KUNKEL BILL IS KILLED

Lively Debate in the House Over the Measure.

MR. KUNKEL DEFENDS HIS BILL

Mr. Baldwin, of Delaware, Makes a Bitter Attack on the Bill, Which He Claims Would Invite Endless Legislation.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Harrisburg, May 14.—The revenue bill framed by the state tax conference passed finally today in the house. The vote was 147 to 14. This is the largest vote ever received by a revenue bill in the state legislature. Four years ago the Tazewell bill passed with 128 votes in the affirmative. Those who voted against the new revenue bill today were Representatives Kinkaid, Fow, Graham, Kearns, Little, Ludea, Mackrell, Patterson, James, Hevner, Saunders, Yare, Waxen, and Zehnder. All these represent city districts except Representatives Graham and Patterson.

The passage of the bill is a personal triumph for Chairman Kunkel, of the ways and means committee. He has given the measure much study and his exhaustive and comprehensive elucidation of its provisions in his speech last Thursday, when the bill was under consideration on second reading, gave his colleagues a clear idea of it and resolve many doubtful matters in its favor.

The Kunkel bill making a uniform policy of fire insurance was defeated after a long and exciting debate and then reconsidered and postponed for the present. The bill was taken up at the morning session on a special order for third reading and final passage.

Mr. Harrison, of Philadelphia, started the debate by moving to indefinitely postpone consideration of the measure. He objected to the bill because its title was not in harmony with the contents and claimed the measure was in the interests of the insurance companies and against the people. Mr. Harrison asserted that if the bill became a law he would never take out another policy of fire insurance.

Chairman Kunkel, of the insurance committee, defended the bill and appealed to the house to pass it out of committee, at whose suggestion he had offered it.

Mr. Baldwin's Objections. Mr. Baldwin, of Delaware, made a bitter attack upon the bill. He contended that under its provisions no one could take out a policy. It would invite endless litigation and was solely in the interest of the insurance companies. For this reason the member from Delaware thought the bill ought to be killed.

A lively dispute then arose between Mr. Baldwin and Chairman Kunkel. The former asserted he had inquired of Insurance Commissioner Lambert if he wanted the bill and that the commissioner replied that he knew nothing about it and did not want to be quoted as being in favor of it. Mr. Baldwin declared the insurance companies were the father of the bill. Chairman Kunkel reassured that the insurance commissioner had approved the measure.

Mr. Baldwin said the opponents of the bill had prepared forty-two amendments which they considered would make it fair and just and had submitted them to his friends, who had rejected them and declared it would be put through as it stood. The bill was then killed by a vote of 21 yeas to 122 nays. Soon after Mr. Harrison moved to reconsider the vote. This was a scheme to kill the bill effectually by preventing it from ever being called up and passed.

This brought Chairman Kunkel to his feet with an appeal to the house to give the bill a fair show. He charged Mr. Harrison with attempting to kill it. "To this the Philadelphia member replied: 'My purpose in making the motion is to kill this bill effectually. It is the most iniquitous measure ever attempted to be put upon the statute books and ought to be put down.'

Mr. Fow Defends the Bill. Mr. Fow, of Philadelphia, then took the floor in defense of the bill. He asserted with much earnestness that the insurance companies were against it, and that he had been informed by Captain Nesbitt, superintendent of the state arsenal, who was chairman of the insurance committee in the session of 1891-2, had told him that the bill was a good one, and that if it was not passed it would upset all the insurance policies in the state. Mr. Fow also claimed to have knowledge that the insurance department had approved the bill.

In reply, Mr. Baldwin, of Delaware, said Insurance Commissioner Lambert had informed him that he would have nothing to do with the measure, and would not allow himself to be mixed up with it. Kunkel then took a break at 11 o'clock. Mr. Harrison for his attempts to kill the bill. He characterized them as bushwhacking tactics, and renewed his appeal to the house not to adopt Harrison's motion. After Mr. Peltz, of Philadelphia, had spoken in favor of giving the bill another show the house voted down Harrison's motion, and adopted a motion to postpone for the present, thus bringing to the close one of the most exciting incidents of the session.

The bills to protect policy holders from fraudulent estimates, and in the rightful disposition of surplus of tonnage policies of life insurance companies, and to prevent the issue of policies of fire, life, accident, liability or marine insurance by natural persons, partnerships or other associations not incorporated were killed.

