WILL GO TO JURY TODAY

All of the Testimony in Case Against Hewitts Has Been Heard.

TESTIMONY TO THE DEFENSE

It Was to the Effect That the Stench Is Not a Nuisance and That the Place Is Complained of Comes from Other Sources.

There was a large number of the residents of Taylor and Felzville in court room No. 2 yesterday to listen to the testimony in the proceedings that seek to have the loud-smelling desiccating works of E. H. and W. H. Hewitt, near Felzville, declared a public nuisance. After court opened in the morning the work of taking testimony adduced on the part of the commonwealth was resumed. Miss Ingles, a school teacher at Felzville for the last six years, who lives about a mile from the Hewitt works, said that on several occasions she was sickened by the offensive odors from the factory, and that many times it was necessary to close the doors and windows of their house to keep out the vile smell. John W. Reese, Mr. Owens, Mr. Gilmartin and Mr. Cassidy, all of Oak street, also testified to the annoyance caused by the Hewitt works. At this point the commonwealth rested.

Ex-Judge Ward opened the case for the defense and then W. H. Hewitt was put on the stand. He said that thirteen years ago they established their plant where it is today, the place being then a wilderness and that many times he never detected any odors from their works on the public highway. Night soil has been dumped within 400 or 500 feet of their works and on the east side of the main road leading from Hyde Park to Taylor, from which a very offensive odor arose.

Decayed Cabbage Was the Cause. Near their works there are a number of fields of cabbage. This cabbage was allowed to remain until it became decayed and from it a stench arose which may have been the cause of the annoyance suffered by the people of Taylor and Felzville. Their works are kept clean and a very large quantity of lime is spread about the premises to prevent any odors. Recently they have put in new machinery which absolutely prevents odors spreading from the works. E. A. Bart, the civil engineer, presented a map of the premises showing its location. S. B. Tripp swore that he visited Hewitt's place within two weeks and discovered an odor while going toward the building. There was no unpleasant smell whatever in the building in which the new machinery is located.

Chemist Charles Koempel said he visited the buildings occupied by the Hewitts plant. He found no odor around the buildings, but inside there was a slightly disagreeable smell. With the present machinery and process of operation he was of the opinion that no odors of any account could arise from the works. Dr. Helmer, a veterinary surgeon, swore that he had occasion to go to the Hewitt place frequently to hold post mortem examinations on horses, but never detected any disagreeable stench outside the buildings.

The Other Cases Assigned. Mrs. Andrew Friedel never suffered annoyance from what Assistant District Attorney Harris calls the "Hewitt smell." She had been annoyed, however, by the stench from pig pens and outbuildings which line the creek that flows through Felzville. The testimony of Thomas Bowen, who was employed by the Hewitts as a stone mason, was to the effect that the works were odorless. Mr. Jones, of Bellevue Heights, knew little about the Hewitt works, neither did William Fry, a butcher.

William Jones, John F. Roach, Edwin Williams and W. H. Decker gave testimony that was favorable to the prosecution rather than to the defense. The latter rested with their testimony and court adjourned for the day. This morning ex-District Attorney John P. Kelly will make the closing address to the jury for the defendants and Assistant District Attorney John H. Harris will close to the jury for the commonwealth. Joseph Kristnock was found guilty of keeping a tipping house in the Eighteenth ward of this city. The prosecutor was Special Officer Joseph Strol, who swore that he bought and drank ale in Kristnock's place. The defendant tried to make the jury believe that he had one barrel of ale in the house to treat his friends, but it refused to do so.

Laybourn Pleaded Guilty. John Laybourn, the proprietor of the Palatine hotel, at Providence, was in court yesterday morning when it opened. He did not look a bit like a sick man, although the day before his counsel presented a physician's certificate to the effect that he was unable to be in court. When Laybourn saw the formidable array of witnesses that County Detective Leyshon had marshaled, he decided to plead guilty. Sentence will be imposed Saturday.

The sale will take place next Wednesday. E. E. Greiner was tried for assaulting and battering Mrs. A. E. Jones, of Peckville, and the jury was out deliberating on the case when court adjourned. Peter Hamm, of the South Side, was found guilty of having assaulted Emil Bauer, Mary Weiman for larceny and receiving, and a verdict of not guilty was taken. When court adjourned Mary Gaffney and Hugh Gaffney were on trial.
