Our Neighbors Down the Valley.

WILKES-BARRE.

[The Tribune has opened a branch office at No. 29. Lanning building, Public Square, Wilkes-Barre, for the transaction of business. The publishers propose to extend the circulation of The Tribune in Wilkes-Barre and the surrounding towns, and to that end will present a very complete department of Luzerne county news. For success in this undertaking dependence is placed solely apon the superiority of The Tribune as a purveyor of all the news of the day—domestic, foreign, local, commercial and financial. The general interests of the people of Wilkes-Barre and the Wyoming valley will have in The Tribune an estrest advocate, editorially and otherwise. It is the purpose of the publishers it issue a newspaper as valuable to the general public as the metropolitan dailies, and deliver it to the people throughout northeastern Pennsylvania from three to five hours earlier than the Philadelphia and New York papers can reach them).

Progress of Grow County. The commissioners appointed by the governor to survey the territory proposed to be incorporated in the new county of Grow are at work running the lines, driving stakes and performing the duties generally devolving upon them. Luzerne county, as now constituted, contains 926 square miles. The territory proposed to be cut off contains about 420 square miles, leaving to plaining that they do not object to the the mother county a little more than If Grow county shall really be erected Luzerne will be a peculiarly shaped territory. The line of the proposed new county will run within ten miles of Wilkes-Barre at some points, but as Foster and Hazle townships are not included in the new county a connecting link must be left. This is done by a comparatively narrow strip, It has the appearance of a leg, with Foster and Hazle townships forming a big foot at the end of it.

The projectors of Grow county have apparently been careful to include provided their friends have enough enough territory as well as enough population to assure a favorable report portant question now seems to be: Will Grand Army men for memorial sera majority of the people in the proposed Grow county vote in favor of the project? If they do, it is difficult to see how the erection of the new county can be prevented. The one peculiar feature of this project is that there is not back cemetery, and the time will come contained within these more than 400 when the managers themselves will square miles a single town that is adapted for a county seat. Shickshinny comes nearest to it, and it is very far from what would generally regarded as an ideal county seat. The Grow county movement really had its origin in Wilkes-Barre, and was conceived as something in the nature of "counter irritant," to head off the Quay county project. It would be a joke on its Wilkes-Barre projectors if contemplated.

The New Court House.

for a second-hand plan, and his one sided, fron-clad contract with the commissioners will enable him to gather appearances it would seem that the inty will pay the Michigan architect $20,000 for which it will receive plans zation. for a building that will never be erected. In other words, the county will prac tically have made a present of $20,000 to Architect Myers.

Some day Luzerne will have a new court house, but it is fairly safe to predict that it will not be erected nor even commenced by the present commissioners, nor will it be a million dollar build-It is also safe to venture the prediction that none of he present commissioners will be their own successors when their present term expires. The new court house question will enter very largely into the election of the next board of commissioners.

Dr. J. Arthur Bullard is not only one of the most prominent and successful physicians of Wilkes-Barre, but also one of the most persistent bleyelists in the town. A few days ago he had a narrow escape from a horrible death. While crossing the trolley-car track, nearly in front of his residence, on South Main street, his wheel slipped on the wet rail, landing him on the track. A car was within fifty feet of motorman saw the peril and applied the brakes. He managed to bring the car to a stop when within a few inches of the prostrate doctor. In this connec tion it may be mentioned that the Wilkes-Barre trolley cars are not yet provided with safety fenders, and in this city there is not even any agitation in favor of such a device for the protection of the public. Here, as in Scranton and elsewhere, the Traction company "owns the town."

Want a Federal Building.

Some time before the meeting of congress in its next regular session an organized movement will be made by a number of prominent citizens of Wilkes-Barre in behalf of securing an appropriation for a Federal building here. Honorable John Leisenring, the new congressman, has given his promise to do whatever lies in his power to secure such an appropriation, and

That section would be boomed tremendously by the erection of a federal building. And this town should be possible in this section will almost immediately in this section will almost immediately in this section. that body comes to make its distribution of prizes. If Honorable John Leisenring secures the desired appropriation he can count on a majority of about 2,000 in Wilkes-Barre when he runs for a second term next year, and that majority won't cost him a cent, either.