Senator Filina's street bills went through on special orders by comfortable majorities. One amends the act of 1891 so as to enable municipal corporations to lay out, open, widen, extend and vacate streets or alleys upon petition or without petition of property owners. The other empowers cities to grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve streets and alleys within their corporate limits without petition of property holders and providing for the payment of the costs, damages and expenses. The bills have passed the senate.

The bill increasing the salary of the adjutant general from $2,500 to $4,000 a year passed second reading on a special order and will be considered next Tuesday on third reading and final passage. The house held three sessions today. The order of business at the afternoon and evening sessions was the consideration of house bills on third reading. The members were in a mood to work, and a large number of measures were considered on this stage.

LINE FENCE TRAGEDY.

Wesley McCracken Kills His Neighbor, George M. Hawn.

Huntingtown, Pa., May 14.—Wesley McCracken, a prominent citizen of Onedia township, of this county, shot and instantly killed George M. Hawn, a neighbor, this morning.

McCracken had been at odds on the dividing line of fence between their properties, and one or the other had been moving the fence after night on the other's property. Last night McCracken and a party of friends heavily armed went to the scene and awaited developments. At about 1 o'clock this morning, Hawn and his party arrived to move the fence back again on McCracken's land, and when the work of removal was completed McCracken opened fire with a double-barreled shot-gun, hitting Hawn in the head and back, killing him instantly.

The coroner today investigated the shooting of Hawn. No direct evidence was presented as to who fired the fatal shot, but the jury charged the McCracken brothers with the killing. Wesley McCracken, on whose land the shooting took place, is in jail, but his brothers, Joe and Ellsworth, are hiding in the mountains. It is expected that they will soon be caught.

BAKER'S ASSAULTS.

Suspicion Rests Upon Three Left-Handed Negroes Residing in the Neighborhood.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 14.—Moore Baker is still confined to his home in Franklin Park by the injuries inflicted on him by some mysterious assailant on Saturday night. A physician's examination shows that Baker was struck from behind with some blunt weapon used by a strong man, for the wound is a severe one. Baker thinks that a black jack or sand bag was used. His other injuries seem to show that he fell forward over the dashboard of his wagon, finally falling to the ground. From the scratches on his face it is supposed his legs became entangled in the reins, and that he was dragged for a short distance.

Baker says that a short time before being attacked he passed a wagon going in the other direction, in which were George Thompson and Peter Baker, father and brother of the negroes he killed. They were also in the wagon. Baker and Thompson admit having passed Moore Baker on the road, but declare that they went right on to New Brunswick. The assailant on the farmer was a left-handed person, the wound beginning in such a position that it could not have been inflicted by a weapon in the right hand of a man to the rear of the victim. Both Baker and Howard Thompson, brother of the negro whose name Moore Baker killed, are left-handed.

Soon after the tragedy of March, 1894, the farmers and other residents of Franklin Park organized the Franklin Park Vigilance League. The avowed intention of driving the negroes from the village. The league held a number of meetings but never did anything besides passing motions and adopting resolutions. The assault upon Moore Baker has revived an intense feeling against the colored population of the Park, and there is talk of reorganizing the league and expelling the colored people.

MUST NOT WEAR BLOOMERS.

Ladies' Cycling Club of Tiffin, Ohio, Settles a Momentous Question.

Tiffin, Ohio, May 14.—At a meeting of the Ladies' Cycling club last evening the question of wearing bloomers was thoroughly discussed. This was made necessary by two of the members appearing in bloomer costume one evening when a "run" was called, and the rest refusing to ride with them. After a spirited discussion a vote was taken, which resulted in 7 to 6 in favor of skirts. When any rider goes out alone she can wear what she pleases, but when she appears with the club she must wear the regulation skirt.

FATHER SHOT BY A LOVER.

Outcome of a Rich Planter's Daughter's Elopement—The Groom Uses His Pistol.

Covington, Ga., May 14.—A tragedy of a notable character occurred near Newbern, in this county, yesterday afternoon. In Morcan county, just over the line from Newton, lives the family of the rich and aristocratic planter, J. T. Estes, whose daughter had a lover named Will Green. The family of the young lady objected to the marriage of the young people and they determined to take matters in their own hands.

