Vill Maish, of Scranton, Defeated in a Game of Continuous Pool, Around a pool table in Jerome the West Side, and Will Jones, of Pittston, played a game of continuous pool for 200 points and $50 a side, a number of the sports of the city and Pittston and many of the friends of both players sweated and fretted until the end of the game last night. It was one of the closest contests in pool seen in this or any other city, and it hinged on such a mere matter of luck that there was no telling who would win until the last ball was driven into the pocket by Jones, and he won the game by the score of 200 to 194.

The play opened at 8.30 and was no ended until 1 o'clock. Jerome Keogh was scorer. Marsh let the game go from him, having a lead of 33 at the end of the first hundred. The Pittston crowd crowed loud and lustily, and the Scranton boys took their defeat in good part. Another match between the same players soon is not among the impossibilities. Quite a good deal of noney in side bets went into the wal lets of those down the creek. The score by pyramids is as follows: Jones-0, 11, 7, 0, 7, 4, 13, 10, 1, 9, 10, 12, 0, 5,
