William Lawyer, of Throop, received a notice, through Alderman Wright, yesterday, that he had been granted a pension of $6 per month. He enlisted on Sept. 20, 1862, and was honorably discharged on Oct. 2, 1865.

WEISS WAS TO BLAME.

Jury Says His Carelessness Resulted in His Death. Conflicting evidence was given at the adjourned inquest at the court house last night to inquire as to the death of Karl Weiss, who fell from the fourth floor of the Hotel Jermyn on Saturday. Adam Schroeder, who is in charge of the masonry work, said that Weiss was a carpenter and had been working on the building for about ten days. The men were in the habit of descending by sliding down the ropes, instead of making use of the ladders provided. The floor on which Weiss was working was covered except an opening through which to haul the material. Through this opening the ropes were placed, and he was of the opinion that Weiss grasped the loose line on the blocks instead of holding on to the four lines. In reply to the jury, he stated that he had never prohibited the men sliding down the ropes. A. B. Diggelman, foreman carpenter, J. Kelly, steelwright, and William Roberts, laborer, also gave testimony. Neil McTague, one of the jurors, questioned each witness as to the building of the building inspector. The jury, which comprised M. H. Keogh, Neil McTague, P. H. Gilgallon, Peter Rosar, E. F. Squiers and William Williams, arrived at the following verdict: "That the said Karl Weiss accidentally came to his death while attempting to slide down by a system of ropes, blocks and pulleys from the fourth story of the Hotel Jermyn. We also find that the said fourth story was covered, with the exception of space left open for hauling up materials. We find that the building was properly provided with ladders for the use of employes, which should have been used instead of the ropes in making a descent from the building."

RIP VAN WINKLE.

Was Resuscitated Yesterday at Davis' Theater. J. E. Toole and his excellent company presented "Rip Van Winkle" before large audiences at Davis' theater yesterday, and there was every token that the old play has lost none of its charm and interest. The scene on the Catskills was well presented, and Mr. Toole made an excellent Rip Van Winkle, filling the bill in every respect. Pillsbury's Flour Mills have a capacity of 17,500 barrels a day. We show samples of high grade printing in catalogues and booklets-The Tribune Printing Department.

HE ADMITTED HIS GUILT

Charges Other Than That of Bigamy Against Him Withdrawn.

TONY VOCH WAS CONVICTED

He Will Have Time to Repent for His Conduct—Case of Daniel Wallersfield, Who Is Charged with Selling Liquor Without a License.

