$5 REWARD!

So many complaints of irregular delivery have reached us, which we have traced to stolen papers, that we now offer $5 reward for information that will lead to the conviction of any person caught stealing The Tribune from the doorsteps of regular subscribers.

CITY NOTES.

Today the city teachers, substitutes and janitors will be paid by Treasurer R. G. Brooks.

Miss Sullivan, soprano soloist at Elm Park church, will assist Reeves Jones at his recital on May 27.

The Presbytery of Lackawanna will hold an adjourned meeting in the Presbyterian church in Monroeton Thursday at 2 p. m., May 22, 1895.

A marriage license was granted by Clerk of the Courts Thomas yesterday to William L. Peck and May Goumar, of Tompkinsville.

Rev. M. Cameron, of Marcellus, N. Y., one of the leading men of the Presbyterian church in New York state, will occupy the pulpit of the Washburn Street church tomorrow morning and evening.

The county commissioners yesterday heard appeals from the assessments in the townships of Fell, Carbondale and Greenfield, and today will be devoted to hearing appeals from Glenburn, La Plume and Waverly.

The Tribune is indebted to M. Norton for a simple copy of the May Bookman, which, like its three preceding numbers, is a mine of valuable and entertaining information about books, authors and bookmen generally.

An auditing committee of councils will meet Monday night when the bills for lighting the city building and fire engine houses will be passed upon and some interesting exchange of opinion from the commission may be expected.

Michael Sturges, of Archbold, was brought to the Lackawanna hospital yesterday, having been injured in the mines by a fall of coal. His leg was found to be fractured, and after surgical treatment, he was reported to be resting comfortably last night.

The first regular meeting of the Good Citizens' league was held at the Young Men's Christian association rooms last night under the presidency of Samuel Hines, when considerable business was transacted in the section session. An adjourned meeting will be held on Friday night.

Henry Gardner, a young man 22 years of age from Moscow, was perambulating without a purpose through the alleys yesterday morning early and was run in by Patrolman Metzner. He could not give a satisfactory account of himself and was remanded to the county jail for thirty days.

M. P. Judge, of the South Side, was reported in yesterday's account in The Tribune of the proceedings of the Carbondale diocesan convention as the gentleman who introduced the resolution condemning the Smith garb bill. It should have read Mr. Jones, who was a delegate from a West Side temperance society.

The city Christian Endeavor committee arranging the details of the efforts being made to bring the state convention of 1895 to Scranton, is desirous of having several stanzas written to the air of "Banner of the Cross," No. 216 Gospel Hymns, No. 5 and 6 to be used as a rallying song at the convention held at Erie in 1895. The Christian Endeavorers of the city are urged to interest themselves in such com-

RECEPTION OF IVORITES

Held in the Rooms of Robert Morris Lodge, of West Side.

MANY BRIGHT SPEECHES MADE

Address of Welcome by E. E. Robathan. Responses by W. H. Hughes, of Utica, M. J. Jones, Poutney, Vt., and Editor B. F. Lewis.

In the handsome hall of Robert Morris lodge of Ivorites of the West Side last evening a social and reception was tendered to distinguished guests who were delegates and attendants to the Wilkes-Barre convention of the Ivorite order. About 100 men were present at the event, which, for genuine happiness of spirit, was unexcelled.

W. H. HUGHES, Worthy Grand President of Ivorites.

A song by an impromptu glee club, consisting of Will Reynolds, Ed. Owens, Eli Harris, Lewis Howell, Walter Jones and E. D. Owen. An encore was responded to. E. E. Robathan then made a graceful address of welcome, during which he paid a tribute to Editor E. T. Lewis, of the Utica Drych. Following Mr. Robathan's address, Richard Phillips gave a novel "bone shave," imitating the barber's actions as he, in imagination, scraped a gentleman's face with a pair of bones, to an accompaniment on the piano. Emerson D. Owen recited "The Death of Benedict Arnold."

Remarks by David Pritchard. David Pritchard then said a few words in a felicitous vein, after which Art Morse, an artist on the mandolin, played a selection, accompanied by Walter Davis. Mr. Morse's part of the programme was much appreciated. Eddie James' rendition of "Marriner's Flute" was sweet and received the proper applause. W. H. Hughes, of Utica, past grand master of the order, was presented by the chairman. Mr. Hughes was received with the applause of those present and, in a few words, thanked the lodge for the kindness shown. Mr. Hughes spoke only a few words, but what he did say was happy and appropriate.

Following in the course of his predecessor's remarks, Moses J. Jones, of Putnam, Vt., the next speaker, brought a loaded battery of wit to bear upon his hearers, and in referring to his self-judged unfamiliarity with the English language, Mr. Jones, on that ground, exchanged a longer speech. In part he said: "The little entertainment which we tendered your representative while in Vermont was only what a true Ivorite should do. I have been a member of the order for twenty years and belong to one of the wealthiest lodges in the order. I was very happy at the pleasant time that was given us at Wilkes-Barre and am confident that if at any time any of you come to Vermont, we will endeavor to entertain you as you have done to us tonight."

