NOTHING FOR MR. CHILTON

His Wife Recovered Damages but He Is Not so Fortunate. VERDICT IN TURNPIKE CASE It Will Be Brought Into Court by the Jurors This Morning—Law Point Reserved for Argument—Other Cases That Were on Trial Yesterday.

To the great surprise of those who had not closely watched the trial of Joseph Chilton against the city of Carbondale a verdict was yesterday returned in favor of the defendant. As Mrs. Chilton had obtained a verdict of $1,000 for the injuries complained of, it was considered a foregone conclusion that her husband would be entitled to recover something for the loss of her services. On the trial of this action, however, the city of Carbondale succeeded in introducing testimony to the effect that the internal troubles which Mrs. Chilton alleges were the result of the fall, she sustained had ante-dated the accident by many years. It was on this showing that the jury found for the defendant.

Turnpike Company Against City. After the Chilton case went to the jury the action of the Providence and Abington Turnpike company against the city of Scranton was called for trial before Judge McPherson. Attorney H. W. Palmer, of Wilkes-Barre, and Attorneys W. W. Watson and I. H. Burns appeared for the company, which was represented by its president, H. E. Paine. Attorney S. B. Price represented the city.

The action is for the purpose of recovering from the city $3,712 which the company expended in repairing a portion of the road that the city had agreed to keep in repair. This company's turnpike runs from Providence Square to Waverly. That portion of the road within the city limits was free from toll rates, but in 1888, in order to toll from toll from all those who were using the thoroughfare the company established a toll gate at Cusick's hotel on West Market street, seven blocks west of the square.

City Builds a Rival Road. After this action on the part of the company the city opened Oak street, which enabled wagons to get down from the vicinity of the North to the city without using the turnpike. The road was somewhat unsafe and Farmer James Decker and his load of hay went over the side of it one day and the city had to pay $500 damage in consequence. After Oak street was opened the Turnpike company moved its toll gate down to Winton's, near the square, and then there was the loudest kind of a demand that it be abolished. Finally an agreement was entered into by which the company removed its toll gates from the city and the latter agreed to keep the road in repair from the square to the Leggett's Creek bridge. The first year the city expended $1,500 on the road and then it was allowed to run down, nothing being done to repair it.

Repaired by the Company. After requesting the city to make the necessary repairs, and receiving no response, the company proceeded to fix up the road and charged the cost thereof to the city. Upon the payment of the bill being refused suit was brought to recover $3,712, the amount claimed with interest. The claim was resisted yesterday on the ground that the amount charged is exorbitant, and for the further reason that the city had no authority or power to enter into such a contract with the Turnpike Company. The latter point was reserved from the jury and will be argued before Judge McPherson this morning. The question of the amount due the Turnpike company was submitted to the jury at 4.15, and an hour later it agreed upon its verdict and ruled it. Whether or not the verdict will be allowed to stand is dependent upon the ruling of the court on this reserved point.

Other Cases on Trial. The Gumaer-Barber case continued on trial all day before Judge Edwards. After the defendant rested evidence in rebuttal was offered. Attorney H. H. Hannah made the argument to the jury for the defendant, and Attorney George M. Watson for the plaintiff. This morning Judge Edwards will deliver his charge to the jury. Before Judge Archbald the suit of Lazarus Moyer against Harry Richardson was on trial all day. The defense was that Richardson never authorized Moyer to become security to pay money to Richardson's mother. Arguments to the jury have been completed, and Judge Archbald will deliver his charge this morning.

DIAMONDS! DIAMONDS!! Precious Bits of Elegance at Exceedingly Low Prices. Mr. Olof Turnquest, the Washington avenue jeweler, has purchased the largest stock of diamonds ever brought to the city, and will sell them at exceedingly low prices. Spot cash was paid for these brilliant gems, and the marvelous amount received enables him to sell them cheaper than other dealers can buy. Special precaution was also taken in selecting these diamonds, and they are guaranteed pure and free from flaws. Call and examine.

To make her words more emphatic she hit him in the face with her hand and then pushed him out the house with a broom. He had a warrant issued for her arrest and Alderman Roberts held her in jail.

The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games and dancing, and before their departure the young ladies served their gentlemen friends with refreshments, which they had furnished. Many Scrantonians Seeking Rest and Recreation in Europe. WHO SOME OF VOYAGERS ARE Itinerary Prepared by Judge Edwards for His Trip Across the Atlantic—Those Who Have Gone to Princeton. To Visit the Pot Hole.

Among the Scrantonians who will this summer seek recreation and a change of scene by a trip across the Atlantic are Judge and Mrs. H. M. Edwards and Franklin Howell, who will sail on July 13 on the Lucania, to be gone for two months. Mrs. William Connell and several members of her family also expect to be passengers on the same ocean grehound. Judge and Mrs. Edwards will land at Liverpool and proceed direct to South Wales, where Judge Edwards has been invited to preside over several of the sessions of the national eisteddfod of Wales, which will begin at Llanelly on July 30 and continue in session for four days. The city of Llanelly has 50,000 inhabitants and the building in which the sessions of the eisteddfod will be held is capable of accommodating 20,000 persons. Even with that tremendous capacity it is feared that the building will not be large enough, as the eisteddfod attracts crowds from all parts of Wales and England. Twelve of the best large choirs of England and Wales will compete for the principal prize. From Llanelly the Scrantonians will proceed direct to North Wales and spend some time admiring the beauty with which nature has so prolifically endowed famed Snowdon and its vicinity. From there the judge and party will journey to London, which they will make their headquarters during the remainder of their stay in England, making excursions to Oxford and Cambridge universities, the home of Shakespeare, and to Birmingham and Sheffield, the great industrial centers. The judge and other points on the continent will next claim the attention of the tourists and if sufficient time remains they will also journey through Ireland and Scotland. In London it is the intention of Judge Edwards to spend some time in examining the courts of justice with a view to comparing the English with the American system. He has received a number of invitations from leading judges and solicitors of London asking him to be their guest during at least a portion of his stay in the English metropolis.

Dr. E. Grever will attend the twenty-first anniversary of the class of '74, of which he is a member at the University of Pennsylvania, June 10 and 11. The doctors of this class were the first to take the alumni supper in the new medical hall of the University of Pennsylvania twenty-one years ago. The doctors are also invited to take part in the exercises of the graduating class on Tuesday, June 11.
