STATE LEAGUE TROUBLE. Reading in a Fight With All the Other

Clubs. There is a crisis in the State league Manager Witman, of Reading, is prepared to take his club from the league, and President Hanlon, of the League, is negotiating for a new club in Read-

Manager Witman has prepared re leases for every member of the club, and will release them all immediately if a clash occurs. In this way he ex pects to outwit the managers of the league should they attempt to carry out their intentions of ousting him. After their release he will immediately re-sign them as members of the Eastern league in which he hopes to get a franchise. The trouble arises out of the payment of the guarantee money. Witman objects to Reading supporting the clubs in the smaller towns where the attendance and patronage is small, and re fuses to pay a percentage of the receipts or to receive anything but the fixed guarantee. It is understood that it is the intention of the managers of the State league to transfer the management of the club to James S. Roland, who will secure the Reading fair grounds for a ball field It is also their intention to hold the ball players under their contracts, and to turn them over to the new management. but this will be frustrated by Witman's that all of Witman's players will stick to him. If Witman does not enter the Eastern league he will play the club as an independent organization, as was successfully done in former years.
