QUAY'S POWER AGAIN FELT

He Brings the New County Bill Out of Oblivion.

SUCCESS DUE TO HIS EFFORTS

Mr. Coyle Arouses the Junior Order of American Mechanics--Seyfert Believes that the Garb Bill Will Be Vetoed.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Harrisburg, June 6.—The passage of the Quoy county bill today in the house is another victory for Senator Quoy and his friends. The bill creating the proposed county never had a ghost of a show until the Beaver man turned in for it. About a month ago he indicated a desire to have the measure pass and his friends have since been active in their efforts to put it through the house. The fight for the measure was led by Senators Penrose, Thomas and Andrews, Representatives Keyser and Burrell and ex-Magistrate Durham of Philadelphia. The forces of the opposition were marshaled by Major "Sam" Loach, "Jack" Whitehouse, Senator Coyle and the Luzerne and Schuylkill delegations in the house. It was the hardest-fought battle of the session, and shows that Senator Quoy has a strong grip on the legislature. The representatives of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and other patriotic societies held the balance of power in the fifth on this measure. They took no part in the contest when the bill was on second reading. Since then Senator Coyle has gone out of his way to offend the patriotic societies by his actions and speech on the religious garb bill. The result was the members of the legislative committee of the Junior Order American Mechanics turned in for the bill and they claimed to have influenced twenty-five votes in its favor. Senator Coyle, more than any of the other opponents of the measure, is to blame for its defeat. Governor Hastings will not take up the religious garb bill before next week. Representative Seyfert, who fought the bill in every turn, professes to believe it will be vetoed. He said this morning he had been given reliable assurances that Governor Hastings will never approve the measure. He declined, however, to give his authority for his assertion. Representative Smith, of Philadelphia, has no doubt of the approval of the bill. He has filed with the governor the past week petitions representing over 40,000 voters urging the governor to allow the bill to pass. The members of the Protestant association have also petitioned the governor to sign the bill. Quoy County Assured. Quoy county is assured. The bill creating the new county passed finally today in the house by a vote of 106 to 69. This was the most stubbornly-contested bill of the session. The fight for the bill was led by Senators Andrews and Penrose and ex-Magistrate Durham. Pitted against them was Mayor Samuel Loach, "Jack" Whitehouse and other Republican leaders of Schuylkill county. The bill now goes to the governor. The bill creates the proposed county out of portions of Luzerne and Schuylkill counties. It was called up this morning by Mr. Jeffrey, of Luzerne. The house at once proceeded to vote on the bill. The roll call was as follows: When the roll call was complete it was shown that the friends of the new county movement had been beaten. The excitement was intense. They secured the committee rooms and retreated in the capitol for present moment. The result was a narrow vote. Mr. Strick of Bradford, changed his vote from nay to yea. The Schuylkill county members, who have fought the bill at every stage, protested against any member being allowed to change his vote. Mr. Weible, of Berks, and Mr. Ellis, of Lebanon, also changed their votes from nay to yea. This assured the passage of the bill and a scene of wild confusion ensued. The Schuylkill county members protested and several rose to a question of privilege. Speaker Walton refused to recognize them, and ruled that nothing was in order but the calling of the roll. Mr. Strick of Schuylkill, questioned the count. He said Mr. Smith, of Philadelphia, was recorded as having voted yea when he was not in the house when the roll was called. Speaker Walton replied that Chief Clerk Foster had not made a mistake this session in the roll call, and to satisfy the member from Schuylkill, he ordered the clerk to call the name of Mr. Smith. The Philadelphia member voted in the affirmative and explained that he was standing at the clerk's desk during the roll call and that he had voted yea when his name was called. Lexow Resolutions. A resolution was offered by Mr. Ritter, of Philadelphia, for a committee of eight members of the house to Lexow the public schools. The resolution is similar to that offered in the senate by Mr. Kennedy, of Allegheny, and adopted. Mr. Ritter was not so fortunate as the Allegheny senator, his resolution being overwhelmingly defeated after much debate. Mr. Merrick, of Tioga, said the senate had committed a monumental blunder in the adoption of the Kennedy resolution, and there was no reason why the house should copy after the bad legislation of that body. He claimed the resolution was offered simply for the purpose of a junket. Mr. Fow took the ground that neither branch of the legislature had the right to investigate that which is not before it. He contended that the resolution to "Penrose" Philadelphia was not legal, because the Bullitt bill was not before the senate. He was in favor, though, of meeting steel with steel, and urged the adoption of the resolution and let the courts determine its legality. Mr. Kephart, of Fayette, had inserted an amendment which provided that the committee should not consist of more than one member from Philadelphia and Allegheny. Mr. Seator, of Indiana, moved to amend so as to ascertain how many useless offices at the state capitol had been created and how many unnecessary officers are at the capitol and those that can be dispensed with. The amendment was adopted, after which the resolution was voted down. The entire morning session, which began an hour earlier than usual, was consumed in the consideration of this resolution and the wrangle over the Quoy county bill. The afternoon and evening sessions were devoted to the consideration of the calendar and third reading senate bills. State Pension Bill. The house passed on second reading the bill granting pensions to enlisted men from Pennsylvania who were in the service of the United States in the war of the rebellion between April 14, 1861, and May 1, 1865, who are not pensioners nor applicable therefor under the United States statutes. The bill directs the auditor general on proper application and under rules, regulations and restrictions such as he may prescribe under the laws of the state pension rolls any officer, soldier, sailor and marine qualified under this act. It provides further that such pension shall be granted to those whose services began before the time specified was at least six months. The rate shall be a monthly allowance of 1 cent per day for each day's actual service. In adjudicating pension claims the auditor general shall require proof that the claimant is free from intemperate habits. Payments shall be made semi-annually and shall cease when the pensioner moves out of the state or shall be pensioned by the United States. Bills Appropriating $5,000 to the German dispensary, Philadelphia; $15,000 to the German hospital Philadelphia, and $5,000 for a soldiers' monument at Antietam passed second reading. The bill regulating the issue and transfer of certificates of stock by companies incorporated under the laws of the commonwealth was reconsidered and passed finally. Bills to prevent the issue of policies of insurance by persons, partnerships or other associations not incorporated, and providing for the incorporation and regulation of laundry companies and companies for the purpose of packing and disposing of grapes and manufacturing unf fermented grape juice were indefinitely postponed. Evils of Session of Senate. At the evening session of the senate the revenue bill was reported from the finance committee by Senator Grady, read a second time and then recommitted for the purpose of a further hearing tomorrow morning. Representative Harrison offered a resolution providing that the committee to investigate the public schools be authorized to also investigate the state normal schools, and also providing for the appointment of two additional members of the senate to serve on the committee. This was agreed to and Messrs. Woods and Landis were appointed. The conference committee report on the judicial apportionment bill was agreed to. The report of the committee to investigate the Norristown asylum was made a special order for tomorrow morning, and the senate then adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AWFUL WORK OF A FIEND

