THE WORLD OF BUSINESS

STOCKS AND BONDS.

New York, June 13.—The stock market opened with few traces of yesterday's weakness. In fact there was a scramble to cover short contracts on indications that the supreme court of Illinois had declared the whiskey trust illegal, and in their eagerness to cover the bears bid up prices on themselves. The railway issues were all higher on an improved demand for foreign account. Distillers not only lagged, but receded to 18 1/2. Subsequently Chicago Gas sold off 7/4, and the other prominent issues lost about 1/4 to 1/2 per cent. The weakness was short lived, however, and before midday the whole market was on the advance once more. This time the anthracite coalers were in the lead and on reiterated statements that the Delaware and Hudson will dictate the policy of the Susquehanna and Western in the future, this group of stocks advanced 3/4 to 2 1/2 per cent. Distillers was firmer near the close, the official announcement that the Illinois supreme court had today handed down its decision in the quo warranto case having led to buying to cover by operators who had sold on the theory that the courts would finally decide against the legality of the company. It is probably worth of mention that the decision rendered today appeared to satisfy both the reorganization company and the Greenhut party. At the close the market was strong in tone with net advances of anywhere from 1/4 to 2 1/2 per cent. Total sales were 348,474 shares including 49,099 sugar and 41,100 Chicago Gas. The range of today's prices for the active stock of the New York stock market are given below. The quotations are furnished The Tribune by G. du H. Dimick, manager for William Linn, Allen & Co., stock brokers, 412 Spruce street, Scranton.

A MAN DOOMED TO DIE.

Saved at the Last Hour—A Revolve Granted by Dr. E. B. Smith and Staff at 312 Wyoming Avenue—The Most Powerful Magnetic Physiological Living.

Mr. A. S. Berry, an old resident of Scranton, now residing on East Market street, has been a confirmed invalid for the past nine years. Before entering into a detailed account of his suffering, he desires to state that those physicians who have been practicing for the past quarter of a century or more will remember that in former days when a physician was in doubt of the nature of the patient's case it was customary to call it LIVER COMPLAINT, but in Mr. Berry's case there was a genuine affection of the liver. He formerly resided in Saginaw, Michigan. It was at a time when people suffered from fever and ague all throughout that section of the country to such an extent that they would literally shake their joints loose. Everyone suffered from malaria and it was at this time Mr. Berry contracted malaria, which brought on chronic CONGESTION OF THE LIVER. At the time when he consulted Dr. E. B. Smith and staff some six weeks ago and commenced treatment Mr. Berry's countenance had the appearance of an old parchment; he had wasted to a mere skeleton; his skin was dry and harsh. The muscles of his arms and legs had nearly perished, while the liver alone was the source of his pain. He complained from soreness and great tenderness and suffered from obstructed constipation. When his bowels did move the stools were light or clay colored and his urine was loaded with bile. Two or three hours after eating the pain in the right side increased in violence until it became almost unbearable. The pain extended from the region of the liver to the back and radiated to the shoulder blades. Whenever the stomach became empty he would experience a gnawing, burning, or a deathly sinking sensation, everything he ate produced such a result that he was literally starving himself to death. When he takes into consideration that all fats and oils are digested in the duodenum and by a flow of pancreatic fluid into this organ one can readily see that anything that deteriorates these fluids or changes their natural course produces serious results, such as inflammation of the duodenum with all the symptoms of dyspepsia, but with this difference: In dyspepsia the distress comes on immediately, while in affection of the duodenum the distress is not experienced for an hour or more. The first step taken by Dr. E. B. Smith for Mr. Berry was to remove three large pile tumors. He then administered two magnetic treatments, each three to four times a week. The result was MAGICAL. Mr. Berry had gained eighteen pounds of flesh and is now convalescent. To see that he is really and truly cured, he has been discharged from the hospital and is at his home, and he is now in the highest and best of health. Consultations free, office hours 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.

"I was feeling as miserable as any one could feel, tired all the time, many times unable to go out on the street even after I had started.
