AS TO NICARAGUA.

Editor of The Tribune. Str: I see in the edition of our hest evening paper quite a sensational appeal for Uncle Sam to violently interfere with the collecting by England of certain chains against Nicaragua-all this by reaon of the Monroe doctrine. The doctrin has been accepted as the medium of exchange and the standard of values. It ought to be maintained and enforced by any and every American administra-tion. On this point we all agree. But on the other hand is it proper and fair to prevent a friendly power like England from collecting claims which are certainly of money and its retirement has had well founded, though perhaps somewhats excessive? British subjects and even a British consul, have been roughly and un eremoniously handled by citizens of this petty Central American government. But England never allows any such encroachthrown the control of the commerce of the world into the hands of 4,000 gold ments on the rights and dignity of ments on the rights and dignity of bond holders. Mr. Boland advocated for us to follow the example which the for us to follow the example which the for us to follow the example which the is not enough of gold and there is of this kind. But, alas! for a grand glorious nation, we are so proverblaily iax and indifferent regarding the dignity and safety of our citizens abroad that I am not surprised to see a morbid publi entiment in the United States in favor of Nicaragua in the present case, If we are to insist that England shall not collect a claim just in principle, then let us guarantee the debt to the Saint arnes cableet and run the risk of col-lecting it ourselves. In other words, if we are to allow all the turbulent and troublesome citizens of the republics of South and Central America to hide under the ample wings of the American engle, it is our duty also to prevent an inustice being done a great and noble haion from whom we have received our sest blood and whose mother-tongue h our own.