Most Terrible Story of Wife-Beating on Record.

MRS. JENNIE KING IS DYING

Rapidly Sinking from the Effects of a Beating Given by Her Drunken Husband--The Murderer Arrested.

Asbury Park, N. J., June 6.—A horrible story of wife beating and probable murder was brought to light in Asbury Park today. The victim, Mrs. Jennie King, lies in a critical condition at the Hotel Gladstone, on Second avenue. The wife beater, protected by the woman whom he has probably killed, left Asbury Park yesterday morning for his home in Bordentown, N. J., but is now being held by a night carousal, returned home very much under the influence of liquor and violently out of humor. After a tirade of abuse King caught his wife by the throat and choked her. The woman only escaped seventy pointers. King picked her up with both hands, raised her fragile body over his head, and flung her with tremendous force on the dining room floor. May King, a 16-year-old daughter, who had been in the room with her mother and the noise of the falling body, begged her infuriated father to desist and not kill her mother. With an oath King's uplifted fist landed square in his daughter's face. She fell to the floor, but King did not stop. He turned to the youngest child, cried pitifully and asked her father to stop. King hit the child in the back with his doubled fist. The child fell flat and moaned with pain. King then returned to his wife, who had crawled to the floor on her hands. He began to kick and beat the prostrate woman, regardless of consequences. The cries of the women, meantime, attracted the neighbors, who had gathered about the door. Fortunately unlocked and the brute was quickly forced from his victim. Physician's Opinion. A messenger was at once despatched for a physician and Mrs. King was carried to her room. The doctor, after a long examination, felt confident that the woman would die. He believed her spine was dislocated, but as some doubt existed about the actual extent of the injury to the spine, King's arrest was deferred at the earnest solicitation of his wife, who refused to make a complaint against him. Still intoxicated the wife-beater took an early train for his home in Bordentown. The physician visited his patient late in the afternoon. A change for the worse had taken place and it was apparent she could not live. The doctor at once notified the coroner. The coroner called at the Gladstone, prepared to take King's arrestment statement. The woman was evidently in close touch with death, yet she refused to believe her end was near. Mrs. King tried in every way to protect the absent assailant and did everything in her power to shield him. Dr. Coleman believes Mrs. King will die tonight. The injured woman is said to be highly connected, being related to the Morgans, of New York, and the Mannings, of Trenton. King was arrested this week before arrested for beating his wife, who stood by him with wifely devotion through long years of abuse. At 3:30 p. m. Mrs. King, though still alive, was rapidly sinking. King was arrested this afternoon and locked up in the Bordentown jail.

FLORENCE AGAIN SHAKY

Italy's Art City Is the Earthquake's Objective Point.

