SCRANTON, JUNE 4, 1895.

I have talked with many prominent Republicans on the subject. I find that it is attracting much attention, and that sentiment is strongly in favor of choosing national delegates at the county convention next fall...

No Occasion for Bloodshed.

The swelling indignation of the distinguished editor of the Philadelphia Press at Senator Quay for the part he took in the recent appointment battle would be more commendable if it were more clearly impersonal.

The Tribune fought for a fair appointment and would have been glad had the legislature fulfilled its obvious duty in this direction; but its failure has by no means soured its views of life nor filled it with the measure of alarm which can only be caused by the disruption of the present splendid Republican organization.

The constitution of Pennsylvania declares that the general assembly, at its first session after the adoption of this constitution and immediately after each United States decennial census, shall apportion the state into senatorial and representative districts.

An exchange in a timely article calls attention to the fact that trolley cars are not the only menace to pedestrians. Another danger appears in the increasing horde of bicycle riders, who, in many instances, seem to consider that the man on foot has no rights that they are bound to respect.

Who does not know Tody Hamilton, of Darlington? If there is such a man, let Charles Theodore Murray, who is traveling with Tody, on purpose to capture the pearls of philosophy which drop incessantly from his lips, perform the introductory duty by narrating some of Tody's characteristic observations.

It is a child born this day will never be able to see a joke that has not been pointed into his head with clubs. The world will have some difficulty in catching on to the subtle humor in David Hill's published opinions upon the currency question.

to society ladies might mean a good deal. In ordinary every day life living pictures are not considered as enterprises calculated to elevate one's taste for high art.

Relating to Base Ball.

It is our opinion that it will become the president of the Scranton Base Ball association to appear, as he does in a long statement published in another column, as the apologist or defender of rowdism on the ball field.

The story that President Cleveland has been sufficiently moved by a sense of gratitude to make overtures to ex-Secretary Whitney for a reconciliation is important if true.

Scranton's Fine Future.

After noting the fact that power generated at Niagara and electrically transmitted, will cost the initial charge of $15 per yearly horse-power, plus the cost of electrical apparatus for the utilization of the delivered current;

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

The recent war of words between Governor O'Ferrall, of Virginia, and Governor MacCordie, of West Virginia, has the Washington correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, brought to light a good story regarding the latter gentleman and ex-governor Job Taylor, of Tennessee.

TWO WAYS OF LOOKING AT IT.

Outgrown (enthusiastically)—Cilly, old man, you ought to move out to Lonelywood. Its peacefulness and quiet would make you live twice as long as you will.

DECISIONS BY JUDGE.

Altogether (glopping)—How much is this hornet, made of a single bow and feather? Grandpa—No, Willie, that's for you. Willie—Umph! What a little bit.

It is One Defect.

Scranton's most serious illness is its street car company. The Scranton Tribune asserts that the Traction can manage councils, but it can't handle crowds.

And now once more as mowers whet the whisks from the lawn, they'll rouse us from our slumbers at the dawning of the dawn. It raddens my poor heart to think what we should do for hay, if grass instead of growing up should grow the other way.

"Twill cover all the hills at morn and in the afternoon; Twill carpet plain and meadow, common, and the hills at morn and in the afternoon; In fact 'twill cover all the land not covered by the sea.

Major General Miles doesn't play nor approve of poker, but he once saw a memorable game and soldier-like, loves to run his yarn about it.

Representative Erdman, of the Berks-Lehigh congressional district, says he "favors the gold standard until bimetalism is established by international regulations."

The story that President Cleveland has been sufficiently moved by a sense of gratitude to make overtures to ex-Secretary Whitney for a reconciliation is important if true.

The Troy, N. Y., Times pronounces Pennsylvania's new compulsory education law "the most radical which has yet been framed."
