These short serial stories are copyrighted by Bachelier, Johnson & Bachelier, and are printed in The Tribune by special arrangement, simultaneous with their appearance in the leading daily journals of the large cities.

There were several of the larger London banks and insurance offices from which Hewitt held a court of general retainer as detective advisor, in fulfillment of which he was regularly consulted as to the measures to be taken in different cases of fraud, forgery, theft and so forth, which it might be the misfortune of the particular firm to encounter. The more important and intricate of these cases were placed in his hands entirely, with separate commissions, in the usual way. One of the most important companies of the sort was the General Guarantee Society, an insurance corporation which, among other risks, took those of the integrity of secretaries, clerks and cashiers. In the case of the cash-box element on the part of any person guaranteed by the society, the directors were naturally anxious for a speedy capture of the culprit, and more especially of the booty, before too much of it was spent, in order to lighten the claim upon their funds, and in work of this sort Hewitt was at times engaged, either in general advice and directions, or in the actual pursuit of the plunder and the plunderer.

He Carried a Wallet Fastened to His Person.

thing more than seven years—since he left school, in fact—and until the previous day there had been nothing in his conduct to complain of. His duties as walk-clerk consisted in making a certain round, beginning at about 10.30 each morning. There were a certain number of the more important banks between which and Messrs. Liddle, Neal & Liddle there were daily transactions, and a few smaller semi-private banks and merchant firms acting as financial agents with whom there was business intercourse of less importance and regularity; and each of these, as necessary, he visited in turn, collecting cash due on bills and other instruments of the like nature. He carried a wallet, fastened securely to his person by a chain, and this wallet contained the bills and the cash. Usually, at the end of his round, when all his bills had been converted into cash, the wallet held very large sums. His work and responsibilities, in fine, were those common to walk-clerks in all banks.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS CURES Constipation. Acts On the Bowels. I write that you may know how good I have received from B. B. B. I was all out of health and suffering from constipation and biliousness. I tried other medicines, but they failed to do any good. At last I bought a bottle of B. B. B. and before I had used it all was well as ever. G. W. BRADY, Box 4, Irvinton, Warren Co. Pa.

friend, if we can find him. Ah, we often find it's better, don't you, Mr. Hewitt? Meanwhile, there's no news from France yet. 'You are sure that is where he has gone?' asked Hewitt. 'Well, I'll tell you what we've done as yet: First, of course, I went round to all the banks. There was nothing to be got from that. The cashiers all knew him by sight, and one was a personal friend of his. He had called as usual, said nothing in particular, cashed his bills in the ordinary way and finished up at the Eastern Consolidated bank at about 1.15. So far there was nothing whatever. But I started two or three men, meanwhile, making inquiries at the railway stations, and so on. I had scarcely left the Eastern Consolidated when one of them came after me with news. He had tried Palmer's tourist office, although that seemed an unlikely place, and there struck the track. 'Had he been there?' 'Not only had he been there, but he had taken a tourist ticket to France. It was quite a smart move in a way. You see it was the sort of ticket that lets you do pretty well what you like; you have the choice of two or three different routes to begin with, and you can break your journey where you please and make all sorts of variations. So that a man with a ticket like that and a few hours' start could twist about on some remote branch route and strike off in another direction altogether, with a new ticket for some out-of-the-way place, while we were carefully sorting out and inquiring along the different routes he might have taken. Not half a bad move for a new hand, but he made one bad mistake, as now hands always do—old hands do, in fact, very often. He was fool enough to give his own name—C. Laker! Although that didn't matter much, as the description was enough to fix him. There he was, wallet and all, just as he had come from the Eastern Consolidated bank. He went straight from there to Palmer's, by the bye, and probably in a cab. We judge that by the time. He left the Eastern Consolidated bank at a quarter past one and was at Palmer's by twenty-five past—ten minutes. The clerk at Palmer's remembered the time, because he was anxious to get out to his lunch and kept looking at the clock, expecting another clerk in to relieve him. Laker didn't take much in the way of luggage, I fancy. We inquired carefully at the stations, and got the porters to remember the passengers for whom they had been carrying luggage, but none appeared to have had any dealings with our man. That, of course, is as one would expect. He'd take as little as possible with him and buy what he wanted on the way, or when he'd reached his hiding place. Of course, I wired to Calais it was a Dover-to-Calais route ticket, and sent a couple of men off by the 8.15 mail from Charing Cross. I expect we shall hear from them in the course of the day. I am being kept in London in view of something expected at headquarters, or I should have been off myself. (To be Continued.)

CAUTION

TO OUR PATRONS: Washburn-Crosby Co. wish to assure their many patrons that they will this year hold to their usual custom of milling STRICTLY OLD WHEAT until the new crop is fully cured. New wheat is now upon the market, and owing to the excessively dry weather many millers are of the opinion that it is already cured, and in proper condition for milling. Washburn-Crosby Co. will take no risks, and will allow the new wheat fully three months to mature before grinding.
