SCRANTON, JUNE 12, 1895.

"We ought to realize by this time that we should not do our work nor make our money in Europe. Let us place what options we have with our own capitalists, and our orders with our own manufacturers, who, in the past, have been always abundantly able to meet every need and demand of the government and of the people."

The Cleveland Convention.

As the opening day of the Cleveland convention of the Republican National League draws near, it becomes increasingly evident that that occasion will be a red letter event in the history of reasserted Republicanism, and a signally appropriate introduction to the more serious responsibilities of next year's presidential campaign.

For the entertainment of the throng of visitors who will come to Cleveland, the general committee will spend $15,000. Every accommodation, every convenience and every pleasure that money can procure will be extended to the city's guests. The gates of the city will be thrown open and everybody accepting the free, open-handed hospitality of the citizens will find themselves entertained as they never have before.

Interesting Letters of Travel.

On or about July 1, J. E. Richmond, of Honesdale, whose series of letters on ancient Quebec formed so popular a feature of the Saturday Tribune several months ago, will, with Mrs. Richmond, begin a transcontinental tour of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska.

Robert P. Porter, in the Cleveland World, thus extols the merits of the Republican league movement:

"The Republican league clubs are the working forces of the Republican party. They are the foundation of much of its strength because the clubs, as a rule, are controlled by clean, bright, disinterested citizens who are Republicans in principle and not for office. They are a fact, the solid faithful yeomen of the party, the men who may be counted on by all emergencies."

The Indianapolis Journal is printed at General Harrison's home, owned by a man whom the general once made consul general to London and formerly edited by the general's private secretary.

The contrast between the clean and mainly unimpregnated of Mr. Gaffney and the misfit work of the fractious individual, Hurst, was distinctly noticeable at yesterday's unpleasantness. It might be worth the while of local enthusiasts to raise a fund to employ Hurst not to unprint in Scranton.

Editor Kohlsaat assures the public that under his management the consolidated Chicago Times-Herald is jumping ahead at the true Chicago gait. Well, it deserves to. Give a good public a good thing, and it will do the pushing along. The Chicago Times-Herald is the best newspaper, with one exception, printed in the world. That exception is the New York Sun. Modesty forbids us to name any other.

There appears to be a pretty general agreement upon the silver question. These are ex-Judge Howard J. Reeder, of Eastern, and Judge John J. Wickham, of Western. The chances are that the other four Republican judges will line up something after the following order: E. N. Willard, Lackawanna; Thomas H. Murray, Clearfield; John Stewart, Franklin; and George H. Orland, Huntington.

Luzerne's Troubles.

Luzerne county is threatened with a scandal of large proportions. Once before in her history corruption crept into some of the court house offices and a tremendous upheaval followed, landing county commissioners and county auditors in jail. The effect of that experience was in the highest degree wholesome. For years honesty prevailed in nearly all the county offices of Luzerne. During the past two or three years there has been a suspicion that all was not right in the commissioner's office, but there was no tangible evidence of crookedness.

At this stage the action of the commissioners became so peculiar as to attract attention and even to arouse suspicion. There are a number of expert architects in the Wyoming valley whose work has given them more than local fame. The county commissioners ignored these architects, and, after a junket about the country, quietly entered into a contract with a Michigan architect named Meyers to furnish plans for a new court house.

With apologies to the Washington Post, we are inclined to think that the hog in politics is often the architect of his own disappointments. To a good many Republicans, the old presidential ticket, Harrison and Morton, would be about the proper thing for 1896.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Thomas H. Murray, of Clearfield, is a candidate for appointment to the new superior court bench, and has what are possibly the strongest recommendations that have been presented to the governor. Of the thirty Republican lawyers in Clearfield county, twenty-three have signed a petition to Governor Hastings, as have also twenty Democrats, among the latter being ex-United States Senator W. A. Wallace, Assistant United States Treasurer W. D. Bigler and ex-Judge David L. Kirby. Senators Cameron and Quay and Congressman Hurt, W. A. Stone, C. W. Stone, Hicks and Hopkins, and Senators Arnold, McQuinn, Andrews, Becker, J. G. Stillel, Lemon, Woods, Haskensberger, Grubb and McCullough and Representatives Ames and Patchin and nineteen other members of the house have written to the governor in his behalf.