Alexander McWilliam Dickson, the gay Lothario who deserted one wife to marry, unlawfully, another, pleaded guilty yesterday to bigamy, and the other two suits against him were withdrawn and the costs were placed upon the county. These charges were perjury and carrying concealed weapons. He swore when he was obtaining his second marriage license that he had been divorced from his first wife. And when Special Officer Mink went to arrest him at Bushkill, Pike county, he was forced to disarm Dickson and confiscate a revolver that the bigamist had in his possession. The jury's verdicts in the four cases against Thomas Thomas and John Kirby were somewhat surprising. Thomas was acquitted of all of the charges and it is more than probable that the jury did this on account of the defendant's age. He is tottering on the verge of the grave. Kirby was found guilty of keeping a tipping house and selling liquor on Sunday; he was acquitted of furnishing liquor to minors and of aggravated assault on Albert Lepke. In the latter case the costs were imposed on the prosecutor. Louis Marino, the Italian who was on trial before Judge Gunster for robbing Bridget Rodick of a gold "ticker," went on the witness stand yesterday morning and swore with vehemence that he was innocent of the charge as Mary's little lamb, whose fleece was white as snow. But the twelve intelligent men who sat and listened to all the details of the case did not believe Lou, and they returned a verdict of guilty with a recommendation of mercy to the court. Convicted of Felonious Wounding. Tony Voch, the enterprising silletto flourisher, was convicted of feloniously wounding Thomas Jenkins and he will be sentenced tomorrow. Judge Edwards intimated that Voch will have plenty of time to learn his trade, and also to take a post graduate course. Jasper Silvie, who misrepresented his credit to Grocer Hoffecker, of Peckville, and thereby secured goods to the value of $50, was found guilty of false pretenses and will get it in the neck in sentence court tomorrow. Silvie looked guilty and the jury took him at his appearance. Daniel Wallersfield, the tipping house keeper of the Third ward, was called to answer the charges against him. District Attorney Jones attended to the prosecution of the case, and Attorney C. W. Dawson represented the defendant. County Detective Leyshon was the first witness sworn, and he stated that he went to the North End to investigate the death of Patrick Kenanham, whose corpse was found in Leyshon's court on Jan. 23, this year. Mr. Leyshon said he learned that the dead man had been drinking in Wallersfield's house and went there to inquire about the whereabouts of Kenanham on the day before his body was found. Mr. Leyshon said he saw a rest on the wall and the room was fitted up for a regular barroom. Liquor Made Him Merry. A witness named Warren was called and he swore that he drank something in Wallersfield's that made him merry, but he could not state whether it was ale or corn beer. Nobody paid for it, and Warren was accused of marking on a slate boards that had not been settled for. Every witness called by the commonwealth up till adjournment had the appearance of having been tampered with. They saw beer drunk at Wallersfield's, but could not swear that money had been paid for the beer. Attorney A. J. Colborn, Jr., very cleverly extricated a client from the clutches of the law. Before Judge Edwards, in No. 2 court room, Alonzo Reichard was put on trial on the charge of larceny and receiving for stolen goods. Bond was admitted. District Attorney John M. Harris represented the commonwealth. The substance of the case was that Reichard belonged to a branch of the Patriotic Order Sons of America in Green Ridge, and there was dissension in the camp. Treasurer Jackson, of the organization, had furnished a bond to the trustees for the faithful performance of his trust. Was It the Wind. Whether the bond got caught up by the wind and carried out the window or whether it was lifted out of the building on the wings of the eloquence of some of the members, does not seem to be very known, but, at any rate, Reichard claims that he found it one day while walking along the railroad track. Attorney Colborn moved to take the case from the jury on the ground that it is not larceny to steal a bond as such a document is not mentioned in the statute of assembly. Judge Edwards sustained the point and directed the jury to find a verdict of not guilty. Conrad Vernon, of Archbald, got into trouble, all on account of the suggestion his wife made in advising him to lend $500 to Henry Voelkers, of the South Side. Mr. Vernon was charged with forgery in his attempt to collect the money. Attorney F. J. Fitzsimmons ably defended him and the commonwealth was represented by Mr. Harris and Attorney M. W. Lowry. Four years ago Vernon was a lone widower in Archbald, but he made a visit one Sunday to the South Side, in this city, and met a charming widow and his fate. The woman, during the period of courtship, often told Vernon if he had any "dough" that she knew a man to whom he could lend a trifle, and that the man would pay him back as sure that her love for him was true. On the strength of this endorsement Vernon lent Voelkers $50. Four years passed and still there was no sign of the repayment of the loan. Once and awhile when Vernon came down from Archbald to see about collecting it, Voelkers, it is said, used to pay him a chicken or a duck on account. At last one day it is alleged that Vernon forged Voelkers' name to an order upon Secretary H. J. Zeigler, of Archbald, and had a few dollars, in which Voelkers had a few dollars saved. The defendant's counsel has tried to show the jury that he is an illiterate old German and when he signed the prosecutor's name, it was done ignorantly, believing he had a right to do so inasmuch as Voelkers owed the money.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West Will Be Here May 11.

There are so few entertainments in the list of those which annually recur that can be said to possess either novelty or other value than the willing away of an idle hour, that it is distinctly a pleasure to announce the advent of Colonel W. F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," at the head of that remarkable and unique organization the Wild West. It is now on tour in America for the first time in many years and contains many novel features as the result of its great journeyings over the continent. There are representatives from the great standing armies of Europe, the Russian, Irish, French, German and Russian heavy and light branches of the cavalry service, and with these are the Arab, the Tartar, the Gaucho and the Indian, nature's horsemen par excellence. This enormous enterprise is under the management of Colonel Cody and those two widely-known and in their several ways unequalled amusement managers, Nate Salsbury and James A. Bailey, of Barnum & Bailey. This is a guarantee that every promise made to the public will be faithfully kept and that every one of the myriad details incident to the moving and presenting of this tremendous entertainment will be perfect in itself. The reader should not forget that this organization can never be duplicated and that to miss seeing it now is to take the chance of the opportunity never recurring. The Wild West will be here on Saturday, May 11.

IN LOCAL THEATERS. The Bubb Comedy company will be at the Academy of Music all of next week at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents. This company carries a full brass band and orchestra. The opening bill is "A Kentucky Home." The Leader, Elizabeth, N. J., says: "Several hundred people were turned away from Drake's opera house last evening who were unable to secure seats for witness the opening performance of the Bubb Comedy company. The play, 'Michael Stodoff,' was presented in an excellent manner, and the unanimous verdict of the audience at the conclusion of the third act—the battle scene—was that the performance was far superior to many companies who have appeared in this city at high prices, and by far, by great odds the best repertoire company ever seen here, barring none. The concert in front of the theater, at 7 o'clock last evening, was enjoyed by several hundred people."

Stuart Robson will appear in Bronson Howard's great play, "The Henrietta," at the Frothingham next Tuesday. The play is a most interesting and well-acted one, and requires no advance heralding. It is generally conceded that Mr. Robson has found a character in it ideally suited to his peculiar individuality and affording the utmost possibilities to his talents. Mr. Robson has the happy faculty of pleasing all persons who see him, from those in evening dress in the orchestra to the gentlemen who lean far over the upper gallery rail to take in every bit of the play. Mr. Robson may be termed "a player of the people" as "The Henrietta" may be called a play of the times. Both are points of view very decidedly success they have achieved.