INHABITANTS ARE IN TERROR

The Houses Swayed to and Fro--Whole Families Rush Panic-Stricken Into the Streets and Refuse to Return to Their Homes.

Florence, June 6.—There was a sharp earthquake shock here at 1:36 o'clock this morning, followed by a succession of disturbance, shock following shock in rapid succession. The people became panic-stricken and rushed to the streets, where they remained until daybreak, greatly alarmed. Although it is not believed that any serious damage was done, the inhabitants, who followed recovered from the panic which followed the heavy earthquake of Saturday, May 15, were, even after daybreak, with difficulty persuaded to return to their homes. The greatest excitement prevailed in the streets, whole families remaining huddled together guarding their most valuable possessions, which they had carried with them in their flight from their homes. Many persons fell on their knees in the middle of the streets and prayed, while others rushed about and thus added to the panic. The entire police force of the city promptly turned out, and the authorities did everything possible to allay the alarm. So far as known the shocks were only severe enough to shake down movable articles from shelves, sideboards, etc., although there was considerable swaying of houses, particularly in certain districts of the city which seem to have been more severely felt than in others. The guests of the different hotels seem to have been least alarmed. Although they were aroused from their beds by the earthquake shocks, the majority of them retained their presence of mind, and beyond looking to the safety of their valuables, in case of having to leave the hotels suddenly, no great excitement prevailed among them. It is feared, however, that this second earthquake visitation within so short a period will have the effect of driving many persons from the city who would otherwise have remained. And it will undoubtedly prevent many travelers from visiting Florence this season. As it is, many persons have left the city.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 6.—At the afternoon session of the Prohibition convention the report of the committee on finance was read and it showed a balance of $37.50 on hand. An appeal was made for funds to carry on the cause of Prohibition in Pennsylvania. The platform adopted declared unequivocally for Prohibition and the suppression of the liquor traffic; government ownership of railroad, telegraph and telephone companies, and woman's suffrage. On the silver question a majority report favored free coinage, while the minority opposed it. W. H. Berry was nominated for state treasurer. Mr. Berry intimated that there was not much of a platform for him to stand on, principally on account of the division on the silver question. The convention voted in favor of an eight-hour working day. Silver Convention. Memphis, June 6.—At a meeting this evening of the executive and extension committee in charge of the arrangements and general management of the silver convention the following were announced as speakers at the conference: Congressman Joseph C. School directors of Kansas City, Kan., refuse to allow Catholics to teach in the public schools. During a thunderstorm at Delaware, O., Miss Lukenbill, a telephone operator, was badly shocked. The bill to punish first degree arson with forty years in prison was signed by Governor Morton, of New York.

DEAD IN FORTY-ONE MINUTES

John Eisenminger, the Third Man Hung in Greene County, Pays the Penalty of His Crime.

Waynesburg, Pa., June 6.—John Eisenminger, the third man to be hanged in Greene county, was executed this afternoon. The trap was sprung at 1:24, and in eleven minutes his pulse ceased. The doctors pronounced him dead at forty-one minutes from the time he fell. The execution was witnessed by about 300 people, among those present being Mrs. McCoy, the widow of Eisenminger's victim. She called to see him this afternoon and an affecting scene followed. She had received the young man's letter expressing repentance and asking her forgiveness, and she came to tell him that she did forgive him. The morning was spent in prayer and leave taking. The parting from the young wife almost unwept Eisenminger, and he was terribly weak after this ordeal. After this his spiritual advisers spent several hours with him, leaving the prisoner much refreshed and rather calmly awaiting his end. It was 1:15 o'clock when Eisenminger marched up the gallows' steps between Sheriff Kent, and the latter's son, Percy, who acted as deputy. Tears were rolling down Eisenminger's cheeks and he was somewhat nervous. Rev. Stevenson, who had baptized him, read the Scriptures, and there was a prayer by Rev. McKain. Eisenminger repeated the Lord's prayer in a firm tone, that a sob now and then broke. When Sheriff Kent asked what he had to say, he replied: "There is nothing else that I can say than that my confession is entirely correct. I wish to state positively that there was not any one connected with me, but me, I hope you will forgive me. The black cap was then adjusted, and then Sheriff Kent, with a fervent "God bless you" sprang the trap. Eisenminger struggled slightly. In a brief space his body swung limp and motionless. For his neck was broken. John McCoy, a brother of the murdered man, was another who witnessed the execution. The body was then removed from the gallows and taken charge of by the dead man's relatives.

London, June 6.—A special dispatch received here from Rome announces that Count Ferrara, formerly under secretary of state for foreign affairs, has been mortally wounded by Socialists at Milan today.

The count, it appears, was insulted at the door of his residence, at Rimini, not far from his neck was broken. John McCoy, a brother of the murdered man, was another who witnessed the execution. The body was then removed from the gallows and taken charge of by the dead man's relatives.
