PADDEN ADMITS HE IS GUILTY

McNally Elects to Let a Jury Pass Upon His Case-Sensational Proceedings in Which Young People from Archbald Are Mixed Up.

A novel scene was witnessed in quarter sessions court yesterday during the trial of Michael Padden, of Carbondale, and Martin McNally, of this city, who are charged with robbery. Their victim was Albert Wetherill, of Hamilton, Wayne county, a deaf mute. When on the stand he gave his testimony by movements of the lips and the sign language, his brother interpreting it for the jury.

He positively identified the defendant as the person who, on March 21, forcibly relieved him of his overcoat, watch, $12 in money, over shoes and gloves. His story of the occurrence was that on the day in question he came to this city and met the accused on Lackawanna avenue. They induced him to accompany them to the Delaware and Hudson freight station, where they put him in a freight car and robbed him.

Witnesses were also placed on the stand who swore that the accused sold them the articles taken from Wetherill. Entered a Plea of Guilty.

Before the commonwealth rested yesterday afternoon Padden withdrew his plea of not guilty and substituted one of guilty. McNally, however, decided to allow the jury to dispose of his case. Padden was represented by Attorney R. A. Zimmerman, McNally by Attorney T. R. Martin, and the commonwealth by District Attorney John R. Jones. The prosecution rested before court adjourned.

In the case against John Kelly, charged with assault and battery, was called. It was learned that the prosecutrix, Annie Gudy, is in Europe. A verdict of not guilty was taken and the costs placed on the county.

In the cases against William Daley, who was charged with assault and battery on Josephine and Leola Shuff, for verdict of not guilty were taken and the prosecutrix in each case directed to pay the costs.

Burgess Admitted His Guilt. Henry Burgess was tried before Judge Albright in court room No. 2 for having wronged Mary Knatt under promise of marriage. The story of the prosecutrix was that in December, 1892, Burgess promised to marry her and through that promise obtained her consent to criminal acts which continued for some time. In October, 1894, she gave birth to a child of which she declares Burgess is the father. The commonwealth failed to make out a case so far as the first count of the indictment was concerned and the defendant then pleaded guilty to a lesser charge in the same indictment. Attorneys T. J. Duggan and Attorney Oliver conducted the prosecution and attorney A. A. Chase defended Burgess.

Ferdinando Arrington failed to appear to answer a charge of embezzlement preferred by Salvatore Amello, and his bail was forfeited. Peter Ferella was his bondsman. Arrington took $30 from the prosecutrix to send to Europe, but it failed to reach its destination.

In the morning the case of A. C. Stanton, charged with forgery by Gostor Kamrath, was called for trial, and the defendant failing to appear his bail was forfeited. During the afternoon it was brought to the attention of the court that the case had been settled and the forfeiture was stricken off.

Only Threw a Stone. Martin Farrell was charged before Judge Albright by Mrs. Catherine Welsh with breaking the doors and windows of her house. Farrell was living with the prosecutrix and they had a dispute. To be reconciled in the matter, Mrs. Welsh alleges that Farrell threw stones through the doors and windows. The defendant denied having broken either doors or windows, but admitted that he threw a stone at the house.

In the main court room yesterday morning the trial of Daniel Shay, Patrick Maloney and Thomas Gorman, the Minooka boys who are charged with having given John Hartnell a pipe filled with powder to smoke, was resumed. Their defense was that on the day in question a boy named Buckley gave them the pipe. They did not know it was loaded and Shay started towards a house to light it. He met young Hartnell, who said he had a pipe to smoke, thereupon gave Hartnell the pipe to light and an explosion followed a moment later. A verdict of not guilty was returned and the costs placed on the defendants.

Unsavory Archbald Case. Anthony Duffy, a headless Archbald boy, was put on trial before Judge Albright, charged with forcibly violating Miss Kate Martin. The young woman is 19 years of age, but looks much younger. She appeared on the stand in very girlish attire, wearing spring-heeled shoes and her auburn hair in a braid down her back.

She showed no embarrassment while relating the delicate details of her story, and her pert and saucy answers to Attorney E. C. Newcomb, counsel for the defendant, during the cross-examination, caused many a broad smile. In brief, her story was that Duffy paid her attention, while his friend, Andrew Loftus, waited on Miss Bridget Dougher. One night in October last, the quartette went for a stroll along the Delaware and Hudson gravity road at Archbald.

of your business." When they started home she saw that Miss Martin's hair was disarranged and her clothing torn. She was in the same condition herself, but did not like to state the reason for it, as it might give scandal. The case will be resumed this morning.

During the week District Attorney Jones has disposed of about 100 of the 117 cases on the list for trial.