Bronson Howard's great play, "Aristocracy," will be produced at the Frothingham Monday evening by one of Frothman's best companies. It looks as though the management had searched the whole profession pretty thoroughly, to get together such a cast. A company like this ought to make any play a success. "Aristocracy" was presented here with the original stage embellishments, etc., that were used during the four seasons' run at Palmer's theater, New York.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Annual Meeting of Elm Park Epworth League Held Last Evening. Considerable interest was attached to the annual meeting of the Elm Park Epworth league, which was held last evening and was attended by a large number of members. The officers elected were: President, G. Fred Whittemore; vice-presidents, of devotional services committee, F. A. Beldeman; mercy and help committee, D. T. Yeast; literary, Miss Teresa Smith; social committee, Miss Lizzie Raub; secretary's duties, D. L. Wilson, and treasurer's department, Miss Alice Griffiths. Each vice-president will appoint their respective committees. The other officers elected were: chorister, G. Fred Whittemore; pianist, Miss Alice Griffiths, and assistant, Miss Vic Connell. A rehearsal will be held in the church parlors this evening.

THEY BROKE THE SLEIGH.

Legal Steps Taken to Get Young Men to Settle. A reminiscence of winter was vividly brought to the minds of four young men who were arrested yesterday by Constable Byars, at the instance of C. A. Sumner, livery stable keeper. From the information supplied it is alleged that Arthur Ridgway, of 1611 Penn avenue, and Fred and John W. Brown, in January and invited friends to accompany him for a sleigh ride through the enchanting scenes of Factoryville. The merry quartette enjoyed a delightful evening, but a catastrophe in the shape of an upset cut short their pleasure and the question of damages has been an unsettled matter through the intervening months. Arthur Ridgway entered bail in the sum of $300 yesterday before Alderman Bailey and the other persons, who claim that they were not responsible as invited guests, will be given a hearing before Alderman Wright.

STATE OF THE COAL TRADE

Result of the Difficulty Over the Reading's Percentage.

IT WILL BE A BENEFIT LOCALLY

Possibility That There Will Be a Considerable Increase in Output During May. Local Representatives of the Large Companies Are Saying Nothing.

Next month will witness a great boom on the local railroads and forecasts made shudder that more coal will be carried by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and Delaware and Hudson companies than has been carried for any month during the past two years. This, it is alleged, is due to the contention between the Reading company and the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The former company is willing to accept 20.63 per cent. of the traffic, and it appeared probable that all the New York companies would have been satisfied, but when the Pennsylvania company refused to accept the suggestion of the Reading company to take the 1 per cent. of coal at Pottsville Junction and charge it to its quota, it became necessary for the Reading company to renew its claim to 21 per cent. of the output.

The proposal to arbitrate is now being pressed, but the Reading company has answered that the presidents of the coal companies knew more than the arbitrators could learn of the trade in a year. As the matter now stands, no plan of distribution of percentages, except upon the basis of 1894, is generally acceptable, and for obvious reasons, which have been explained, the Reading company will not accept that year. The outcome of the unsuccessful effort to harmonize the relations existing between the great carrying companies will be that, for a time at least, the local railroad companies in the Lackawanna Valley will carry all the coal possible. This will mean that full time will be required in every department and that every available car will be used in the transportation of coal. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company have a large number of cars standing idle on the Bloomsburg division, and it is rumored that these will be ordered in as soon as the month of May is ushered in.

Local representatives of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and Delaware and Hudson companies, when approached upon the matter, stated that they were not aware of any contemplated change, as their companies were inclined to remain conservative in the matter and observe the agreement as to output. They anticipated, however, that when the canals and lakes were open for navigation there would be a material increase in the demand for coal and this would take place during the coming month. Should there, however, be a decision to work full time, the orders would be issued from New York. A meeting of coal sales agents will be held next week to arrange the interior prices and this is regarded by some interested in the question as indicating that the combination will be maintained.

DENMORE DOINGS

Clarence Watrous is building a new house on his property off Fifth street. Miss Mame Murphy, daughter of P. F. Murphy, of Chestnut street, is seriously indisposed. Wednesday evening, at 11:30, shortly after M. J. Burke had retired for the night, he was awakened from his slumber by a man standing in the front door. He descended at once to the door and recognized the person as John Lynch. The unwelcome visitor was arrested and was taken before 'Square Scott and held under $300 bail to keep the peace. The funeral of the late Cornelius Brauning took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of his son, Eber, on Fifth street. The services were held in the house, and was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Leacock. The pall-bearers were Charles Russell, Hile Nichols, Henry Vaughn, John Watrous, Albert Kenning and Mark Bishop. Interment was made in Dunmore cemetery.