Editor Lewis' Remarks. In introducing that "grand old man" of the Ivorite order, B. F. Lewis, editor of the Utica Drych, the chairman referred to his excellent speech at the Wilkes-Barre convention which was presented in its entirety in The Tribune. Mr. Lewis said: "What seemed remarkable to me was the fact that Mr. Lewis came to this country when he had not yet learned the mother tongue; yet, he delivered that splendid speech at Wilkes-Barre in the English tongue. It shows us gentlemen, the possibilities within us."

M. J. JONES, Next Grand Treasurer of Ivorites.

echoed his great endeavor at our neighboring city. "Brothers and friends," he said, "I shall say but very little, but I am very happy to appear before you to express my gratitude in behalf of my friends and myself. You have called your lodge Robert Morris, and you have every reason to be proud of him whom you have thus honored. When Washington, with his hungry band of patriots, marched up the Hudson, famine and treachery had plowed through his ranks. The men were starving, and families were destitute. While in these sore straits, Washington sent a messenger to Robert Morris saying, 'For God's sake send me $50,000.' Morris was in bed when the appeal came. Never hesitating, he arose and made a tour of his financial friends and next day, in the afternoon, the commander in chief received the money.

Men for American League. "Morris, on his credit, contributed $1,500,000 to the cause of the revolution. I repeat, you have reason to be proud. We have an element in our nation to make good men, to form the best blood of a country. There is a time coming when the finest element in the American character will be drawn from Welsh blood and talent. I hope the day will come when we shall have an American language. England is a grand empire and I give it credit for all it has done, but, gentlemen, it is a British nation, not English. Already we are beginning to speak of the British language, and so, in time I hope that my descendants can talk in the American tongue."

In closing, Mr. Lewis asked that his name be taken out from the candidacy for the vice-presidency of the order, believing that he can do better out than in office. He thanked the papers for the kind attention shown to his speech and to him personally. After this talk the entertainment closed and a social time was enjoyed in the parlors.

FOR NATIONAL DELEGATES.

Many Lackawanna Republicans Speak in Favored Terms of the Representation Suggested in Yesterday's Tribune. The announcement in yesterday's Tribune that the name of William Connell, John T. Williams, of the West Side, Conrad Schroeder and Major Everett Warren were endeavoring to secure their consent to be candidates for selection as delegates and alternates from this district to the next Republican national convention, occasioned considerable talk among the politicians. A Tribune reporter endeavored to see the gentlemen in question, but Major Warren was in Pittsburgh in attendance at United States court, and Mr. Connell had gone for a short vacation to his summer home at Maplewood. From Mr. Schroeder and Mr. Williams, however, it was learned that both had been solicited by many eminent Republicans throughout the county to consent to the use of their names, and it was thought probable that both would yield assent.

Mr. Schroeder did not care to talk publicly, further than to say that he had been asked to be a candidate, and was giving the matter consideration. Mr. Williams said that while he was not seeking preferment at the party's hands, he would naturally esteem it a high honor to be chosen to represent the Republicans of Lackawanna county in the next national convention should they so desire; but he was content to let the selection rest with them. The general comment among Republicans was that no more representative a delegation could be sent from this district than the one just indicated.

CLOSING EVENT OF SEASON.

Shore Acres Will Be Seen at Academy Monday Night. It happens all too rarely that the theater-goer is offered an opportunity of witnessing so good a play as "Shore Acres." This beautiful drama of New England life, which our ablest literary men have idealized, was the outcome of a play of seven, and labor, and not until Mr. Herne had spent seven months of his life in daily intercourse with the characters he has drawn, did he think the play suitable for production. In Boston, where it ran for one hundred and thirty-eight consecutive nights, it was editorially commented upon by nearly every actor and literary paper. A costly presentation of "Shore Acres" is announced for the season-closing attraction at the Academy of Music on Monday evening.

Walton Coming to Scranton. Walton, the great Canadian horse dealer, is coming here with two carloads of the best horses ever offered in this market for sale. One car will contain work and business horses, the other will carry high class actors, trotters and pacers, and some extra fine combination saddlers. He will arrive about Wednesday next and stop at the Cusick stables on Washington avenue, where they can be seen, tried and driven by those intending to purchase. This is the man that sold sixty odd horses in a little over one hour at Utica, N. Y., something never before accomplished. Of course the fact that he handles Canada horses is what enables him to make such quick sales. He will sell them at public auction for what they will bring regardless of cost or valuation. When a horse enters the auction ring he must be sold at some price, win or lose, and that alone is what made his sales so successful whenever he sells. The Canada horse has a reputation for its superior strength and working qualities, as for its long living and healthy horses. Among the string will be some fast ones with records below 2:30. If you want a horse of any description wait for the Canada horses.