Yesterday Green met Miss Estes by appointment, and the two proceeded in a buggy to the residence of Rev. Mr. Harwell, who was to perform the ceremony. Just as the couple were alighting from the buggy they saw Mr. Estes and his son coming rapidly toward them. Green quickly pulled a revolver and fired at Mr. Estes, the ball entering near the heart, killing the farmer instantly. Green then fired two shots at young Estes without effect.

Leaving her father dead in the road and shot to death by her lover, and her brother bending over the inanimate form, Miss Green fled to her father's lover to Broughtonville, where they married.

The sheriff of Newton county has received a telegram stating that a reward of $250 has been offered for the capture of Green.

The uninjured passengers and crew rushed to the assistance of those who were carried down in the wreck and soon had them out of the debris. A number of physicians hurried to the scene and did all in their power to assist the injured. Mr. Dawson showed the United Press correspondent a copy of the letter, which is as follows: Apostolic Delegation, U. S. A., Washington, D. C., May 13, 1895. Dear sir—I received some days ago your letter with which you sent me the protest of the Christian Endeavor societies against the attack made by the Rev. Father Phelan in his paper on the practices of that association. I regret exceedingly that a question of this kind should have arisen, but I am long and careful consideration of the whole matter I feel that it is one which belongs to the most Rev. Report of Grand Chief Ranger Kirk at Reading Meeting.

Reading, Pa., May 14.—The sixth annual session of the grand court of Pennsylvania Ancient Order of Foresters convened here today with twelve delegates in attendance. The convention will be in session until Friday. Mayor Shanahan delivered the address of welcome. Grand Chief Ranger

Kirk read a brief but favorable report.

He states that in May, 1894, there were 100 courts with a membership of 11,139. Since that date eleven courts were instituted and the membership now is 13,400, showing a net gain of ten courts and 1,261 members. Four junior courts were started and this branch of the order has now twenty-five courts and a membership of 900 boys. Mr. Kirk recommended that the per capita tax be reduced from 50 cents to 40 cents.

The membership and financial report Jan. 1, 1895, showed the following figures: Number of courts in this country, 1,127; members, 14,845; paid to grand court funeral fund, $43,315.78; funeral benefits paid by courts, $45,542.50; sick benefits, $400,459; benevolent and other expenses, $46,617.59; balance in all funds Jan. 1, $789,622.28. TRYING TO SCARE REED.

Nitro-Glycerine Found at the ex-Speaker's Doorstep.

Portland, Me., May 14.—This city is excited today over the discovery of evidence which leads the police and many citizens to believe that some crank planned to blow up the residences of Honorable Thomas B. Reed and Mayor Henry Baxter. While patrolling Deering street last night, near the Reed and Baxter houses, Policeman McCormick found at the doorstep an envelope containing three vials filled with a dark yellow fluid, and wrapped in cotton bawling. Finned inside the envelope was a slip of paper, which was some writing in an unknown tongue, resembling a combination of Greek and Armenian. There was nothing in English except: "M. Baxter, Rev. 123 A. O. U. I., 22, 25, M. Reed, Morris L. Morse."

It was first thought that the mysterious package had been placed on the walk by some joker, but when a druggist pronounced the fluid in the vials to be nitro-glycerine, police began to look at the matter seriously. When the discovery was reported to Mayor Baxter, he failed to see the joke, and at his request the entire police force began an investigation, which as yet has developed nothing.

Greek and Armenian residents of this city cannot fathom the peculiar language written on the paper found with the package, and there is no clue to indicate where it came from.

SIGNATURE BRINGS BRIDE.

Singular Result of an Autograph Thrown on a Cat Window.

Anderson, Ind., May 14.—While on the Knights of Pythias trip to Washington encampment last year, Thomas McCollough, deputy postmaster, refused a cigar, and the box, which was afterward mentioned, was thrown to him, and carelessly he wrote on the box with his pencil. It seems that he wrote his name and address, and at last threw the box out of the window.

He got a letter two weeks after he returned home, in which a young lady, stated that she found the box, saw his name on it, and thinking it a good chance to have some fun, wrote to him. The correspondence has been going on ever since, and the result is that he went to Mount Union, Pa., announcing that he would return with a bride. The romance has attracted a great deal of attention.
