WHAT WERE POLICE FOR?

Question That Puzzled the Court in the Senside Athletie Club Case.

New York, June 14.-The Seaside Athletic club of Coney Island having been 55c refused a license by Mayor Schrieren. of Brooklyn, applied to Judge Gaynor, of the supreme court, for a mandamus 75c to compel the mayor to issue the license. The mandamus case was argued before Judge Gaynor today and after the hearing of the case the judge said:

"I will undoubtedly grant the mandamus for this license, unless it is clearly shown that the law has been violated. A license is permission to do a lawful thing. The civil authorities can't throw this on the courts. They must act. It seems preposterous, if what the police allege took place there, that there were no arrests made. I can't understand It. What were the police there for?" Judge Gaynor, however, reserved decision to give the lawyers time to hand

After the mandamus proceedings in court the officials of the Seaside club held a meeting and after a lengthy discussion they came to the conclusion that it would be best for them not to have the fight which was to have taken place there tonight between Dixon and Erne. It was therefore indefinitely

CORNELL WINS EASILY.

University of Pennsylvania Is Just Eight Boat Lengths Behind in the Freshmen

Ithaca, N. Y., June 14.-Once again is the blue and red of the University of Pennsylvania trailing under the red and white of Cornell, for in the boat race between the freshmen crews of the two universities today Cornell won easily by eight lengths in 11 minutes.

The excitement before the race was intense, because it was believed that the contest would be close.

Pennsylvania had the inside course, but there was not much choice in this. as the water was perfectly caim. Pennsylvania started with their long graceful sweep at thirty-six strokes to the minute, while Cornell started with the rapid and telling Courtney stroke of forty-four. For a while the boats were pulling together nicely, but gradually Cornell began to pull away inch by inch. Then Pennsylvania went to pieces. Lister, at No. 2, "caught a crab," and falling back into the boat the whole swing of the boat was upset, and it was a few seconds before Pennsylvania gathered themselves together again. When they did so, it was only dent. President R. M. Olyphant, of the to go through just such another exhibition again, to he repeated a third time a little further on. It was all done by Lister at No. 2. Pennsylvania tried desperately to make the defeat as short a distance as possible. Just before they were to cross the line, No. 2 again 'caught a crab," and went on his back and stayed. This so startled No. 1 that he ceased to pull, and the Pennsylvania boys went over the line with only six men pulling at the oars-in II minutes, 42 seconds-just eight boat lengths behind Cornell. The distance was two miles