Christopher L. Magee's paper, the Pittsburg Times, takes this view of the legislature's work: "While a sufficient number of members of the legislature surmised to bad guidance on the question of apportionment to defeat the bills which every respectable consideration demands should be passed, the session which has just closed has been productive of an unusual number of important and excellent measures. The passage of the long-contested compulsory education act, so that every child in Pennsylvania will have the schooling which ought to be part of the making of citizens is to be trusted with the right of suffrage, is the appropriate sequel to the free text-book law of two years ago. It is enough of itself, if this legislature had done nothing else, to entitle it to remembrance. Its good effects will go on increasing year after year, while the small matters of controversy which have furnished subjects for sensational newspaper articles will be forgotten quickly, as they deserve to be."

Robert P. Porter, in the Cleveland World, thus extols the merits of the Republican league movement: "The Republican league clubs are the working forces of the Republican party. They are the foundation of much of its strength because the clubs, as a rule, are controlled by clean, bright, disinterested citizens who are Republicans in principle and not for office. They are a fact, the solid faithful yeomen of the party, the men who may be counted on by all emergencies."

The Indianapolis Journal is printed at General Harrison's home, owned by a man whom the general once made consul general to London and formerly edited by the general's private secretary; but it is hardly fair to the expert to hold him responsible for all the Journal's present editorial utterances. General Harrison, if he were invested with that responsibility, would probably at times use the blue pencil very vigorously on the Journal's fourth page.

The contrast between the clean and mainly unimpregnated of Mr. Gaffney and the misfit work of the fractious individual, Hurst, was distinctly noticeable at yesterday's unpleasantness. It might be worth the while of local enthusiasts to raise a fund to employ Hurst not to unprint in Scranton.

There appears to be a pretty general agreement upon the silver question. These are ex-Judge Howard J. Reeder, of Eastern, and Judge John J. Wickham, of Western. The chances are that the other four Republican judges will line up something after the following order: E. N. Willard, Lackawanna; Thomas H. Murray, Clearfield; John Stewart, Franklin; and George H. Orland, Huntington.

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin is friendly to Senator Quay, says: "The startling news of the silver question, that the Hon. B. Frank Dickson wants to resign the chairmanship of the senate committee, and that he intends to make a fight for it. The probability is that he will have to let it go." "Is this a straw?"

A Topeka paper has made a canvass of the Republican papers of Kansas to ascertain the sentiment upon the silver question, with this result: Out of 102 papers seven are for free and unlimited coinage of silver at 16 to 1, while eighty-five stand upon the money plank in the last Republican national platform.

It is said that the Republican leaders of the state are planning to call a convention or any other national convention of the Republican party in favor of free coinage of silver. It will be held in some kind of a declaration in favor of silver.

Judge Rice's indictment for a place on the superior court bench includes Luzerne, Columbia, Monroe and Bradford counties. When his name is presented to Governor Hurst, it will be backed by a petition containing ten thousand names.

Chauncey M. Dewey says: "I am not a candidate for anything."

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

The story of General Gresham's first entry into the political arena during the early part of General Grant's first term as an Indiana Republican was at the White House when the president inquired: "Is there a man in your state by the name of Gresham, who was in the army?" "Yes," was the reply. "I remember him very well," said the president, adding, with a slight inclination: "He can have anything I can give him." A few days afterward a telegram was sent to Gresham by President Grant, asking him to be would accept the United States district judgeship, the president having learned meantime that Gresham was a good lawyer. Not a soul recommended the appointment.

THE SUMMER GIRL: When tenderer zephyrs breathe soft o'er the plain, When frost-tinged verdure takes courage again, The work-a-day season, the bustle and whirl, Give way to our dreams of the sweet summer girl.

THE SUMMER GIRL.

