WILKES-BARRE.

IThe Tribune has opened a branch office at No. 29. Landing building, Public Square, Wilkes-Barre, for the transaction of business. The publishers propose to extend the circulation of The Tribune in Wilkes-Barre and the surrounding towns, and to that end will present a very complete department of Luzerne county news. For success in this undertaking dependence is placed solely upon the superiority of The Tribune as a purveyor of all the news of the day—domestic, foreign, local, commercial and financial. The general interests of the people of Wilkes-Barre and the Wyoming valley will have in The Tribune an earnest advocate, editorially and otherwise. It is the purpose of the public as the metropolitan dallies, and deliver it to the people throughout northeastern Pennsylvania from three to flive hours earlier than the Philadelphia and New York papers can reach them).

FISHER'S ALIBI.

He Tells a Connected and Plain Story of His Whereabouts on the Day of Reick's

The first witness in the celebrated Reick murder case, yesterday morning. was James Fisher, one of the accused men. He was put on the stand, sworn, and then said he was born in Philadelphia twenty-seven years ago, and both rents were still living in that city. In 1887 he came to Wilkes-Barre first and worked in turn for the fruit houses of Frauenthal and Broad. Coing to Scranton he was in Broad's employ. and returning went to work for W. J. Narvel, also a fruit and fish dealer, He knew Barney Reick very well, but never had any dealings with him. On Nov. 17, 1893, the day of Reick's death, Fisher said he met Charles Gloa-ser, one of Broad's employes, about 3 a. m. at the Square and East Market street. He went with Glosser to Kingston, and after stopping at several stores there, went to Edwardsville, where he stopped at Aston's grocery, and then went to Plymouth, arriving there about 10 a. m. While there, he stopped at Fine's grocery store and also several little stores on Main street Went to Mr. Jones' store near the Bull Run crossing and then to Creveling's butcher store, where he sold a lot o eranges; also sold fruit in a confectionery store. Went next to a company store on Main stree. Went to James store, Devers' grocery store. Stopped at an Italian fruit stand on the corner. Went next to Mr. Davis' store (Davis is one of the jurors) and tried to sell him some lemons or oranges. Then he went to another confectionery store and also stopped at Jones & Chamberlin's. Next he went to the Eley House and sold some lemons, and, turning up that corner street stopped at two stores Then he came down to the Frantz House, took the horse out of the wagon and fed him and had dinner and registered. This was about 1 o'clock. He left there at 1.30 o'clock and stopped at two other Italians' stands. Glosser was with him all the time. After leaving Plymouth, went to West Nanticoke about 2 o'clock, stopped at the company store and several other smaller stores. Crossed to Nanticoke about 3 m. and saw Mr. Bittenbender, the blacksmith, to whom he sold a bunch of bananas. A constable met him and asked if he had a license. Witness said he had not, but, after some talk, the constable let him go, after Fisher had promised to come down and "fix it up" places in Nanticoke and then came to Left Harry Liem's about 7.30 to go to the show at Music Hall. Miller came with him. He went through the court house vard and out West Market and Franklin streets. Then he went to Steve Regan's place, the fruit and oyster dealers. That was nearly 8 o'clock. Talked with Steve and ate an oyster stew. Then he came back and went up North Washington street, where he lived. He went into Jake Lander's hotel and had a glass of beer. When he came outside Officr Zoeller stood on the corner. This was between 8 and 9 o'clock. Witness spoke to the officer, who arrested him on suspicion. Witness was taken to the lockup, searched and $2 was found upon him.

fice where he got off the wagon. That was about 6.45 o'clock. Then he went to Harry Liem's hotel on Market street.

Saw there Mr. Llem, a young man named Miller and Constable Jim Hill.

He had supper there and drank some

Fisher was subjected to a rigid cross examination, but his testimony was unshaken. The cross-examination consumed nearly the entire afternoon. The register books of the hotels where Fisher stopped were put in evidence, and idntified as being correct by the proprietors of the hotels, After a rigid cross-examination of more than two hours Fisher's testimony remained unshaken and was corroborated Charles Glosser, the last witness before tion loaned was 67, or two-tenths less than the previous year.

