WILKES-BARRE

[The Tribune has opened a branch office at No. 29. Laning building. Public Square, Wilkes-Barre, for the transaction of business. The publishers propose to extend the circulation of The Tribune in Wilkes-Barre and surrounding towns, and to that end will present a very complete department of Luzerne county news.
For success in this undertaking dependence is placed solely upon the superiority of The Tribune as a purveyor of all the news of the day—domestic, foreign, local, commercial and financial. The general interests of the people of Wilkes-Barre and the Wyoming valley will have in The Tribune an earnest advocate, editorially and otherwise. It is the purpose of the publishers to issue a newspaper as valuable to the general public as the metropolitan dalles, and deliver it to the people throughout northeastern Pennsylvania from three to five hours earlier than the Philadelphia and New York papers can reach them.]

Developments Before the Alderman-The

Coroner's Inquest Today. Yesterday morning a big crowd was present in the mayor's office to attend he hearing of the accused persons in the Yiesty murder case, in which Yiesty was killed and coal thrown on him in the Blackman mine, as described in yesterday's Tribune. When the hear-ing was about to be begun, Assistant Superintendent Chase, of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, told the mayor | force only until Judge Rice hands down that if murder had been done in the mine it was 150 feet beyond the city line, and therefore out of his jurisdiction. Mayor Nichols then sent the accused before 'Squire Thomas, Chief Briggs being the prosecutor and Mayor Nichols F. G. Snechte; St. John Baptist, Christ the examiner. The hearing took place in 'Squire Thomas' little office, which was crowded with people.

The accused persons, five in number, all pleaded not guilty. They were not good English speakers, and Joseph set a loaded gondola in the switch, Paukztis, of Edwardsville, was sworn is interpreter. John Hughes, the pumprunner of the Blackman mine, was breaker bumped four other cars against he first man sworn. He said that Anthony Zenitz, who is suspected of having killed Yiesty, came to him on Friday evening and said his "butty" had been shot, by which Mr. Hughes understood that he had been killed by a in a few minutes the car was moving remature shot. Hughes said he went back with Anthony and found Ylesty dead, under half a dozen or more lumps of coal weighing about thirty pounds apiece. Zenitz would not touch the dead man. When found, his clothes were on fire in two places, and Hughes extinguished the flames and saw that the body was taken home in an ambulance. The body laid fifteen feet from the face of the chamber and there were signs of a shot having been recently Doylestown-St. Joseph. Louis Waer- fired. The hat and the lamp lay ahead of the deceased, and the coal found Allentown-Henry Schmittmann, Joseph on him could not have possibly fallen from the roof, as it is solid rock in this place. After taking the body home, the the foreman, and John Wilson, a foreman, who assisted him, all went back to work. Arthony remained at the house with the corpse. The wife did husband's tragic death. Thomas R. Thomas, the mine foreman, was examined and said that the ccused man and the dead man worked in two chambers thirty feet apart. He said that he (Mr. Thomas) had examined the chamber and found that two shots had been fired, one in the per, and the latter one might have thrown the coal on the body as it lay. Deceased had worked a month in these mines. George Bonsavage told the witness that when he and the other miner left, only Zenitz and Yiesty were left behind in the mines. Reese Thomas, son of the witness, saw the dead man preparing a cartridge a little after 6 clock Friday evening. Probably the most important witness of the day was Roman Dausher, the undertaker. He said that Anna, wife of the dead man, and John Osbein, one of the accused, came to him on Friday night and the woman said her husband had been killed in the mines, and wanted the witness to bury the body. Went at once to the house, and found the body on the floor under a blanket. It had been washed, and when Dansher asked who did it, the widow said the company's men. Mrs Yiesty refused to allow the clothes to be removed in order to embalm, saying they could be cut where necessary. She Discussion followed in clothes for the dead man, and wanted agreed on Sunday, as it was impossible day to bury the body, one of the Lithdered. Dansher then went for Dr. Weringiris, who cut a bullet from Dr. Hodge reported a charter which less been applied for the Law and moned and the arrests made. When witness asked the widow who had shot her husband, she said that maybe Joe Some more evidence was taken but it was merely corroborative of the foregoing, and 'Squire Thomas held all five

Yesterday morning a startling accident occurred on the Jersey Central railroad, and by a most fortunate combination of circumstances, no lives were lost or no damage was done.

A Lehigh Valley crew had been shifting at the Franklin colliery up along the mountain, back of the Empire, and holding it by means of small blocks under the wheels. The loaders at the the gondola, and it started away. Before anybody could catch it, the car was running down the branch at a high rate of speed. The grade of the Franklin branch is 100 feet to the mile, and at a tremendous rate of speed. It made the curve, ran clearly through the split switch and up the main track until it reached the Central depot in this city. Here it crashed into engine 208 which was standing on the track, and though the car had run over five miles, the force of the collision was sufficient to smash the pilot of the engine and derail the runaway car, scattering the coal in all directions. The engneer and fireman saw the car coming and jumped to save themselves. Fortunately the main track was clear, and a bad accident was averted.

Found in the River.

Early yesterday morning some me employed on the Pennsylvania railroad found a body in the river. The men were on the work train, just north of Retreat, and saw the body floating with the feet caught in some drift-wood. They stopped the train and put the body on board and carried it to the poor farm, at Retreat. The coroner held an inquest on it, and the jury rendered a verdict of death by drowning There were no marks or wounds on the water for some time. The corpse was that of a Hungarian, and was partial-