And a query arises: "What will she be like? Will she travel in bloomers and ride on a bike? Will she put on man's collars, his neckties and his coats, not to mention the rest?" They say you are fickle; perhaps it is true, But in this we are certain, oh, fair one, of you: With beauty you will greet us, a sweep and a smile, Of beauty and loveliness, the same summer girl.

Eddie Valk is given as authority for the following story which is now going the rounds: "A Hebrew merchant failed, and promptly summoned his creditors, whom he gathered into a room. 'Gentlemen,' he said, 'every dollar I owe in the world is to you. I have gathered you here with the hope of arriving at an understanding. I can't pay you a dollar; I haven't a penny in the world. But, gentlemen, to satisfy you, I am willing to cut myself into twenty-five pieces and give each man a piece.' 'Cut away,' said an Irishman from the corner, 'and be sure to give me your nerve.'" —Dan Hart, in the Wilkes-Barre Leader.

FISHING.

Oh, you who have been fishing will indorse me when I say That it always is the biggest fish you catch that gets away. 'Tis even so in other things—yes, in our own greedy eyes. The biggest boon is some elusive never-captured prize; We angle for the honors and the sweets of human life, Like fishermen, we brave the seas that roll in endless strife; And then at last, when all is done, and we are spent and gray, We own the biggest fish we've caught are those that got away.

Dave Boone says he went into a restaurant in New Orleans and ordered poached eggs on toast. The waiter brought. What was his horror to hear the waiter give the following order: "Adam and Eve on a raft. Wreck 'em." The "Trilly" craze, however, soon has its story over. A man recently went into a restaurant and ordered pie's feet with mashed potatoes. Imagine his surprise to hear the waiter shout: "Trilly for the pie's feet!" —Dan Hart, in Wilkes-Barre Leader.

NO DOUBT.

Mrs. Newlywed—"Oh, John, the baby has swallowed the tape measure, and I'm sure he's dying." Mr. Newlywed—"Lying by inches, I suppose." —Philadelphia Record.

MOTHERS OF GREAT MEN.

Chopin's mother was as delicate as himself. Gounod's mother was fond of painting and music. Chopin's mother was an excellent judge of music, but no musician. Handel said that he owed all his politeness of deportment to his mother. Milton's letters often alluded to his mother in the most affectionate terms. Wordsworth's mother had a character as peculiar as that of her gifted son. Mahomet revered his mother and inculcated similar reverence in his teachings. Sydney Smith's mother was a very conversationalist and very quick at repartee. Von Ranke's mother was literary and the author of several essays and other works.

That Wonderful Weber Pianos

Haydn dedicated one of his most important instrumental compositions to his mother. The mother of Lord Cornwallis did not at first favor the idea of a military career for her son. One of the few redeeming traits in the character of Henry VIII was his respect for his mother. Gibbon's mother was passionately fond of reading and encouraged her son to follow her example. Mozart's mother was a delicate, spirituelle creature, who, it is said, seemed more soul than body. Coleridge revered his mother. He once said: "A mother is a mother still, the holiest thing alive." Koebuck said that the sweetest part of his life was his early childhood. "Heaven is at the feet of a mother." It is said that the mother of Charles Darwin had a decided taste for all branches of natural history. Weber, the musical composer, had a musical mother, who found pleasure in the gems of classical music.

TOLD BY THE STARS.

Daily Horoscope Drawn by Ajaobus, The Tribune Astrologer. Astrological cast: 2.31 a. m. for Wednesday, June 12, 1895.

With moon phase 11.4 p. m. To a child born on this day it will be apparent that if mashing, bathing and the bringing of deadly weapons are no longer allowed at May Day park, the place will soon lose its attractions for all former patrons.

Oh, Mr. Barnet! one and all. We'll stand by thee at games of ball. Through thick and thin, from last to first, but deliver us from Timothy Hurst.

Aljoehns' Advice.

To the sweet girl-graduate or otherwise: Remember that ice cream is very unhealthy at this season of the year. To the grand stand enthusiast: Open not thy mouth at Mr. Hurst. Lost the little man with rage doth burst And "have yous all put out."
