WILKES-BARRE.

[The Tribune has opened a branch office at No. 29, Lanning building, Public Square, Wilkes-Barre, for the transaction of business. The publishers propose to extend the circulation of The Tribune in Wilkes-Barre and the surrounding towns, and to that end will present a very complete department of Luzerne county news.
For success in this undertaking dependence is placed solely upon the superiority of The Tribune as a purveyor of all the news of the day—domestic, foreign, local, commercial and financial. The general interests of the people of Wilkes-Barre and the Wyoming valley will have in The Tribune an earnest advocate, editorially and otherwise. It is the purpose of the publishers to issue a newspaper as valuable to the general public as the metropolitan dailies, and deliver it to the people throughout northeastern Pennsylvania from three to five hours earlier than the Philadelphia and New York papers can reach them].

All the people of Luzerne county will be proud of the new court house when it is erected, and they will some day thank the present board of commissioners for what they are doing and propose to do. Just as soon as the question of location is settled we will put on our hustling clothes and push things. Before we go out of office this work will be pretty well along. We'll show you a court house by the side of which the Lackawanna building will look mean and insignificant."

"But what if the court does not approve of the plans?" was suggested. "Oh, the judges are going to approve them. They want a new court house just as much as we do, and will push the thing along; and I want to say right here that the local contractors are not going to be shut out of the competition for contracts on the new build-Ing. They will have a square deal and a chance to win."

The proceeds of the festival will go into the Home fund, and a help-

A Very Bad Street. Probably the worst street to travel over in the city of Wilkes-Barre is South Main, from South to Hanover streets. Years ago this street was family residence, 316 South street. paved with cobbles and it is now as thoroughly out of repair as it is possi ble for a street to be. The Traction company has double-tracked it much of the distance. This street is the natural thoroughfare between the Public Square, South Wilkes-Barre and Nanticoke, but it is almost entirely avoided Travel is divided to Franklin and River streets, which are paved with asphalt. South Main is, or ought to be business street, but below South there is much unimproved property which will remain unimproved until the street is properly paved. Several years ago an effort was made to induce the property owners to petition for asphalt, but without success. municipal authorities have not kept the cobble pave in repair, doubtless hoping that at some time in the future the property owners would see the advantage to themselves of modern paving. It is believed that if South Main street were paved in a very few years there would be active demand for lots along its entire distance for building purposes, and in many instances these ots would double in value. Wilkes-Barre is rapidly increasing in population and business must spread to eep pace with the population. South Main street is the natural business thoroughfare south of the Public Square. The first necessity to dray business in that direction is to cover the street with modern pave.

Contract Awarded.

The board of directors of the Wilkes Barre poor district is composed of busi-ness men who transact business in a ss-like way. Recently the board decided that an additional building had ecome a necessity to accommodate the of the district, and a structure to cost not exceeding $25,000 was deter-Wednesday the directors met to open the bids, and twelve contractors had put in their propositions, all of then ere local firms. THE MURDER TRIAL.

Establishing an Alibi for Robinson-Con victs as Witnesses.

A large part of yesterday's session of the court was consumed in establishing an alibi for Robinson, one of the alleged murderers of Barney Reick, who is not yet on trial. Hendricks, who is on trial, seems to have been lost sight of in the effort to establish alibis for the other three. Some more of the convicts were brought from the county jail yesterday and those who were put on the stand all testified that they knew Simpson was a detective when he was in the jail for the purpose of getting a confession from Hendricks. Among the convicts who testified was young Bowman, who is under sentence of death for the murder of an very talkative yesterday. Being asked Arabian peddler. Another Convention Here Wilkes-Barre is becoming a favorite place for the holding of conventions of all kinds. One of these gatherings, to be held in the near future, is the meet ing of the Grand Lodge of Ivorites of the United States. The lodge will convene on the 14th inst., and the sessions continued on the 15th and 16th. Delegates will be here from nearly all the larger cities, and many of the smaller ones throughout the United States. One of the interesting events will be the parade of Ivorite lodges on the 15th. In this parade the lodges from all the towns and cities in Luzerne and Lackawanna countles will participate. Wilkes-Barre lodge will be headed by the Ninth Regiment band. Jonathan

John C. Davis, the miner who was injured by a fall of coal in the Murray mines on Wednesday, died at his home in this city yesterday. A number of buildings in the valley were struck by lightning during the heavy thunder storm on Wedn lay evening, but no lives were lost and no serious damage done.

Gwennie Roberts, a child about 4 years of age, wandered from the home of her parents yesterday morning, and had not been found last night, but the police will doubtless find her.

Judging from the way some of the local newspapers discuss the Reick murder trial it might be inferred that in their opinion it is very wicked and irregular to employ detectives to hunt down murderers.

A team of horses, belonging to Nelso Lowry, of North Main street, ran away last evening about 7 o'clock. The horses started from Rendham, where Mr. Lowry was selling some pigs. He went into a house for the purpose of disposing of a few of them, and left the eam untied. They became frightened at some object and dashed down Main street at a mad rate. At the corner of Main and Grove streets they reached Mr. Lowry's home, where they stopped. The wagon to which the horses were attached contained a load of pigs.