Hiberal Cemetery Managers. The managers of Hollenback cemetery will be harshly criticized in many directions for the stand they have taken in forbidding the holding of memorial services in that cemetery on Decoration Day. They have been exdecorating of the soldier graves by committees of the Grand Army men, but will not permit the promis-cuous crowd to enter the grounds as heretofore. In justification of this action the managers allege that in former years a good deal of damage has been done by the crowd, and they propose to put a stop to it. The Grand Army men were somewhat indignant at first but they have concluded to say no more about it. Hollenback cometery is the property of a close corporation and people can be buried there only money to purchase a high-priced grave. This is the first instance, so far as is vices in honor of their dead comrades. It must not be supposed for a moment that public sentiment in Wilkes-Barre pathy with the managers of Hollenhave further explanations to make.

A Debt That Should Be Paid.

Visiting Grand Army men from all sections of the state invariably in-Army of the Republic, in this city. They kick Anyway.

For years there was a constant howl neard because the county commissioners would not offer liberal rewards for the detection of the numerous murderers that were rampant in Luzerne Some time ago a man named Barney Reick was brutally murdered and ing, after the plans of Architect Myers, robbed. The commissioners resolved, if possible, to hunt down the murderers and placed the case into the hands of the Barring detective agency. A number of arrests have been made and it is said that the evidence of guilt is very strong. The Barring agency does not work for glory alone and the commissioners have had to pay liberally for the service rendered, hence the howl now being heard. When the commissioners refused to spend money for the detection of criminals they were denounced for their parsimoniousness and indifference to the safety of the people. Now, when they have employed the best detective skill available and pay liberally for apparently successful service, they are denounced for extrava-gance. It is said that the commissioners have paid nearly $5,000 for the caphim, and coming at full speed. The If the right men have been secured the ture of the alleged murderers of Reick. money has been well spent, and the kickers should stop kicking.

The West Side park races, arranged for last Saturday, had to be postponed on account of the rain and consequent heaviness of the track.

During the thunder storm on Saturday morning the Catholic church at Kingston was struck by lightning and damaged to the extent of $2,000. Martin Finn, a well-known citizen of Minor's Mills, died at that place on Saturday morning. Mr. Finn had a large acquaintance throughout Luzerne and

These rumors are productive of much rejoicing among the thousands of men in the employ of this company who have been passing through a season of exceptionally hard times, having less work and consequently less to live on han the employes of other companies. It is said that the Miner-Hillard Milling company will soon double the capa-city of their plant at Miner's Mills. This ompany now has mills at Wilkes-Barre, Pittston, Plymouth and Miner's and is the largest concern of the kind in this section of the state, and proposes to branch out still further. ion. Charles A. Miner is at the head of the company, but the active man-ager is Captain Asher Miner, who is rapidly forging to the front as one of the most energetic and successful among the younger business men of the Wyoming Valley.

Two or three solitary rafts of mine props floating down the Susquehanna this spring are the only reminders left of what was once an extensive business in that line. Forty years ago a freshet in the rivers like the one that has occurred this spring would have seen millions of feet of logs going toward tidewater, besides the numerous arks" of potatoes, beef and other farm products that found ready market at Wilkes-Barre and other towns below. Mine Foreman George Thomas, of Clear Spring colliery, made his descent into the mine at 7 o'clock on Saturday. On reaching the bottom of the second opening he discovered the prostrate form of a man. The body proved to be that of Charles Donadue, a single man who resided with his widowed mother on Chapel street and was employed as a company hand in the Pittston vein. The exact manner in which Donohue met his death has not been ascertained, but it is supposed that from some unknown cause he slipped or was knocked into the pit, the bottom of which is 500 below the surface. His body was horribly mangled. A short time before the body was found Donohue was talking with the engineer at the head of the shaft. It is reported that he went down on the case with two Polanders who were employed in the lower vein, The cage was stopped at the Pittston vein where Donohue alighted. There is a very strong current of air at this opening and as Donohue alighted his light was extinguished. It is supposed that he turned to signal the engineer to lower the cage when, in the dark-ness, he stepped over the brink into the shaft, at the bottom of which his body was found. The unfortunate man is survived by his mother and two brothers, John and Francis. The funeral will take place from the family home. on Chapel street, this (Monday) afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment at Church cemetery.

passed over this city Saturday morning made several incursions on dwellings in this vicinity. The home of John Mc Garry, located on Church Hill, was struck by lightning at 6 o'clock, from which the building caught fire. The flames were extinguished, as was supposed, but the fire re-appeared shortly after 8 o'clock. The flames soon gained such headway that it was impossible to control them, and the structure was completely destroyed. None of the occupants were injured. The house occupled by William Loughney, corner of Prospect and Division streets, also received a shock. The lightning struck a tree in a field nearby and completely razed it. From that the electrical current was carried to Loughney's house It tore off the cornice and shingles and damaged the building considerably. None of the occupants were injured.