MURPHY'S SKULL CRUSHED

Hit by a Stone Thrown at Him by William M. Owens.

PROBABILITY OF HIS DEATH

Murphy and a Companion Were Forced to Leave Richard Owens' Hotel at Olyphant and William Followed Them and Threw a Cobblestone.

Locked in the cell next to "Murderer" Joseph Boschino, at the county jail, and in the same tier of cells in which the two other murderers, Franz Bezek and Joseph Rosa, are confined, is William M. Owens, of Olyphant, who, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, struck a young man named James Murphy, of Carbondale, with a stone on the head, causing a wound which is regarded as probably fatal. Murphy is at the hospital in Carbondale and his exact condition will not be known for a few days.

The affray happened in a field near the Ontario and Western depot, but within the limits of Dickson City borough. The wounded man is 23 years of age and has been employed as a stationary engineer at the Mayfield colliery of the Hillside Coal and Iron company. His home is near White Bridge in Carbondale.

Thursday night, accompanied by a companion named Thomas Hart, he came to this city and they spent their time until daylight here. Their purses being empty, they started to walk home yesterday morning, but when they reached the hotel kept by Richard Owens, in Olyphant, they went in and ordered a round of drinks at the bar.

William Owens was in charge. William M. Owens, the prisoner, is a young man of 25, and had a tear-stained face when approached in his cell at the jail by a Tribune reporter. He is slimly built and a very mild-mannered young fellow, possessing no characteristics of brutality, judging from his appearance. He was dressed in the prison garb and would make no statements at all. But from other sources the information has been obtained that he was taking care of the barroom for his brother, Richard, when Murphy and Hart entered.

Murphy caught up a white broom which was lying on the table and began to break over his clothes with it. The prisoner requested him to go outside or desist and he refused, whereupon Owens attempted to eject Murphy. The latter resisted and threw the broom at him. Owens came from behind the bar and they grappled with each other. At length Owens, realizing that he would be beaten, broke away and ran upstairs to his brother Richard's room. Richard immediately rushed out with a revolver and Murphy, who had followed the prisoner upstairs, retreated downstairs out of the house.

Owens Used a Stone. The prisoner chased him across the road into a field and picked up a big cobblestone, throwing it. Murphy was struck and he sank unconscious on the ground, the blood pouring from an ugly wound. Drs. Candler and Lloyd, of Olyphant, were summoned, and the wounded man was carried a short distance to the railway station. Dr. Crans was also summoned. The doctor found the skull compressed and large clots on the brain. The clots were removed and Murphy revived to consciousness. Dr. Crans bandaged the wound and Murphy was put on the 11:07 train and taken to Carbondale. He is very low at the hospital and the chances are one in a hundred in his favor.

The defendant surrendered himself to Constable Jesse Morris, of Olyphant, who brought him to the office of Justice of the Peace M. W. Cummings, on Railroad street, Olyphant, by whom he was committed without bail to the county jail. At emergency hospital the surgeons performed an operation yesterday afternoon, after which the patient rested easier.

FATAL CULM SLIDE.

Patrick Garrett Suffocated Within Sight of His Horrified Fellow-Workmen. At 4:30 yesterday afternoon an accident occurred at the Riverside breaker at Avoca, which resulted in the death of Patrick Garrett. A number of men were employed at the culm heap shoveled in this waste material into the elevators, when a slide of the culm occurred which embedded three of the workmen. Two of them were released without difficulty before they had sustained injury, but while releasing Garrett another slide occurred which completely buried him, and he was suffocated before anything could be done to release him. The body was afterwards dug out and removed to Mr. Garrett's home. He was 55 years of age and married.

broken in the cell. He broke the water pipe, and the water gushed out and spread over the floor, forming a pool three inches deep in the room where the prisoners were confined. Toner's wrath was not yet appeased; he endeavored to twist the iron grating on the cell door, but did not succeed. Patrolman Johler was acting desk sergeant, and he had to summon Captain Edwards and Sergeant Burke to assist him. The three of them had a hard task overwhelming the Samsonian prisoner, but they did and laid him on his back, hand-cuffing him to the door and chaining his feet to the rear of the cell. They left him that way until evening and he cried like a child when Sergeant Dieter went on duty. He made all manner of promises to be quiet and was as meek as a lamb. His wrists and ankles suffered from his efforts to break the manacles and chains that bound him.

Toner is a powerful fellow, six feet tall and weighs about 200 pounds. He was drunk and disorderly in Center street and was arrested by Patrolmen Sloat and Flaherty. This is about the fiftieth time he has been locked up. He peddles cheap jewelry for a living.