There were loaned to the schools 8,221 volumes, an increase of 253 over 1893. This circulation the library hopes to increase largely, as the school board has reported favorably on a request to deliver by express at all the school buildings. The work of covering the books each year is no small one, as the report shows that during 1894, 11,799 books were covered, and 1,576 were repaired. The whole number of volumes now in for the year 1894 of 2,061.

During the winter two new clubs have been formed, one for the study of art and the one for the study of current topics. Miss James in her report expresses the wish that more clubs be formed, as their work is of great value to the library. She also recommends that the usual appropriation of $150 for school books be made. This report is interesting in more ways than one. The great increase in patronage of the library shows that the citizens are becoming more intelligent and select in the chooice of reading. with each year, and it is to be regretted that no comparison is made with the ration oincrease may be more strikingly illustrated. The work that the Osterhout library is doing is a great bologna material we possess, the beef ene, and one that is thoroughly appreclated by the citizens of Wilkes-Barre.

The long delay in finishing the Trac tion car line between Pittston Junction and Duryea is believed to be ended from the fact that J. C. Bound, the Traction company superintendent of construction, with a force of workmer have effected a crossing at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western tracks near the city line. The tracks were laid to within a short distance of the steam railroad last fall and wires were strung. Then came the delay until now. The Duryea citizens are lighted at the near prospect of the convenience of the traction system. This line, extending as it does from Wilkes-Barre to Duryea, is the longest one now owned by the Traction company, being about twelve miles in ength. That the steam trains might be interfered with as little as possible, J. C. Bound and his workmen underook the task of making the crossing Sunday. All would have gone smooth ly along had not a carriage load of Polanders wished to drive across just when the planks were removed, and, of course, the passage was rather jolting. This incited the Polanders to sauciness which led to a wordy war, and it is reported that one of the occupants of the carriage struck Mr. Bound, at which his workmen came to his rescue. A free fight ensued, in which stones and tools were the weapons used. It is also stated that one of the Polanders in the carriage was stabbed. When the carriage was driven on to Duryea, one of the party had a Warrant sworn out before 'Squire Gilroy for the rrest of Mishaps at the Mines. Atabout 5,30 Saturday afternoon, when a half dozen men who had just finished the day's work and were leisurely walking up the slope at the Stevens colliery, they were met by a runaway truck, which had become detached by the breaking of the chain which coupled the cars together. The truck was loaded with rails, and while the men were on the lookout for the trucks, still they had no expectation of such a runaway. MONTROSE.

News reached Montrose Monday of the burning of the Butterfield Mineral Springs hotel near Rush. The fire was discovered on Sunday afternoon and was promptly extinguished, at least supposedly so, for late at night the inmates were startled by cries of fire which gained such headway that it baffled the energies of willing hands and the entire building was consumed. It is not known whether the new proprietor, Delmar Stark, held any insurance on the property. The hotel is quite on the property. The hotel is quite noted in this section for the clairvoyant physician, Dr. E. F. Butterfield, first managed it about fifteer years ago. The mineral water abounding is said to be beneficial in toning up the system and Mr. Stark had figured on a large summer business.

E. C. Sherman, who is the local super ntendent of the Consumers' Water company, said to the Tribune corresponden that the water furnished to Montrose is all right now. It seems that sme three weeks ago the subsidiary streams augmenting Jones' Lake, the source of the water supply, arose over three feet during one night. Now Jon s' Lake is a meek and unpretentious body of water and when her stock went up that amount in a single night the strain was more than she could bear so she became rolled and ruffled, and Alber: Warner, who resides about a half mile north of the lake, said that in thirty years the stream known as Snake creek, its outlet, had never been so high. Mr. Sher man is anxious that Montrose should have good water; he could not help or looks like liquid crystal.
