to support himself on a crutch. After being sent into the hill country with his father he came back strong and active. And Victor Hugo has told us in his "Autumn Leaves" how delicate he was from his birth and what anxious sollcitude "made him twice the child of his persistent mother." HEALTH FOR THE MILLION:
